U.S. Reveals Highest Casualty Total of War

144 Americans Killed in Vietnam Fighting in Week; Additional 1,044 Wounded

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headquarters announced today that American forces in Vietnam suffered nearly 1,200 casualties last week, their highest weekly total of the Vietnam war.

The U. S. command said 144 men were killed, 1,044 were wounded and six were missing in the week that ended at midnight Saturday. The previous high was in the week ending last September 24, when 970 Americans were killed, wounded or missing.

Many of last week's casualties were sustained in Operation Cedar Falls in the iron triangle north of Saigon, the biggest ground sweep of the war. While there were no large-scale battles, there were numerous small clashes and the number of men deployed — estimated at more than 30,000 — exceeded any operation of the war.

Steady Pace

B52 bombers struck at Communist fortifications and tunnels at noon on the northern edge of the iron triangle 29 miles northnorthwest of Saigon The raid, the 13th by the B52s in support of the vast sweep operation, destroyed 12 buildings, 325 feet of trenches, 59 bunkers and three tunnels, a U.S. spokesman reported.

Small ground skirmishes also continued in the iron triangle, and U.S. forces reported the toll of enemy dead since the operation started Jan. 8 had risen to 524. with a record 3,170 tons of rice seized and 421 weapons captured.

Over North Vietnam, U.S. pilots hammered at important railroad yards and rail bridges northeast and northwest of Hanoi Wednesday and flew 109 strike missions. It was the largest number of missions since Jan. 4, when U.S. pilots flew 116 against the North.

Racial Clash Nearly Erupts At San Quentin

Convicts Herded Back to Cells After Prison Confrontation

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Guards firing rifles, shotguns and tear-gas canisters prevented a racial clash between 2,800 white and Negro convicts in the San Quentin Prison yard Wednesday night as the two groups came to within 50 feet of each other.

Eight convicts suffered gunshot wounds during the tense hours following a glaring facedown of the two groups. Five others suffered head wounds from beatings by other convicts. Two men incurred heart attacks.

The confrontation included one group of more than 1,000 whites and Mexican-Americans and another group of about 1,800 Negroes.

Fatal Beating

Officials said the turmoil grew out of the fatal beating and stabbing of a white prisoner last Monday.

Trouble started after lunch Wednesday, said Associate Warden James W. L. Park, when inmates entered the football field-sized yard. Whites and Mexican-Americans gathered on one side, Negroes on the other. They drew closer, hurling curses across the no-man's-land. Elsewhere on the grounds of the 40-acre prison, another 1,200 inmates tended to their duties.

With the angry convicts separated by only 50 feet, Warden Lawrence E. Wilson mounted the gunwall surrounding the yard and ordered, "Knock it off and go back to your cells."

There was silence, and no one moved.

Armed With Pipes

Park said many of the men had armed themselves with pipes from plumbing ripped from prison facilities, and clubs from benches torn apart in the yard. A temporary classroom building made of wood was set ablaze.

Finally, tear-gas canisters were thrown and the Negroes, prodded by warning shots whin-

Kennedy Defends Haircut

Bobby-Pins for RFK?

WASHINGTON (AP)—A New Yorker — concerned about the image of the Empire State—has sent Sen. Robert F. Kennedy $2 for a haircut.

Emanuel F. Manheimer, 25, Ossining, N.Y., said Kennedy's bushy head had bothered him for some time. But seeing the senator on television last week on the night of President Johnson's State of the Union message really was the last straw, he said.

"It is irrelevant whether I am a registered Democrat or Republican," Manheimer wrote the New York Democrat Wednesday. "The only point is that I am and have been all my life a resident of the state of New York.

"I am enclosing a check in the amount of $2," he said, "to maintain an image that the country might have of the Empire State." He said that when he once worked as a state park employe his boss "wouldn't allow us to report to work like that."

Kennedy apparently was unconcerned.

"I got a haircut Monday. Tell Mr. Manheimer to watch me at my next public appearance," he said through an office spokesman.

The clip was anything but close.

Kennedy's bushy hair also draws some barbs from fellow senators.

When Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen arrived one day with his locks tousled more than usual, a colleague in the Senate chamber said, "You're looking more like Bobby every day!"

Quipped Dirksen:"Well, I thought we might as well have Beatles on each side of the aisle."

Machinists Threatening Railway Strike

Union Demanding Wage Increases Exceeding 5 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Machinists' Union, which staged history's biggest airlines strike last year, now is heading for a showdown with the nation's railroads.

President P.L. (Roy) Siemiller of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists says his union won't settle for the 5 per cent wage hike pattern other unions have accepted from the railroad industry.

"We'll take a strike on it unless they come up with more than 5 per cent," Siemiller told newsmen.

Same Position

He said the 43,000 railroad machinists are in much the same position as the 35,000 airline machinists before last summer's strike in falling behind other industries in wages.

The railroads, Siemiller said, once provided the highest paying jobs, but "the poorest job a machinist can get today is to go to the railroad industry."

A Machinists' spokesman said its members in the railroad industry earned $3.05 per hour, compared with $4 or more in most other industries.

The union's six-week strike against five major airlines last summer boosted top mechanics' pay in that industry from $3.52 to $4.08 per hour by the end of next year, plus cost-of-living wage hikes up to 6 cents an hour.

The airlines contract provided wage and fringe benefit increases variously estimated at 5 to 7 per cent.

Under delaying provisions of the Railway Labor Act, the government probably can stave off any railroad strike threat until next June.

Ford Says Johnson's Budget Can be Cut to Avoid Tax Hike

Top Republicans to Give Rebuttal to LBJ's Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said today "Congress can cut the President's budget sufficiently to avoid a tax increase." But until Congress gets the budget. he added, "it is impossible to be specific about budget cuts."

In reply to questions submitted by The Associated Press. Ford said his opposition to the President's proposal for a 6 per cent surcharge on corporate and most individual income taxes "is based on the economic indicators as they presently exist."

"Balancing the economy is more important than balancing the budget," he said.

GOP Response

Ford's views were given in advance of tonight's Republican response to President Johnson's State of the Union message. The Michigan Republican will outline the GOP domestic program and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen will discuss foreign affairs.

Dirksen told a reporter it was fair to say that he would give Johnson's Vietnam course a general endorsement but reserve the right to criticize particulars. He added he will have a great deal to say about other international actions.

Ford said that if Johnson had "set a ceiling of $130 billion or less on his budget," rather than putting it at $135 billion, "he then might not have been compelled to request a tax increase."

Tragir Mistake

In the Republican Congressional Committee "Newsletter" last week. Ford called the tax proposal a "tragic mistake" and said "the President has yet to present solid evidence that it is necessary."

Johnson said the surtax would bring in $4.5 billion in the fiscal year starting July 1, holding the estimated deficit in that year to $8.1 billion.

But Ford said "it seems clear that the proposed income tax increase is advanced as the vehicle for $4.5 billion in increased domestic spending."

And he said his opposition to what Johnson says is a tax intended to reduce the deficit does not mean he is "advocating a large deficit."

Byrnes Noncommittal

The senior Republican member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee took a more flexible position on the tax proposal.

"I just don't have enough facts to make a judgment," Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin said in an interview.

"It would be hard to tolerate a 12-15-18-20-billion dollar deficit," Byrnes added. "On the other hand, it might be better if the economy is shaky to tolerate a deficit of $6-7 billion than have a tax increase because of the effect it might have on the economy."

Many Republicans — and Democrats too — have issued statements criticizing the President's surtax proposal. Virtually all have contended that domestic spending cuts should come before Congress considers the tax hike. Few have said outright they will vote against the tax increase.

Mother Ruled Insane After 3 Drownings

SKOWHEGAN, Maine (AP) — A verdict of innocent by reason of insanity has acquitted Constance Fisher of murder charges brought for the bathtub drownings of her second three children in a repetition of the way her first three children died 12 years ago.

Mrs. Fisher, 38, was ruled insane after the first three children died, but was discharged from a mental hospital five years later as cured.

The second three children, about the same ages as the first three when they died, were Nathalie, 9 months, Kathleen, 6, and Michael, 4.

The final witness. Dr. Walter Rohm, a psychiatrist at Augusta State Hospital, testified that Mrs. Fisher suffered from a mental disease characterized by "desperate gloom" and thus had a "basic feeling of hopelessness, despair and pessimism."

Several Military Posts to be Joined

Pentagon Plans Yearly Savings Of $37 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon aims to save more than $37 million yearly by merging or phasing out 33 military bases and activities in the United States and six overseas facilities, it was learned today. More than 1,400 civilian jobs would be eliminated.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was to tell a news conference today about the new consolidation move, his sixth since 1961.

Informed sources said the new cutbacks also will involve the transfer of 3,000 other civilian employes and 1,700 military workers. The informants added, however, that all career civilian employes whose jobs will be eliminated by the new actions will be immediately offered different positions by the Defense Department.

The 33 cutbacks in the United States are spread unevenly across the nation, with Alabama, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Texas and Washington each losing three facilities. California, Massachusetts, New York and Ohio each will lose two facilities.

The largest savings — about $20.8 million annually — will be gained by phasing out all of the Navy's antisubmarine P5 seaplanes by 1968 and their support facilities at 12 bases around the world. Informants emphasized that the phaseout of the seaplanes will not shut down overall activities of the air bases.

They added that McNamara's decision to cut out the seaplane operations was based on evidence indicating it is cheaper and easier to support similar antisubmarine operations with land-based planes.

8 Communication Satellites Aloft

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Eight new communications satellites spun around the globe today, undergoing tests to qualify them as carriers of secret messages between far-flung U.S. military bases.

The eight were launched from Cape Kennedy Wednesday by an Air Force Titan 3 rocket that sprayed them like buckshot into separate orbits 21,000 miles up. They joined seven other identical payloads sent up last June.

The first seven already are speeding messages among eight ground stations. Emphasis is on traffic between Washington and Vietnam.

A 29-Year-Old French freelance journalist, Michele Ray, is being sought today along the central South Vietnamese coast after being reported missing on an auto trip alone from the southern tip of South Vietnam to the demilitarized zone. Here she is in the village of Ben Cui II north of Saigon two months ago. It was feared she had fallen into the hands of the Viet Cong. Her parents in Nice, France, intimated that she might have planned to be kidnaped in order to get stories and pictures of the guerrilla side of the war. (AP Wirephoto)

Searchers Seek Lost Plane Over Caribbean

Heiress, Husband Reported Missing In Small Craft

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Planes are searching between Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands for the only daughter of one of the world's richest women, missing in a small twin-engine plane with her husband and a pilot.

Audrey Bruce Currier, a granddaughter of Andrew W. Mellon, and her husband, Stephen R. Currier, were last heard from Tuesday night 30 minutes after the Piper Apache took off from San Juan for a 70-mile hop to St. Thomas, in the Virgin Islands. The pilot was John D. Watson, 52, of Airplane Charters Inc., the owner of the plane.

More than 20 planes and ships spent all Wednesday fanning over the eastern Caribbean. But they found no trace of the heiress to an estimated $700-million share of the vast Mellon financial empire or her husband, 36, a philanthropist and sponsor of civil rights causes.

Planes kept up the hunt throughout the night and the air-sea search resumed at daylight today.

Mrs. Currier, 33, is the daughter of David K.E. Bruce, U.S. ambassador to Britain, and Ailsa Mellon Bruce, the only daughter of the Pittsburgh tycoon who was U.S. secretary of the treasury from 1921 until 1932.

The Curriers, who maintained homes in New York and The Plains, Va., flew from Miami to San Juan Tuesday to start a 10-day vacation cruise in the West Indies. A 150-foot yacht and a 50-foot sloop chartered by couple for the cruise are tak part in the search.

Snow Possible Friday

Valley Expects -2 Tonight

The arctic wave which struck the midwest this week has not left. the weatherman says. He adds, however. that the 20 - below temperatures which the Fox Valley experienced probably have left.

The expected low reading tonight is about 2 degrees below zero and it should reach 15 above Friday, about the same as today. In addition, light snow is in the forecast for Friday. The snow which blanketed the Valley Wednesday night and this morning amounted to one-half an inch.

The Wisconsin Highway Patrol reported that major roads in the state had scattered slippery spots today, except in tne southeast. The light snow brought about the conditions and in some areas the spots were numerous.

Light snow was falling at mid-morning today at Eau Claire, Wausau, Green Bay, Stevens Point and Oshkosh.

Temperatures, which 24 hours earlier were all below zero, ranged from 12 above at La Crosse to 15 below at Superior at 8 a.m.

Fifteen below at Superior also was the state's lowest reading during the night. Green Bay and Wausau had a minimum of 14 below. Eau Claire 8 below. Lone Rock 7 below. Park Falls 5 below, Madison 3 below, Milwaukee zero. La Crosse 2 above and Beloit 5. Appleton had 3 below.

Biting cold which numbed much of the Midwest in winter's iciest weather spread eastward today with the core of the arctic air centered in the Northeast.

The early morning reading at Bemus Point, in western New York near Jamestown, was -25 degrees. Much of western and northern New York shivered under subzero temperatures, as did parts of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and Pennsylvania. Marks of 10 to 20 degrees below zero were prevalent in northern New England with zero to 10 above in southern sections.

Light Winds Will Help Diminish Snap of Cold

Fox Cities — Low tonight, near -2; high Friday near 15. Partly cloudy with little change in temperature tonight. Moderate northwest winds diminishing to light northerly tonight. Chance of precipitation tonight, 10 per cent, and 20 per cent Friday.

Appleton — Observations for the past 24 hours show high, 12; low, -3. Barometer 30.30 and steady. Winds, southwest at 18 miles per hour. Relative humidity, 60. Dew point, 2. Skies partly cloudy

The Governor's Safety Message

Some listeners judged Gov. Warren Knowles' State of the State address to the legislature last week as bland and absent of any exciting sweeping new proposals. In that speech, the governor said he would devote a special message to the topic of highway safety because of its importance.

The governor's special message Tuesday filled the requirement of assigning top priority to highway safety legislation for this session, an assignment which must be met and be met without watering down eventual action which was the case two years ago. Gov. Knowles was correct in reporting that "an irate public demands action." And the tough and descriptive language of his address was suited to the call for action from the public.

Gov. Knowles has proposed bills covering 16 areas of traffic safety. Most of these are familiar because of discussion in the past legislative session, discussion in last fall's election campaign, and support from civic and safety groups.

The list includes an implied consent statute requiring agreement to take chemical tests for drunken driving as a condition of having a drivers license, mandatory driver education for all new license applicants, a 21 - year - old state minimum beer drinking age, yearly motor vehicle inspections, periodic re - examination of drivers to replace the state's all but automatic renewal procedure now, a 100-man increase in the state highway patrol, and special safety rules including the wearing of helmets for motorbike operators.

There were also some unexpected proposals. The governor has asked that the legal definition for driving while drunk be reduced from .15 per cent of alcoholic content of the blood to .10 per cent and that the penalty for drunken driving convictions be reduced from a one-year suspension of drivers license to a three-month suspension with the right to apply for an occupational-only license after two months.

Judgments on these proposals will have to await public hearings on the bills, particularly for the recommendation of redefining the legal definition of being drunk while driving. The case for reducing the penalty for drunken driving convictions is that the one - year suspension results in more long contested court cases with the chance of agreement on lesser charges. But there will be doubts that a reduction in the suspension period is the way to meet the goal of getting drunk drivers off the highways.

The most controversial part of the governor's safety package will be implied consent, which would suspend drivers licenses for three months if a driver refused to take a test.

The strongest argument against such a law is that it violates the constitutional right not to give evidence against one's self. But 16 states now have such laws, which have been upheld in the courts, and judicial safeguards like those proposed in the past campaign by former Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey can be built into such a law. The basic issue is attacking the problem of drinking drivers and defining a condition for being granted a drivers license.

The same objective of improving highway safety applies to a statewide uniform minimum beer drinking age. The consideration of local tavern licensing rights has been replaced by one of ending teen-age drivers searching out "beer islands."

Despite the public support Gov. Knowles was able to report, winning approval of the sweeping safety package will not be simple. There will be worry from some drivers about implied consent and license re-examination, there will be disagreement on procedures, there will be commercial pressures against a minimum beer drinking age, and there will be political pressures against a larger state police force.

But Gov. Knowles was correct in saying "piecemeal efforts will not work." Highway safety is one of the ranking problems before state governments today. The Wisconsin Legislature must accept the challenge.

The Age of Man

A new discovery by anthropologists now dates man back possibly as long as 2½ million years ago. But there are many gaps in man's history that have yet to be filled.

The layman may wonder how the single piece of an elbow bone, no larger than three or four inches, can possibly be used as conclusive proof or even reasonable suggestion that it belonged to a man-like creature that walked upright, so many centuries ago. But two particular scientific means have been used to date the fragment which was discovered by Prof. Bryan Patterson of Harvard's Museum of Comparative Zoology a year and a half ago. The extensive study of the fragment and various ramifications held up the announcement until last week.

The find was made in Kenya in somewhat the same area of the world as the earlier discovery in Olduvai Gorge of human type remains that dated back 1.75 million years. The elbow bone was found on what had been the bank of an ancient lake at a time of high volcanic activity. The lava, which contained potassium, made it possible to date the fragment because of the radioactivity decay of the potassium. In this analysis it is conceded that there may be an error of as much as 200,000 years but in anthropological history this is but a short day. The time also was established because the magnetism of the lava was polarized in the opposite direction than that of today and such reverse polarization is known to have begun about 2½ million years ago.

What sort of creature was this Kanapoi Hominid who lived in part of the Pleistocene era along with saber-toothed tigers and mastodons? The scholars say he walked upright and that his body structure was more like a man than an ape in all probability. But there are wide gaps on both sides of his chronological history. His nearest older relatives are Ramapithecus and Kenyapithecus but they lived 14 million years ago. And more familiar finds like Java and Peking Man lived only 750.-000 years ago. The oldest being classed as really Homo Sapiens is a Cro-Magnon type found in France and who is only 40,000 years old.

Every such find as Kanapoi Hominid brings up the fascinating questions of man's development over immense periods of time. And as usual each new discovery seems to raise more questions than it answers.

Another Dole for India

Last month President Johnson ordered an end to the freeze upon shipments of grain and other food surpluses to India and some 900,000 tons of grain were hastily dispatched to the nation in serious danger of widespread famine. What is not at all clear is exactly why the freeze was originally imposed and what the results have been.

The Johnson Administration has been understandably concerned about the failure of many of the underdeveloped countries to use the various grants and loans from the United States in the most efficient and effective manners. There have been waste, efforts to build temporary prestige rather than long range and well conceived programs, and some inclination to rely upon the gifts instead of trying to remedy outmoded policies at home. In India, for instance, there has not been extensive efforts to increase agricultural production through the wise use of fertilizer and better seed programs. The amount of grain which goes to India's stray cows, considered holy by the Hindus, has also annoyed some Americans.

The freeze had the effect of forcing India to look elsewhere for help. The Soviet Union announced that 200,000 tons of grain would be dispatched in December. Hopefully some of India's foot dragging in helping itself will have been encouraged. But there is certainly no sign that any other relatively wealthy countries are remotely concerned.

President Johnson has now sent Eugene Rostow of the State Department to seven other countries to try to persuade them to help out in the case of India. France has both food and capital, West Germany and Italy have capital, Japan has fertilizer, and other nations on the list — Great Britain, Belgium and the Netherlands — could help in lesser amounts. Rostow is not scheduled to visit Argentina but that country has a considerable amount of surplus grain. Canada has already contributed about 250,000 tons.

But India has been pleading for help for almost two years with dire warnings about the famine conditions that were to come. There is no sign that Mr. Rostow's tour will loosen any purse strings or soften any hearts but certainly it is worth a try.

What is obvious is that India's plight is no temporary or unusual matter. A considerable part of Asia is regularly beset with serious food shortages. Much of it does not have the capital needed for the vast amounts of machinery, fertilizer and improved seeds to remedy the situation. Malnutrition and outright starvation are close by to millions of people in that part of the world. But so far there has been no really sound solution proposed.

Indian officials are reportedly resentful about the American freeze on the grounds that they were humiliated into having to beg for assistance. Of far greater import, however, is the effect the freeze may have had politically upon the government of Madame Nehru. The Communists could do no better but famine is a fine situation for political leverage. They even have ears of corn on their pictorial symbol for the national elections coming up next month.

The two-pronged attack upon food problems of Asia — increased food production and family planning — is a good one. But it is obviously going to take a long time to perfect.

Internal Troubles in China Give U.S. Opportunity to Settle War

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — Unfamiliarity with most of the players, not to mention the bizarre nature of the play, makes what is now going on in China seem impossibly remote.

But if only because of Vietnam, the Chinese developments are closely connected with things this country has done, ought to do now, and could do in the future.

To be sure, the Chinese troubles are primarily local in origin. The present struggle, indeed, arises from the nature and history of communism in China.

On the one side, there is the Maoist faction, including party chairman, Mao Tse-tung, his wife, and his former secretary, Chen Po-ta. They are acting to revive and project beyond the time when Mao dies, the atmosphere of harsh struggle and primitive revolutionary elan that marked the heroic days of the long march and the wartime resistance in Yenan.

BOMBING POSED ISSUE

On the other side are most of the regular party leaders including President Liu Shao-chi and the party secretary, Teng Hsiao-ping. Though hard-line Communists, they apparently want to avoid any repetition of the disastrous Great Leap Forward which, in the name of revolutionary elan, they supported back in 1958. In that sense, they are revisionists.

The underlying tension between those two groups was forced to the surface in 1965. The occasion apparently was the American bombing of North Vietnam. For the bombing posed for the Chinese military and political leadership the problem of a direct engagement with the United States.

One school of thought in the army, speaking through the now deposed chief of staff, Lo Jui-ching, evidently envisaged a modern war waged around the edges of China with sophisticated weapons obtained from the Soviet Union. Another view, articulated by Defense Minister Lin Piao in a famous speech in September, 1965, favored a hedgehog defense, fought from village to village in the interior of China along the classic guerrilla lines.

The Maoists lined up around Defense Minister Lin Piao. In order to create the conditions for a return to guerrilla resistance, they started the Great Cultural Revolution and then the Red Guards.

The revisionists first tried to control the Cultural Revolution, and then moved to resist the Red Guards. At that point, sometime last August, the struggle was on. It has widened and deepened steadily ever since.

The deepening of the struggle puts Washington in the presence of an immediate opportunity. While neither faction in China wants to come to terms with the United States, nor to favor settlements by anybody else, the internal division makes it impossible for them to enforce their views. For the time being, the Chinese leaders are too deeply engaged in local business to have much impact on events beyond their borders.

MOMENT IS NOW

North Vietnam, accordingly, has at least a temporary respite from the intense Chinese pressure to which she is subject by force of geography. If it is ever possible to reach a settlement of the Vietnamese war with Hanoi, the moment is now when Peking is otherwise occupied.

That condition, which is being heavily stressed in Washington by UN Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, makes it urgent to read the various smoke signals currently emanating from Hanoi. It makes it ridiculous to throw wet towels at the smoke in the fashion of the first official reaction to the reports from Hanoi by Harrison Salisbury of the New York Times.

The long-term prospect, especially if the immediate opportunity is missed, seems to me grim. Trouble in Peking tends to mean trouble between China and her neighbors, including Russia, India and Japan. I do not believe the United States could easily stand aloof from any direct engagement involving those giants.

The American interest lies in the harmonious development of a stable, prosperous and independent China. Interference with that process can bring joy only to those who make their fortunes or get their kicks against a background of international cataclysm. And at the very least, it seems to me, the correct American course is to do nothing that would intensify and enflame difficulties in China.

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Jan. 26, 1857.

At Shullsburg, La Fayette County, out among the lead miners, 11 Odd Fellows, men living on daily wages, recently started a circulating library, with the purpose of placing the books in the hands of the miners, to enable them to improve their minds at their homes, and thus become happier men.

This movement has incited similar enterprises in different portions of the State, and already we hear of an Odd Fellows Library in one place, a Good Templars Library in another etc., etc. It is well.

Such libraries should be established by some kind of association in every village, and where it is possible, a reading room should be attached.

Appleton, we regret to say, does not possess a Circulating Library. Many of our citizens, as a favor, have access to the University Library; but that does not reach our masses.

Will not some benevolent society supply the want? Few would refuse to contribute to so worthy an object.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Jan. 15, 1942.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt established the War Production Board (WPB) that day. Donald Nelson had been picked by the president to head the new unit.

At Little Chute, Anton "Casey" Jansen brought the first auto use stamp when they officially went on sale at the post office. The second buyer was Dr. Joseph Doyle Jr.

Eighty-one young salesmen, all Post-Crescent carriers, were organized into a new salesmanship venture under the leadership of Erban Krueger of the newspaper's circulation department. The youngsters were organized to sell United States defense stamps in Appleton along with the delivery of their papers.

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Jan. 17, 1957.

The week-long cold wave eased a little in the Fox Cities area, moving eastward with its blows. The temperature in Appleton reached a 6 below zero at midnight with the snow on the ground at about six inches.

Penny counters at Fox Valley Lutheran High School that day were students Bill Abitz, Duane Albrecht, Yvonne Kegel, Karla Falck and Mari Zirbel. The high school students in the various classes set a goal of one million pennies to swell the building fund for the new structure going up on the north side of the school. The junior class already had collected an estimated 10,000 pennies.

Daryl Hoh was a member that year of the 70-piece Valparaiso Band on tour of four Michigan cities. Hoh played the trumpet in the concert band. He was a freshman student in the College of Engineering.

Wisconsin Report

Issue of Shared Taxes Gladly Postponed for Study of Legislature

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Those Wisconsin mayors who may have believed that the new legislature would act to relieve some of their financing and taxing problems saw the idea go glimmering when the joint Legislative Council turned aside the question in a typical and classical maneuver.

The council, with the urging of Gov. Knowles, decided that the problems in local finance and taxation require careful study and that the study will take at least a year and can best be managed by another "blue ribbon" commission of private citizens, experts and legislators in their part-time capacity.

The deadline for the completion of the report was set at January, 1968. Since the legislature by the words of its own leaders intends to end its deliberations many months before that, the study decision means that any tangible proposal for local government taxation succor will come before the 1969 legislature, in the most optimistic conjecture.

The merit of the mayor's petition aside, it is crystal clear that this legislature is in no mood to undertake the resolution of the local tax dilemma at a time when it has deep doubts that it can accommodate its own job of writing a reasonable budget of state expenditures within an already high level of state revenue laws.

OTHER REASONS LISTED

Yet the consignment of the state tax-sharing and aids question to a doubtful fate at the hands of an interim study commission is not entirely a matter of equivocation and evasion on the part of the legislative leaders. Quite obviously, they were glad to get rid of the issue. When Knowles indicated a willingness to bear the onus for any delay, they eagerly followed his lead.

But there were objectively sound reasons for putting off the question for more deliberation also. The last comparative study of the finance needs and the taxing problems of Wisconsin municipalities on the whole was undertaken about half a dozen years ago. Those findings are no longer relevant not only because of the vast changes in local tax rates since that time, and the availability of more federal aids, but because the state during that intervening period has also provided generous additional assistance to local treasuries.

There is the state underwriting of more than half of the local personal property tax levy, which has reduced local taxpayer burdens substantially. There is the sharing of substantial shares of the new sales tax income for the stabilization of local property tax rates. School aids have been boosted in every recent legislature, and now stand at the highest level, in percentage of local school disbursement, in Wisconsin experience and quite beyond the ratio that the school lobby even dared hope to achieve a decade ago. The new medical care program of the national government has cut local government public assistance liability in enormous amounts.

RISE EVERYWHERE

The sober fact is that taxation problems are becoming more severe at all levels of government and that they will become yet more severe before they are stabilized. It is natural that city hall officials have a parochial view of the issue, even as state officials tend to be provincial in their attitudes toward national government finance policies.

Yet the fact is that the state which is being besieged for local tax relief action has increased its state tax levies at a considerably more rapid rate than have the localities. As the state has entered the sales tax field and has broadened the base of its income taxation and levied new excises, it has tapped most the same general taxpayer who is the target of the local property tax rise.

It is not generally acknowledged, or perhaps even known, but the ratio of local property taxation has steadily declined — to a record low ratio of about 40 per cent of the whole — while the ratio of state taxes, and notably income taxes, to the whole state-local revenue budget has risen without interruption for several decades.

TV Studio Has Cool Precision Of Flight Center — Almost

MADISON (AP)—The control room of the television studio where Gemini astronaut James Lovell wound up his Wisconsin homecoming Wednesday bore a surface resemblance to a space center.

The same precision, the same poise were there as the minutes clicked off the clock — or were they there?

4:36 p.m. — Director: "Testing, testing. Governor, can we have a word from you?"

Governor: "My name is Warran Knowles and I say, 'Keep the faith, baby.'"

4:37 p.m. — Director: "Would you roll those tapes? . . . Video, would you roll those tapes?"

Video: "Okay, okay, when you run three cameras, you can't do 'em all at once. Keep your shirt on."

4:38 p.m. — Audio: "All I'm getting is tone."

Director: "You're not supposed to be getting anything yet."

Audio: "Well, if I'm not getting it, who is?"

Director: "Ready for countdown . . . countdown . . . roll it."

Audio cuts in: "All I'm getting is tone!"

Director: "Cut! Cut it! What's wrong with audio?"

4:50 p.m. — Underway now and six minutes into the interview, being taped for showing one night later.

Newsman: "Capt. Lovell, this morning, you spoke to the legislator —

Moderator: "Pardon me, John. By the time this is broadcast, it will be yesterday morning."

Newsman: "Well — uh, well, then, yesterday morning you . . ."

5:08 p.m. — A newsman presses a question about unidentified flying objects.

Nothing Happened

Lovell: "I was up there 18 days and there was every opportunity for something to come and visit me. Nothing did."

5:14 p.m. — Newsman: "How in the world do you get any sleep up there?"

Lovell: "The first night of every space flight, no one gets very much sleep. But once you get used to it, it's very pleasant. Everything is floating. You just close your eyes and go to sleep. You don't have to maneuver around to get comfortable. Of course, you have to have complete faith in the space craft. . . ."

5:29 p.m. — Director: "Thirty seconds . . . 15 seconds . . . out. Out! Roll the film. We're right on time. We made it."

Quality of Garbage Collection Increasing

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — A storm and continuing cold weather slowed garbage collections recently in St. Joseph. But one customer felt that despite the complaints, the quality of the local garbage pickup service is improving.

He said that a few hours after phoning the local firm about collection difficulties, his garbage was picked up — not by a truck — but by a worker driving a Cadillac.

N. Koreans Sink Ship From South

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — North Korean shore batteries sank a 650-ton South Korean navy patrol ship off the east coast of Korea today and 28 crewmen are missing, the South Korean defense ministry announced.

The ministry said 51 crewmen were rescued quickly and U.S. and South Korean ships and planes were searching for the missing. But Defense Minister Kim Sung-eun said most of them were feared drowned.

reported very heavy antiaircraft fire around some targets. Hanoi claimed two American planes were shot down.

In ground action in South Vietnam, U.S. headquarters reported only patrol clashes apart from the iron triangle operation. South Vietnamese headquarters said government troops killed 24 Viet Cong in two engagements.

The total of 1,194 American casualties last week topped a previous high of 970 killed, wounded or missing during the week that ended last Sept. 24. The casualties last week included the highest number of wounded of any week of the war, exceeding the previous high of 825 during that same September week, and the third highest number of combat dead.

Ia Drang Battle

The week of the most American dead ended Nov. 20, 1965, when 240 were killed, most of them in the first battle of the Ia Drang Valley. In the week that ended last May 21, 146 U.S. troops were reported killed, two more than last week.

U.S. headquarters announced enemy dead last week totaled 1,176, double the total the week before, while South Vietnamese headquarters said its forces lost 197 killed and 45 missing.

Last week's casualties brought the total American casualties reported in the war to 6,875 dead and 39,261 wounded.

At 7:15 p.m., another staccato burst of shots rang out. Four men were wounded in this, it was explained, mostly around the legs. At about 8:30 p.m., guards began moving men back into their cells in groups of 25. And 2½ hours later all had been returned to cells and the prison was pronounced "secure."

Look Suing Daily News Over Book

NEW YORK (AP) — Look magazine is seeking damages in excess of $200,000 from the Chicago Daily News in a court suit charging the newspaper with unfair competition and infringement of copyright in publishing excerpts of the book, "The Death of a President."

Look filed separate lawsuits Wednesday against the Chicago Daily News in U. S. District Court in Chicago, and the German magazine Stern, in Hamburg, Germany, asking for damages and an injunction against both publications over the serialization of the book.

Look claimed that it had embargoed until Jan. 10 its press release detailing some aspects of the first installment of the book and that the Chicago Daily News prematurely published on Jan. 7 an "excessive amount of material" from the first installment.

Stern was accused in the suit of breach of contrart.

Local School Aids Bills Introduced

MADISON (AP)—Two bills to increase local school aids, rejected earlier by the Legislative Council, were introduced in the Assembly Wednesday by Democratic lawmakers.

One proposal would increase the level of state aid by $30.5 million in the 1967-69 spending period. The other would earmark about $5 million as special aid for schools with concentration of educationally deprived pupils.

Both proposals were recommended by the State Department of Public Instruction, but the council refused to agree to introduce them.

Democrats stressed last week after Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles' "State of the State" address that h ehad not recommended any school aid increase. The Democratic leaders said then they would introduce proposals seeking to ease local school tax burdens.

Republicans To Reorganize In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee County chapter of the Republican party, troubled by division for 15 years, is to be re-organized under a new constitution approved Wednesday by the GOP state committee.

Ody F. Fish, state Republican chairman, said he is pleased with the new constitution and said it provides "greater, genuine, grass-roots participation" by the county party's 24 units.

The units have yet to ratify the constitution. It needs two-thirds approval from them before going into effect. A new county chairman would be elected in April or May.

The county GOP split after the 1952 national elections, patched the division for a few years, then split in 1965 leading to the state party's revocation of the county group's charter.

The county has been the state's only county without a chartered Republican chapter.

Postal Official Urges Using Sand On Icy Sidewalks

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Sand on the sidewalk will help assure mail delivery, postal official says.

Theodore Fine, postal safety officer for Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, said falls suffered on icy sidewalks by mail carriers "contribute the largest number of disabling injuries in the region."

Fine, of Minneapolis, visited Milwaukee post offices Wednesday. He said the region had 63 postmen injuries from falls in the last six months compared to 52 injuries from lifting heavy objects and 18 in vehicle mishaps.

The rate of falls on icy or unshoveled walks and streets, he said, increases in January.

Sheboygan Vying With Muskegon For Sister City

SHEBOYGAN (AP) — The Common Council has proposed a bit of international harmony with Esslingen, West Germany — if Muskegon, Mich., doesn't get there first.

The council voted this week to ask the southern German city of 83,000 persons to become Sheboygan's "sister city" under a person-to-person project of the American Municipal Association.

Alderman James A. Paulmann proposed the interchange of communication and friendship "between the people of Sheboygan and the people of Esslingen."

But he urged the council to act quickly. He said Muskegon also has its eye on Esslingen.

Paulmann described Esslingen as similar to Sheboygan because of industrial development and ethnic makeup.

Additional Paper Work, Not Patients, Medicare Complaint

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Six months after the advent of medicare, hospital administrators across the country are complaining more about a flood of paperwork than about any rush on hospital beds by the elderly.

An Associated Press survey turned up scattered reports of overcrowding caused by medicare patients, and showed that the aged are entering hospitals in greater numbers, and staying longer.

But, as Edward J. McGeachey of the Maine Medical Center in Portland said:

"If a pail of water is filled, you can't put any more in."

In addition to bemoaning the volume of federal forms accompanying medicare, hospital administrators complained that the government sometimes has been slow to pay its bills.

Still the survey uncovered no serious dislocations in medical care, as had been feared by opponents of the health plan, under which Social Security funds are used to help those over 65 pay hospital and doctor bills.

Even the nation's doctors, who led opposition to medicare, now voice few objections, publicly or privately, says Dr. Charles L. Hudson, president of the American Medical Association.

Little Disruption

In a recent interview in Washington, Hudson said medicare had caused little disruption of the basic relationship between doctor and patient.

"In the beginning, there were some rebellious ones who spoke as if they wouldn't cooperate," he said, but now "I just don't hear the number of remarks.

"There are not so many who say they won't participate."

Hudson hastened to add that doctors still fear there will be a move to expand medicare, and "we would abhor a national health plan" under which the federal government would pay all medical bills for all Americans.

A point of principal concern voiced by hospital administrators in most areas of the nation is the shortage of nursing home beds for mediare patients who require extended care.

Recently Effective

This second phase of the medicare program became effective only Jan. 1. The next three or four months are the periods of greatest hospital occupancy, with flu and other respiratory diseases at a peak.

Generally, the increase in over-all hospital occupancy has held close to the 5 per cent predicted by Social Security Administrator Robert M. Ball before the medicare program started July 1.

There are scattered exceptions, but no specific reports of patients suffering from serious neglect because an insufficient number of beds.

In Columbus, Ohio, for example, some patients have waited four to six weeks for elective surgery, such as correction of hernias.

Ronald Boyington, director of staff services at the 65-bed Tampa (Fla.) General Hospital, said admissions for elective surgery have had to be canceled every day because medicare patients require longer hospital stays than younger patients.

"It (surgical capacity) was critical here before medicare," he said. "Medicare has greatly aggravated the problem. We simply cannot admit as many patients."

Administrator Francis Houghton of Rutland, Vt. Hospital said that between 50 and 60 per cent of the hospital's patient population is 65 years or older, compared with 25 per cent before medicare, and "adult medical-surgical beds are at a premium."

Robert D. Dann, administrator of Hackley Hospital in Muskegon, Mich., said several prospective patients have been "bumped" by others requiring emergency surgery.

Sister Mary Placide, controller of St. Mary's, one of the largest hospitals in Knoxville, Tenn., said the hospital has been jammed since medicare went into effect. "We have patients in the halls now," she said.

Chicago Hospitals

Similar situations prevail in several Chicago hospitals, but from all sections of the country, hospital administrators report no serious overcrowding.

Clifton Gaus, administrative resident of Pittsburgh's Presbyterian University Hospital, said "the criticism that the hospitals would be flooded with people has since been proved wrong."

Pete Geilich, assistant administrator at Parkland Hospital in Dallas, Tex.: "The situation is improving. The paperwork and reimbursement problem is smoothing itself out."

Charles Brooks, public relations executive at Washington Hospital Center, the capital area's largest nongovernment hospital, agreed.

"We are not overcrowded," he said. "The paperwork load has improved decidedly with a better understanding of procedures. Reimbursement now is improved and we are getting payments in 12 to 15 days."

Chesley Wilson, public relations director for the American Hospital Association said "we have heard of no crisis anywhere. The length of stay of medicare patients has caused some concern but has not placed a severe crush on the beds available."

Sheldon Garber, a spokesman for the Blue Cross Association, an administrative intermediary for medicare: "We have seen no evidence of serious dislocations generally in the national picture."

Some hospital spokesmen were critical of some phases of the program.

Sister Mary Walters, administrator at St. Francis Hospital in Topeka, Kan., said: "The paperwork for outpatients is often more costly than their medical bills."

Sister Ingeborg Blomberg, administrator of Immanuel Deaconess Hospital in Omaha, contended that medicare is not picking up some overhead costs formerly shared by all hospital patients and that it appears her institution will lose money on medicare patients.

Forced to Borrow

Stuart D. Ogren, executive secretary of the Virginia Hospital Association, said some financial and administrative problems related to medicare had forced some Virginia hospitals to borrow from banks to meet their payrolls.

The patient load trend has been moving in reverse for many hospitals that once catered principally to charity patients. With medicare benefits available, the patients are going to private hospitals. Among cities reporting this trend are New York, Louisville, Ky., and Los Angeles.

An unanswered question is how successful nursing homes will be in relieving the load of medicare patients who need less than full hospital care.

A study by the American Hospital Association showed that the national "patient day load" for persons over 65 was 28.2 per cent in July, the first month of medicare: 28.6 per cent in August and 30 per cent in September.

The average length of stay in the over-65 age group increased from 11.2 days per admission in July to 12 days in August and 12.5 days in September.

Medicare authorities hope these stays can be shortened as more beds become available in approved nursing homes.

Donald F. Plunkett, executive director of Mercy Hospital in Portland, Maine, said the scarcity of nursing home beds in his city is "our prime problem."

Grant Drennan, associated director of the Columbus (Ohio) Hospital Federation, agreed.

Social Security Commissioner Ball estimates that 2.5 million persons received hospital care under medicare the first six months of the program and that about 6,700 hospitals are participating.

He expects 2,500 nursing homes or other extended care facilities with a bed capacity of more than 150,000 to be ready for participation this month. He estimated there is a 50 per cent turnover in nursing home beds every three months.

But Harris B. Jones, assistant director of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, which made surveys of 739 nursing homes this year, noted that "most nursing homes are pretty well filled up already, many with long-term custodial type patients."

Hillel H. Yampol, director of the Metropolitan Chicago Nursing Home Association, claimed the federal government had failed to give nursing homes the guidance necessary to qualify for medicare. He said only one nursing home in Chicago has been approved for every four hospitals and that there have been no guarantees of the number of beds that will be available for medicare patients.

A major problem preventing homes from qualifying is shortage of nurses, he said. Yampol contended that public aid funds are the chief revenue source of many homes, and that they can't compete with hospitals in hiring nurses.

In Massachusetts, at a meeting called by Lt. Gov. Elliott Richardson, state and local welfare and health officials, physicians and nursing home administrators suggested the possibility of temporarily lowering nursing home requirements.

Medicare regulations require that extended care facilities employ a registered nurse on a full-time basis. In addition, a licensed practical nurse who is a graduate of a state-approved school must have charge of nursing activities during each tour of duty.

"I think it did us a world of good."

The "I" was coach Dick Emanuel and the "it" was in reference to the Appleton Terrors' stunning 52-50 upset of Green Bay West here last Friday night that ended the Wildcats 25-game conference winning skein.

Of course, Emanuel was talking in terms of his own team's future efforts, but he might well have been voicing the sentiments of another eight coaches in the Fox River Valley Conference.

Thanks to the Terrors, the FRVC now appears to be a wide open struggle, with no less than six clubs still very much in the running as the league begins its own "second season." Only two games separate the circuit's top six squads, and the upcoming double-round weekend may be the make-or-break session for the top hopefuls.

Over 3 Seasons

After accomplishing what no other team could in a span ranging over three seasons, justice might have arranged an easier schedule for the Terrors. But as fate would have it, Appleton must face second-place Oshkosh on the Indians' court on Friday evening, and then entertain the Manitowoc Ships Saturday night. Manty currently holds a share of the top rung in the conference and tipped the Terrors, 57-54, in an early season battle at Manitowoc.

But, Emanuel is enthused over his team's chances, despite the rugged 8-game slate remaining on Appleton's schedule. "We bounced back real well," he beamed, in observation of the Terrors' victory following a

Still hopeful of repeating last season's first division finish in the Midwest Prep Conference, the Fox Valley Lutheran High School basketball team invades Milwaukee University School Friday night.

If the Foxes overcome winless MUS, they'll boost their league record to 3-5 and reach the .500 level for over-all action. FVL, now residing in sixth place in the MPC, has won three of four non-league starts.

The conference's top game of the week sends runnerup Racine Lutheran to unbeaten Milwaukee Lutheran. If Racine wins, it will tie for the top spot.

Coach Gerhard Kaniess' Foxes will send two of the MPC's top six scorers against MUS. They are Dave Tiedt, who owns the league's second highest total —137 points—and Howie Korth, who has scored 108 in seven conference games.

Korth, in his last two starts, has burned the nets for a total of 50 points. The 5-foot-7 guard has gone from playmaker (last season, he led FVL in assists and tallied 106 points) to a dangerous scorer. His over-all average is nearly 15 points per game (on a 164 total), and he has missed double figures only against Milwaukee Lutheran and Appleton Xavier.

The 6-1 Tiedt is averaging 19.5 for all games (on a 215 total), and he has been held under double figures only once — by Wisconsin Lutheran.

George Wordingham (6-2) represents the University School's best height. Other lettermen include 6-0 Jim Miller, 6-1 Steve Inbusch, 5-8 Mark Boese and 5-8 Jack Allis.

None of these lettermen, however, saw more than limited action last season as MUS split a pair with Fox Lutheran. The Foxes won, 65-57, and MUS won, 77-72, despite Tiedt's 25 points.

Fox Lutheran starters Friday, in addition to Korth and Tiedt, are expected to be Gary Depner, Paul Mueller and Darwin Tiede.

'Goose' Tatum Succumbs of Heart Attack

Former Basketball Clowning Star Dies In Texas Hospital

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Reece (Goose) Tatum, 45, who as a member of the Harlem Globetrotters thrilled audiences throughout the world with his loose-jointed talents for basketball and clowning, died in El Paso Wednesday ufter an apparent heart seizure.

Tatum died at 10:17 a.m. at Providence Memorial Hospital, which he had left only last Wednesday after a week of treatment for what was described as a liver ailment.

After taking a bath at his El Paso home, Tatum complained to his wife, Naomi, of pains and fell on a bed, hospital administrator Bob Byrne said. After being administered external cardiac massage by the fire department, Tatum was rushed to the hospital about 15 minutes before he died.

Byrne said the death apparently was caused by a heart seizure but that an autopsy was being conducted.

Private funeral services are scheduled Friday at an El Paso funeral home. Tatum, who spent

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The half-way point has been reached in Fox Valley Catholic Conference basketball play and there are still a lot of questions to be answered as to which team will eventually walk home with the championship.

Appleton Xavier is currently in the driver's seat with only one defeat in seven games, but on-rushing Abbot Pennings of DePere and three other teams also are still in the running.

This weekend there will be four league games on the schedule and they will cover a 3-day period. Two are slated for Friday night, there is one Saturday and another Sunday.

The Friday tests will have Green Bay Premontre at Little Chute St. John and Fond du Lac St. Mary Springs will be at Pennings. On Saturday, Menasha St. Mary visits Marinette Central. Sunday night, Oshkosh Lourdes will be at Xavier.

Close Contention

Pennings should have little trouble handling Springs and thereby stay in close contention. Xavier also will rule the favorite over Lourdes, since the Hawks have taken the measure of the Knights once already (59-39) and since the game will be on the Xavier home court.

Question marks hang over the other games though. Will Premontre be able to bounce back after its loss to Xavier in last Sunday's crucial game? Will St. Mary be able to cope with the Cavaliers of Marinette who have scored 87 and 91 points in their last two outings?

If the pattern of conference play is followed again this weekend there probably will be some nip-and-tuck games. Few people can recall when the circuit has seen the number of close contests that there have been this season.

Close Games

Here is a rundown on the close games that seven of the eight teams have had to date:

Xavier: The Hawks have victories by one point in one game and by two points in another. They have one game by two points.

Lourdes: The Knights have a 4-point win and a 1-point win to their credit.

Marinette: The Cavaliers

Knights Notch Sixth Victory

Brault Hits 27 in 80-64 Triumph Over Racine Dominican

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

River Falls State and St. Norbert College notched nonconference baksetball victories Wednesday night while Carthage, which was idle, had to make room atop the College Conference of Illinois for Illinois Wesleyan.

Dominican of Racine stayed close to St Norbert in the first half and trailed only 37-36 at intermission. But the Green nights pulled away in the final two periods for an 80-64 victory.

Guard Ron Brault scored 27 points leading St. Norbert to its sixth victory in 12 games. Dominican is 6-7.

Close Throughout

Northland, having led 10 - 1, similarly kept pace with River Falls for a 41-41 halftime score, and rarely trailed by more than three points in the final five minutes before River Falls won 81-79.

George Voss scored 32 points for River Falls while en Schmeider scored 27 for Northland and collected 36 rebounds. Each team is now 3-7.

Carthage and Illinois Wesleyan share the CCI lead with 4-1 loop records after Wesleyan, led by Steve Laub's 19 points, defeated North Park 68-60.

Millikin is third in the loop with a 3-1 mark, and Augustana is 3-2 and in fourth place. Carroll, North Park and North Central are tied for fifth, each with a 0-3 mark.

After a heartbreaking loss to Cornell and the first Midwest Conference victory of the season against Grinnell, the Lawrence University basketball team faces two more "road" opponents this weekend.

On Friday night, the Vikes will be at Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Saturday the varsity and freshman cage teams will be at state rival Beloit.

Both Coe and Beloit rank above the Vikings in the conference standings, but improved play last weekend has given Coach Clyde Rusk hope that his cagers will continue to advance. Cornell, which currently holds second place with a 3-1 record, escaped with a 64-62 win over Lawrence last Friday. Then on Saturday Lawrence capitalized on Mike Andrews' field goal with 16 seconds left for a 73-72 win over Grinnell.

Carry 1-3 Mark

Coe has a 1-2 record and is one notch above the Vikes who currently carry a 1-3 conference mark. Last season the two teams split during the regular season as Coe won at home, 102-86 and the Vikes turned the trick on their home court, 77-68.

Beloit is expected to be one of the conference powers and the Bucs currently have a 2-1 record in league play and are 6-1 overall. Beloit was undefeated until last weekend when the Siwashers of Knox surprised the Bucs by taking a 54-51 victory.

Last Rites on Friday for Barney Ross

CHICAGO (AP) — The great and the small, the old and the young, people of all faiths and races will begin saying the last goodby to Barney Ross tonight.

Visitations at the chapel where his body lay in state were to be for three hours. Funeral services will be Friday with burial in Chicago's Rosemont Park Cemetery.

Barney Ross, 57, lost his last fight to throat cancer Wednesday.

He had never known the meaning of defeat in his battles as a boxer, a Marine and against narcotics.

He won the lightweight, junior welterweight and welterweight boxing titles in the 1930's. He won the silver star for gallantry in action on Guadalcanal in 1942.

He won over the dope habit—which he had picked up fighting off the pains of malaria—as a patient in the United States Public Health Service Hospital, Lexington, Ky., in 1946.

Barney told the world how he conquered narcotics. A movie was made of his career as a boxer, a Marine and an addict. And after that he worked in management relations, in business and as a speaker, telling how he got the monkey off his back.

"I spent $250,000 for drugs in four years," he once said. "I beat the habit because I wanted to, because it was that or the end."

Vikings Meet Coe and Beloit

Knox is the league leader with a 5-0 record.

One of the main reasons for the improved play of the Vikings last weekend was the performance of 6-8 center Brad Childs. The rangy Childs had 14 points against Cornell and then hit his season high of 16 in the win over Grinnell. In addition to his improved scoring, Childs rebounded well — an area where the Vikes have been weak.

Because of Childs' performance last weekend, the sophomore may well be in the starting lineup for the Vikes this weekend.

Captain Dick Schultz is still leading the individual scoring race for the Vikes, but two other cagers are closing in fast. Schultz has 44 field goals and 25 free throws for 113 markers in eight games.

Junior Steve Simon has 106 points and junior Brian Bock has 104. Sophomore Bob Townsend ranks fourth in the point-parade with 86 markers and sophomore Andrews is next in line with 7.

Phillies Official Dies In Eastern Hospital

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — L. Wister Randolph, 70, vice president of the Philadelphia Phillies baseball Club, died Wednesday in Lankenau Hospital.

An investment banker, he was a stockholder and official in the Phillies organization for almost a quarter-century. He seldom missed a game at Connie Mack Stadium.

Surviving are his widow, a daughter and a son. Funeral arrangements were not immediately disclosed. The cause of death was not indicated.

Prep Athlete Won't Play Again; Stricken by Cancer

BUCYRUS, Ohio (AP) — A couple of years ago, James Walker, at 16, had as bright a future as any young teen-ager could expect.

He had a good head on his shoulders and ranked about 12th scholastically in his class at Bucyrus High School.

Walker also got more than the usual amount of attention. He was a top-notch football player.

So good, in fact, that by the time the 6-foot-3, 235-pound youth started his senior year last September, the college offers were rolling in from schools like Notre Dame, Ohio State, Indiana and Michigan.

Serious Problem

Those schools and others interested in Walker couldn't possibly know that the rosy picture was fast becoming clouded by serious problems.

A tackle-linebacker who made the All-Northern Ohio League team, Walker isn't going to play football for anyone. He isn't even going to finish school.

Walker is bedridden at home. He is dying—his body wracked by cancer.

"There's no real hope," says Bucyrus Coach Bob Boyles. "It would be a miracle if he lives."

Boyles gets choked up when he talks about his grid star.

"He's had cancer for about four years now but the doctors have done a good job keeping it under control. But last fall it started spreading through his system.

"Jim knew how serious it was but he wanted to play so badly the doctors said it would be all right. He had a good season, too."

Became Weaker

Last month, Walker had to stop attending classes. He became weaker as his condition worsened.

"His mother is dead and he has an older brother in the Army," Boyles says. "His father Tom, an industrial worker, began to feel the financial pinch as the medical bills piled up."

That's when the Bucyrus Telegraph-Forum initiated the James Walker Fund. In less than a month, contributions have reached $5,871 with donations coming.

"These townspeople have really helped financially," Boyles said. "And people have helped in other ways, too, by writing letters and visiting the sick boy."

"About the toughest thing I have to do is write back the colleges interested in Walker," Boyles said. "He won't be playing football anymore."

'Goose' Tatum Succumbs of Heart Attack

three years with the Air Corps in World War II, will be buried with military honors at Ft. Bliss National Cemetery in El Paso.

Tatum, son of an itinerant Methodist preacher in Arkansas, left the Globetrotters basketball team in 1954 and was associated with his own similar group, the Harlem Roadkings, at the time of his death.

Tatum discovered his talent for clowning one summer while a skinny kid playing first base for a baseball team in the Ozarks.

He polished his practice for clowning on the baseball diamond and by 1942 was the No. 1 attraction for the Cincinnati Clowns Negro baseball team.

The founder of the Harlem Globetrotters, Abe Saperstein, saw Tatum in 1941 and was impressed by the long arms that permitted Tatum to catch baseballs behind his back and go through athletic motions with uncanny ease.

"It came naturally," Tatum once said.

Teamed With Haynes

The next winter Tatum first went with the Globetrotters and later was to become, along with dribble-adept guard Marques Haynes, among the most talked about figures in basketball.

When walking in the goose-like shuffle for which he was named, his hands dangled loosely near his knees.

His talent for clowning at basketball would not have been possible without fine athletic ability, which permitted him to palm the ball, spin it on one finger, pass it effortlessly behind him, roll it down his arm as confused opponents stood helpless.

In addition to the widow, other survivors include a son, Reece Jr., 9; two brothers, and two sisters.

Cubs to Get First Pick in Player Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The annual winter free agent baseball draft will be held in New York Saturday, Jan. 28, Commissioner William D. Eckert said Wednesday.

The Chicago Cubs will get first pick in the regular phase of the draft, with the New York Yankees getting second choice. A special phase also will be held immediately after completion of the regular phase.

The regular phase will be conducted under the amended College Rule, stipulating that, except for several specified exceptions, no student in a four-year college may be selected until his class has graduated.

The special phase, dealing with players drafted earlier but who failed to come to terms, will be held under the old College Rule. This stipulate no college player may be signed under after his sophomore year.

Eileen Belling Has 572 Series

'Birdie' Bauhs Powers 593 Set

Joan Schneider had a 218 game, Leone Uetzman slammed a 214 and Bernadine "Birdie" Bauhs had a 593 series to lead action in the Women's Classic League at the 41 Bowl last night.

Mrs. Uetzman finished with a 516 series while "Birdie's" series included games of 193, 207 and 193. She missed a national honor count by only seven pins.

Other top classic loop scores included Irene Rondou 203; Elsie Ross 504; Jerry Erb 510; Shirley "Butch" Helser 194-517; Mary Ann Schuenemann 516; Jean Holdorf 195-509; Bea Albrecht 211-533; Beverly Banczak 209-505; Dorothy Hanson 195; Jan Koerner 198; Joan Schneider 218; Ruth Schmidt 211-528; Myrna Schoenhaar 500; Sue Lundberg 504; Marie Suttner 528; Eileen Belling 199-194-572.

Vernadine Welch socked a 200 game and Betty Grafmeier had a 545 series to share honors in the Wednesday Night Ladies League at the Little Chute Recreation Lanes. Betty's high game was a 194 and Vernadine finished with a 513 set.

Carol Rosz had a 193 game and Rose Romenesko smacked a 513 series to pace the Four-for-Fun League at Hahn's Wednesday. Diane Arent had a 191 singleton.

First Shutout in NHL History

Canadiens Blank Stale All-Star Squad, 3-0

BY HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — Toe Blake, whose Montreal Canadiens turned in the first shutout in the 20-year history of the National Hockey League's All-Star game with a 3-0 victory Wednesday night, sounded like the coach of any fourth-place team after the game.

"Tell them I'll take the two points," he said, motioning toward the other side of the ice where the All-Stars were dressing.

He referred to the two points a team picks up for a regular season victory.

Blake's defending Stanley Cup champions can use every point they can get these days and the coach felt this victory over the game's top names might help his club get started. Plagued by injuries, last season's regular season titleholders hold down the No. 4 position in the six-team circuit.

"This is a good team," Blake said. "They played tonight the way they did last spring when they won the Stanley Cup. A victory like this can't help but boost their confidence."

Ferguson Scores Twice

It should do wonders for the confidence of left-winger John Ferguson, who scored two of the three Montreal goals. Ferguson had managed only five all season.

Henri Richard scored the other goal while Charlie Hodge, who worked two periods, and Gary Bauman, who played the middle 20 minutes, turned away 35 shots by the poorly coordinated All-Stars.

"All through that second period," said Bauman, who has played only one regular season game, "I was waiting for Bobby Hull to wind up and let a real hard shot go. But he didn't, thank goodness."

Hull was just as disappointed at not firing that famous high, hard one as Bauman was thankful for not seeing it.

"Most of the boys haven't played since last Sunday," Hull said. "And we didn't practice. Maybe we were a bit stale. You can't stay off the ice three days and then be sharp."

Gordie Howe, Detroit's great right wing, who started on a line with Chicago's Stan Mikita and Hull, agreed.

Canadian Grid Star to Try Out In AFL or NFL

OTTAWA (AP) — Fullback Jim Dillard of the Ottawa Rough Riders insisted Wednesday he is a free agent, and he expects to try for a berth in the National or American League. Dillard rejected an Ottawa offer to pay him the $2,600 that was deducted from his salary during the 1966 season.

The offer also guaranteed there would be no further deductions in 1967 as the club was prepared to write off the $5,000 advance made by Oakland Raiders of the American League to Dillard two years ago.

Oakland gave the money to Dillard to play out his option year with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Conference and join the Raiders. But Calgary later sent Dillard to Ottawa in a player deal.

The fullback said the club breached the contract by not paying him in full by the end of the last playoff game. "While I want to stay here, I feel the club is not counting on me in the plans for next season," he said.

have victories by one, two and 4-point margins while also losing games by one, two and 4-point differences.

St. Mary Menasha: The Zephyrs won a game by four points and another by five while dropping two contests by two points each.

Abbot Pennings: The Squires have won three games by margins of six, two and one point and dropped one game by four markers.

Little Chute St. John: The Dutchmen have been the hard-luck team dropping four games by margins of six, five, four and one.

Premontre: The Cadets won one game by two points and have lost by one point on two different occasions.

Springs: The Ledgers have not been involved in any close contests while losing all seven of their starts.

Scoring Lead

Rocky Slawinsky of Marinette, who has scored 57 points in his team's last two victories, holds the conference scoring lead with an average of 22.5 for eight games. Pat Fitzgerald, of Xavier, ranks second with a 19.1 average, helped considerably by the 74 points he has scored in the last three tilts.

One of the top individual performances last weekend came at the free throw line when Mike McClone of St. Mary set what is believed to be a conference record with 17 straight free throws against St. John.

Tommy John Returns '67 Contract Unsigned

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Chicago White Sox baseball pitcher Tommy John said Wednesday he had returned his 1967 season contract to the club management without his signature.

John who compiled a 14-11 record with the Sox last season, said the salary offer was not acceptable.

'Everyone Nervous at Rites Except Me,' Hornung Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) —Paul Hornung of the Green Bay Packers was married Wednesday to Patricia Roeder, a girl from Green Bay whom he met 10 years ago.

"I feel beautiful," the football star said after the ceremony. "Everybody was nervous but me."

About 75 persons attended the wedding. The couple planned to honeymoon in Hawaii.

The ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. Daniel F. Sullivan of the Roman Catholic Church of the Good Shepherd.

Hornung, 31, and Miss Roeder, 28, had met a decade ago, but got reacquainted last year when Miss Roeder, working as a television model in Dallas, returned to visit her Green Bay family.

She said she "seemed to have spent the last few months commuting between Green Bay and Dallas."

"Finally, I asked Paul, 'What am I going to do?' 'You're going to marry me,' " he related.

Ushers included Hornung's Packer teammates. They were Fuzzy Thurston and Max McGee.

Brown fired in 30 points and Heardon added 25 as Kappell's turned a 22-20 first quarter deficit into a 43-35 lead at the half. The Kaukauna club stretched its advantage to 70-49 at the three-quarter mark and coasted in. Bud Montner had 35 for the losing team.

Willie's had a stiff fight for three periods before beating Butch's Pizza of Kimberly, 81-64, as Bernie Peterson led both clubs in scoring with 30 points. Willie's held 39-32 lead at the half and finally shook the Kimberly team off with a 26 point final quarter. Hank Peerenboom hit 25 for Butch's.

Rules Group Also Bans Gadgetry

Excitement Back in Punt Play

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — More kicking, less electronic gadgetry and a little more actual playing time — that's what college football rules makers hope will develop from changes they've adopted.

The Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association decided Wednesday to put the foot back in football and to outlaw electronic scouting devices, especially instant video-tape replays.

The fans will be getting more football for their money under a new rule which stops the clock when the ball changes hands until it is put into play by the defensive team.

"This should add about two minutes of actual playing time to the game," said Dave Nelson, head coach at the University of Delaware.

Committee Chairman Fritz Crisler, University of Michigan athletic director, said it was decided "there have been too many fair catches on kicks from scrimmage and it's the unanimous feeling that this should change."

Linemen Will Hold

Interior linemen on the kicking team will now have to hold their positions until the ball is kicked, thus allowing the player receiving the punt about two additional seconds.

All electronic scouting gear will be prohibited during games, and specific mention was made of video-tape replays which could be flashed back to the coaches.

The committee agreed that many teams, both on college and junior college levels, won't be able to afford the electronic devices, but the temptation will be great to do so.

Most of the 15 rules changes agreed to during the three-day meeting involved clarifications of existing regulations.

Rather than ban the tackle-eligible play as proposed by a coaches subcommittee, the rule was modified to prohibit the offensive team from flanking any player, back or lineman, outside the eligible tackle.

A new rule allows coaches to confer with one player during any charged timeout.

Won't Lose Ball

A team which takes possession of the ball either by punt, fumble or intercepted pass won't have to give up the ball should it have a penalty called against it on the same play. The team will also retain possession if there are offsetting penalties on the same play.

It was agreed to appoint a committee of college coaches to work with a similar group of high school coaches to draw up a common code of ethics which apply to both levels of competition.

The committee, in another resolution, also put it up to the coaches themselves to insure that helmets are used as safety devices and not weapons to be used for so-called spearing of opponents.

Terrors Face Oshkosh and Manitowoc frustrating 62-60 loss to Sheboygan North a week earlier.

He credite his club with a "real excellent job on defense That was something our kids hadn't been doing lately. West is a good driving ball club and we had to stop their driving to beat them," he added firmly.

Rebound Advantage

Statistics showed a healthy 30-13 advantage for the Terrors in the important rebounding department, as Appleton managed to keep the Wildcats away from the hoop with a mixture of zone defenses.

Appleton will face a stiff test of board strength Friday night at Oshkosh, when the Terrors battle 6-5 Jon Weber and Co. Weber, a senior with little experience before this season, has improved immensely in leading the Indians to six wins in eight starts. His 18.7 average ranks him fourth in the league, and he tallied 22 in Oshkosh's 48-43 triumph over Green Bay Preble a week ago. Other starters for Oshkosh should be Jim Strasser and Jack Kelly at the forwards (both 6-0), and Bob Kleinschmidt (6-0) and Al Janke (5-8) in the backcourt.

Lutz Ailing

The Terrors will counter with much the same starting lineup as in previous tilts, with forward Gary Lutz the only question mark. Lutz hurt his knee in the West game and has not practiced this week. If Lutz remains on the injured list, either Jeff Stach or Tom Jones is a likely replacement. Otherwise, Emanuel will go with Art Zuleger and Bob Simon at the guards, George Hoffman at center and Tom Hintz at the other forward post. The latter pair each hit 15 points and Hintz fired in the winning jump shot against West.

Northwestern, Hawkeyes in Key Contest

Wisconsin Remains Idle; Joe Franklin Second in Rebounds

CHICAGO (AP) — Northwestern, averaging 98.5 points in two Big Ten basketball victories, takes on Iowa, averaging 77.0, Saturday in a key game in the title hopes of both clubs.

The televised contest brings together the two leading conference scorers — the Cats' Jim Burns with a 28.5 average, and Iowa's Sam Williams, a junior college transfer, with 25.5.

Iowa, after beating Indiana 84-73, lost last week to Michigan State 79-70. MSU is tied with Northwestern for the lead, each with 2-0.

MSU invades Michigan (0-3) in the only other afternoon engagement Saturday while Minnesota (0-3) is at Ohio State (1-1) at night. The schedule is light because of semester examinations.

Next to Northwestern in team offense is Illinois with 89.0. MSU is the defensive leader with an average yield of 72.0 while Ohio State is second with 73.0. Iowa shares third with Purdue with 76.0.

Top Marks

Other leading team figures:

Average rebounds—MSU, 52.5, and Illinois, 48.0; field goal percentage—Purdue .473, and Michigan .466; free throw percentage — Northwestern .782, and Iowa .738.

Behind Burns and Williams in the top five of the individual scoring race are Jim Dawson, Illinois, 24.8; Bill Hosket, Ohio State, 24.0, and Craig Dill, Michigan, 23.0.

Williams has hit 19 of 21 to top free throw accuracy with .905. Purdue's Henry Ebershoff, however, has 5 for 5 for 1.000. Wayne Barry of Minnesota has made 22 of 39 field goal attempts for a leading .564 with Indiana's Butch Joyner next at .556.

Lee Lafayette of MSU heads rebounders with a 17.5 average while Joe Franklin of Wisconsin is second with 15.0.

Kimberly-Clark Current Leader In 'Y' Olympics

Action in the Appleton YMCA Industrial Olympics take on a full head of steam this week as finals are slated in chess and rifle shooting while the cribbage and bowling tournaments get underway.

Kimberly Clark is the current leader with a total of 200 points while the Appleton Wire Works and Coated Paper Company are tied for second with 165. Bergstrom Paper Company is close behind with 160 points.

In latest competition, Appleton Coated took the skate championship with the same team which took the 1966 title. Members of the squad are Martin Williams, Ed Tews and Lee Chady.

Cyclone Coaching Pair Leave Posts

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Tom Steigleder and Howard Justice of the Iowa State University football coaching staff will move next week to the University of Maryland, it was learned Wednesday.

The two assistants will leave the staff of Coach Clay Stapleton to join Coach Bob Ward, former ISU assistant hired recently by Maryland. Both came here in 1965.

Steigleder, 29, has been in charge of the Cyclone offense. Justice, 35, has been chief defensive coach.

FVL Jayvee '5' Loses 2 Games

Fox Valley Lutheran's junior varsity cagers dropped two close games to Midwest Prep Conference schools recently.

Wayland Academy tipped FVL, 43-39, and Northwestern Prep won 46-44.

Wayland's Tom Brown scored 13 points, and Mark Bootz hit 13 for the Foxes.

FVL held a 28-14 bulge at the half over Northwestern. Roger Kuerth's 3-point play with 19 seconds to go climaxed the Preps' comeback. Bootz was the contest's top scorer with 22 points.

But Who's Complaining

Women's Committee Objects To Men's 'Too Short' Shorts

Male athletes will have to watch how they dress in future — someone's been complaining about their too-short shorts.

The women's committee of the West Australia Amateur Athletics Association has sent a protest letter to the men's committee objecting to shorts with cutaway legs and narrow sides.

But the question everybody is asking is: Who exactly complained?

"Probably just one or two crusty old dears," believes Commonwealth Games long jumper Phil May, 22, who confessed to being an offender.

"I don't think younger girls mind in the least.

Skimpier Shorts

"Many foreign athletes wear skimpier shorts than mine — especially the girls.

"Some of them show more daring legs than any bunny girl."

Wendy Lawrence, 19, a member of the women's association, declared: "I don't know which members are objecting. I think it's ridiculous."

Men's secretary Theo Tracy confirmed he had received the letter, but would make no comment.

Women's secretary Gwen Bull also had nothing to say.

Men's Spiel Slated for Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The Men's Invitational bonspiel will be at the Clintonville Curling Club this weekend. Four rinks will curl Thursday night.

Among the rinks participating will be Stanchfield, Wauwatosa; Jenkins, Portage; Hausmann, Madison; McLeod, Appleton; Weingart, Wauwautosa; Payne, Appleton; Jarvis, Green Bay; Scharrschmidt, Medford; Bankers, Appleton; Stange, Waupaca; Merritt Sasse, Forest Schafer, Jim Petcka and Roy Eberhardt, all of Clintonville; and, two others, one from Waupaca and the other possibly from Green Bay.

A banquet will be Saturday night at Fischer's Riviera Supper Club.

Winneconne Frosh Edge Fox Lutheran

Winneconne's freshman basketball team nipped Fox Valley Lutheran, 32-30, on the Foxes' court Tuesday.

Jeff Winters and Dave Frerks had 11 and 10 points, respectively, for the Wolves, while Bob Mindel was the big gun for FVL, with 14 points.

White Sox Sign Peters To Contract

CHICAGO (AP)— The Chicago White Sox announced the signing of four more baseball players Wednesday to bring their total to 12.

Latest signers were pitcher Gary Peters and outfielders Walter Williams, Ed Stroud and Charles (Buddy) Bradford.

Peters, who led the American League starting pitchers last year with an earned run average of 1.98, mailed in his contract as did Bradford and Stroud.

Williams signed in person on a quick visit to Chicago en route from Puerto Rico to his home in San Francisco. Williams was injured playing winter ball and stopped off for examination by the White Sox physician.

X-rays revealed a hairline fracture of the left wrist where he was hit by a pitched ball.

Billy Cunningham and Luke Jackson took turns — almost — and the Philadelphia 76ers rolled again.

That was the latest chaper in the Philadelphia story at the visiting 76ers whipped Detroit 113-105 Wednesday night for their sixth straight National Basketball Association victory and 43rd in 47 starts.

Cunningham scored 11 points in the first quarter to keep the 76ers close as Detroit took a 29-27 lead. Then Jackson took over in the second, scoring 17 to give the 76ers a 61-49 halftime margin.

After Detroit went ahead by a point in the third, Cunningham came on again for nine points as Philadelphia moved to an 83-74 lead at the end of the period Cunningham then stepped out of turn and scored 11 more in the final period.

Hold Barry to 13

The Boston Celtics outdid Oscar Robertson by getting double-figure scoring from seven players to beat host Cincinnati 119-106, Chicago held Rick Barry to 13 points in beating San Francisco 111-107 at Evansville, Ind., and the St. Louis Hawks outlasted the Lakers 123-121 in overtime at Los Angeles.

Robertson popped in 36 points in an effort to run the Royals' winning streak to six, but the Celtics' balanced scoring attack was just too much. John Havlicek led Boston with 20, Bailey Howell and Sam Jones added 19 each and Bill Russell was next with 18.

Kojis Did Job

Chicago's Don Kojis did the good defensive job on Barry in the game at Evansville, Ind Barry, the NBA's leading scorer, made only four of 21 field goal attempts Three straight field goals by Jim Washington helped put Chicago ahead 106-103 with less than three minutes remaining

Clutch-shooting by Zelmo Beaty triggered St Louis' victory over Los Angeles as the Hawks' tightened their grip on second place in the Western Division.

Jerry West's jump shot in the final seconds of regulation time enabled the Lakers to tie the game 112-all. Beaty, who wound up with 32 points, and Lennie Wilkens sparked the Hawks in the extra period.

Charles Finley In Hospital for Persistent Fever

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles Finley, 48, owner of the Kansas City Athletics baseball team, is undergoing tests in a Chicago hospital to determine the cause of persistent fever.

A spokesman at Chicago Wesley Memorial Hospital, which Finley entered Sunday, said Wednesday the fever is subsiding but that the tests are continuing.

"We anticipate the fever is being caused by a bug and that it will disappear completely," the spokesman added

Finley had been discharged after undergoing treatment for fever earlier in another Chicago hospital but entered Wesley when the fever returned.

Place Youth On Probation For Burglary

James E. Schreiber, 18, route 1, New London, this morning was placed on probation to the State Department of Public Welfare for one year after he pleaded guilty of taking part in the burglary Oct. 23 at the Shiocton Speedway, route 1, Shiocton.

Schreiber, through his court-appointed attorney, entered the plea in the felony branch of Outagamie County Court immediately following a preliminary hearing before County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Ronald W. Lund, 19, Medina, testified at the hearing that he, Schreiber, and a third youth, who has been charged in the same burglary, took part in the early morning incident at the Speedway. Lund, who Monday was placed on three years probation for his part in the burglary, said that Schreiber stood in the doorway and did not participate in the actual break-in.

Lund testified that the three youths split the loot obtained from the burglary. On cross-examinaion, the Medina youth explained that Schreiber several times said he did not want to take part in the burglary.

The only other witness called by Richard Hamilton, Outagamie County assistant district attorney, was LeRoy Menzel, route 1, Shiocton, owner and operator of the Speedway, who said that about $40 or $50, and merchandise, were taken.

Predict Private School Pupils To Ride Buses

Second Okay by Legislature, Referendum Needed

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Success is in sight in the long fight for the right of parochial and private school children to be provided transportation in public school buses in Wisconsin, authors of the pending constitutional amendment to legalize the plan believe.

Nine members of the Wisconsin Assembly, acting as bipartisan sponsors, have introduced for second approval of the legislature the amendment in the constitution that is required before the legislature can validly change the existing school transportation laws.

Approval of two successive legislative sessions is required to amend the constitution. The first approval came from the 1965 legislature, with majorities on roll calls that surprised some observers familiar with the long and frequently acrimonious controversy associated with the proposition in earlier times.

Opinions Change

The Wisconsin Supreme Court has held that under the present constitution the carrying of non-public school children in tax-financed buses is a violation of the provision for the separation of church and state affairs.

But sponsors of the amendment believe that there is a changing climate of opinion in Wisconsin, and to support their conjecture, point to the largely uncontested act of the 1965 legislature providing state tuition grants to students of private colleges, including Church-related institutions.

Assemblyman Ray Heinzen of Marshfield, one of the principal authors of the bus amendment, said backers plan to push for quick second approval of the amendment, in order to make possible a popular referendum — also required for constitutional changes — at the regular spring elections in April. Otherwise the legislature would not be enabled to write a new school bus act until the 1969 legislature, he noted.

The last submission of the proposition to a referendum was in 1946, when it failed in a vote of 545,000 to 437,000.

Most Fatalities On Rural Roads

MADISON (AP) — The State Motor Vehicle Department reported today that more than three-fourths of last year's 1,119 traffic deaths resulted from accidents on rural highways.

The grim statistic was contained in a report detailing information on the record number of fatalities in 1966.

The department said 32 counties had fewer deaths in 1966 than the previous year, while 37 had higher totals. Florence County, for the second year in a row, did not record a single traffic fatality.

In a separate report, the department announced it had revoked or suspended 38,012 driving privileges last year, more than 2,800 than in 1965.

Added Fraud Bureaus Prove Challenging

Business Agencies For Self-Regulation Concede Abuses

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The growth of consumer fraud bureaus and increasing action by law officers is presenting a big challenge to the National Better Business Bureau and its affiliated groups.

A letter documenting this challenge — and conceding the root cause lies in abuses but with political overtones — goes out to members next month. It will ask their help to "stem the current tide."

Better business bureaus represent self-regulation by business. The concept is that by protecting the consumer business protects itself from a bad reputation, one that might be recognized some day in restrictive laws.

Law Agencies

The bureaus always have cooperated with law agencies. But, in what they term "the age of consumerism," some of the initiative is being taken from them. The national bureau, and the 130 or more local bureaus, can be bypassed.

Federal agencies increasingly are involved in consumerism and so is Congress. Consumer fraud departments, reporting directly to governors, were established in three states last year. Still another begins work in April.

Attorneys general are far more active in the consumer area than they were just a couple of years ago, and 20 states now have consumer fraud bureaus headed generally by that official. Cities and counties have groups of varying powers.

The national bureau's letter will ask members to protect free enterprise:

Government Restriction

"Against ever-increasing governmental restrictions of marketing practices. Business must aim its guns at the root cause, i.e., the abuses in the marketplace which give rise to consumer laws and regulations."

The national bureau acts on complaints or inquiries mostly, leading some critics to argue that it handles only the obvious cases and ignores some of the large, overriding problems.

These critics cite as an example the considerable Senate interest in deception and confusion through packaging of products. The bureau, however, has been relatively inactive in this area, receiving less than six complaints last year.

The bureau can reply, perhaps correctly, that the scarcity of complaints is proof that customers do not feel deceived or confused, an attitude maintained by many packagers and processors.

The complaint and inquiry method has channeled much of the bureau's energies into the areas of bait and switch advertising — in which the customer is baited by a low-priced product and sold an expensive one — magazine salesmanship, phony free credit plans and charity gyps, among others.

No Validity

Another criticism, which the bureau claims has no validity at all, is that its ability to strike hard against offenses is neutralized by its very personality — the 2,000 national or regional businesses that support it.

"We call the shots as we see them," says Kenneth Willson, president. "We wouldn't have lasted 54 years if we didn't. And we wouldn't have the respect of our members if we ignored complaints against them."

Willson and his staff of about 35 handle an amazing amount of work from their Park Avenue headquarters. They process complaints and inquiries by telephone, by letters, by bulletins, and often they incur risks. "Libel and slander are our constant bedfellows," Willson says.

If the bureau cannot correct a major abuse it turns the case over to the proper law agency for possible prosecution. "We work hand in glove with law enforcement agencies," Willson maintains.

'Sound of Music' Ends Six-Year Run in London

LONDON (AP) — The Rodgers and Hammerstein show, "The Sound of Music," closed at London's Palace Theater last week after running for 2,385 performances and nearly six years.

The London critics panned the show on opening night, but three million people saw it and more than $5.6 million was taken in at the box office.

Richard Rodgers was so shaken by the critics' notices that he allowed the movie version to be shown in London while the stage production was still running. Both movie and theater versions did increased business.

The recording of the film music has topped the British long-playing record charts for more than 18 months.

McLevy, who also was prominent nationally in Socialist activities, died in 1962.

Rembrandt Painting Used for Promotion

BOSTON (AP)—Rembrandt's "Portrait of an Old Man," valued at more than $750,000, recently made its first trip in 64 years outside the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

The painting, believed to be a portrait of Rembrandt's father, was put on display at an insurance company gallery as part of a campaign to raise $13.4 million for expansion of the museum.

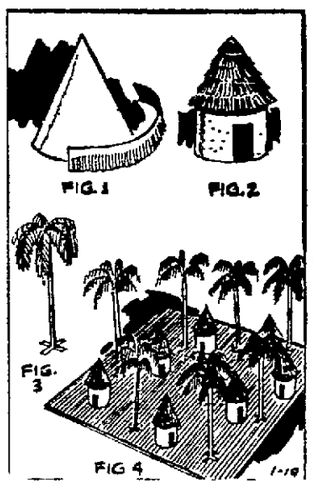
Create a Grass House With Soda Straws and Paper Cups

BY CAPPY DICK

A miniature South Seas village of grass-roofed huts is fun to construct from conical paper cups, strips of paper and soda straws.

Use a piece of cardboard or corrugated paper board as the base of the village (Figure 4) Get some cone-shaped paper cups for the hut roofs. Cover each with a strip of yellow paper into which you first have cut fringes (Figure 1). Apply the strip with past or glue as you wrap it, proceeding from the wide edge of the cup to the pointed end.

Form the walls of each hut by gluing together the ends of a strip of gray construction paper, forming a squat tube on which the thatched roof will rest. Draw a black panel to represent a door



Soda Straw Trees

For a palm tree. cut leaves from green paper and insert them into one end of a soda straw Cut four flaps in the other end, bend them outward as in Figure 3 and glue them to the base of the village.

Place the huts and trees on the base completing the village FRIDAY DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING ADJUSTABLE BOOK ENDS'

Higher Ratio Of Students Go to College

MADISON (AP) — Nearly 7 per cent more Wisconsin high school graduates were enrolled in collegiate institutions in 1966 than in 1959, the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education said Tuesday.

The report said an additional 8 per cent of the 66,473 graduates in 1966 began programs in vocational-technical schools and raised the total percentage of students in higher education to 44 6 per cent.

The increase for those attending colleges and universities was from 29.9 per cent to 36.6 per cent, according to the study. The figures do not include Wisconsin residents attending schools in other states.

The study also showed a lower percentage of students enrolled in private colleges and universities. In 1959, 21 per cent of new resident freshmen in all universities enrolled in private schools, compared with 14 per cent last year.

Parcel Post Rate Hike Takes Effect

Zones Correlated With Use Of Zip Code to Speed Service

Use of ZIP Code now will make it easier to mail packages, Asst. Postmaster R. W. Haase of Appleton said today.

New rates and a new system for identifying parcel post zones went into effect today as provided in new legislation.

The rate increases will average about 10 cents a parcel, Haase said. Starting July 1, the law provides for a series of size and weight increases on packages mailed between first-class offices.

Appleton is a first-class office. The size and weight increases will be in five annual steps, the last coming on July 1, 1971.

Use of ZIP Code in the recipient's address will enable the sender or a mail clerk to quickly determine the proper zone, and thus the rate, for the package. The zones will be based on the distance a parcel travels between the 552 sectional centers in the country, Haase said.

By consulting a simple chart available at all post offices the zone can be readily identified. The first three numbers of the ZIP Code represent the sectional center. This replaces a method in which a directory often had to be consulted to locate the proper zone for each of the nation's 33,000 post offices.

The new rates will range from 40 cents for a three-pound parcel destined for local delivery to 60 cents for the same parcel to zone 3 (150 to 300 miles) to $1.05 to zone 8 (over 1,800 miles). The new zoning method will also apply to air parcel post, catalogs and to publishers who pay zone rates on the advertising portion of their periodicals.

First Rate

Haase noted that all parcels mailed between post offices within the Oshkosh sectional center will be charged at the first zone rate. There are 56 post offices within the Oshkosh sectional center.

The new rates are expected to provide an additional $74 million a year for the Post Office Department. The later size and weight increases will add another $32 million a year. The additional revenue is to help keep the Department within 4 per cent of costs on parcel post as the law requires.

Asks for Hearing On Beating Count

Roland Lee Roberts Jr., 20, Tuesday afternoon asked for a preliminary hearing on charges of aggravated battery and theft, brought after the beating of an eldery Appleton woman in her home Oct. 21.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller set the hearing for 3 p.m. Friday. Roberts is in the county jail in lieu of posting bonds totaling $2,500. He has a court-appointed attorney.

The Appleton youth recently was returned from Central State Hospital where he was sent following examination in County Court Branch 2 last November.

Roberts is charged, following investigation by Appleton detectives, with severely beating his landlady, Mrs. Clara Gipp, 80, the evening of Oct. 21. Police also allege that Roberts stole $13 from the woman's purse.

Mrs. Gipp, 916 W. Winnebago St., was hospitalized for some time with severe head injuries.

Children's World Broadened by Pet Shop Visit

Kathy Jackson Found out how much the little shell of a turtle can hide, and held one up for a close look when her class at the Appleton Cooperative Nursery visited a pet shop. At right, Lisa Kronberg felt no qualms at all about putting a guinea pig back in its box. Below right, the curiosity of childhood is written on the faces of Mike Costello, John Townsend and Cindy Johnson as the shop owner showed a chameleon to the children. (Post-Crescent Photos by Edward Deschler Jr.)

The world of children begins on very limited terms. Parents, then family, then, first friend. Everyday brings new sights and tastes and feelings. Their expanding world goes outside the home, down the block and, finally across the street.

A child's curiosity can be dampened or doused so early that it never again really gets started. Teachers in kindergarten realize this and urge their youngsters to ask questions and seek out the answers on their own.

Appleton Cooperative Nursery, now in its eighth year, caters to the curiosity of about 60 children, enrolled in three different sessions. Ages of the youngsters are from three and a half to kindergarten. The classes meet in the preschool room at All Saints Episcopal Church Parish Center. Mrs. Everett Lee teaches the Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning and Tuesday and Thursday morning groups and Mrs. Carl Scheie has charge of the Monday, Wednesday Thursday afternoon group. Parents of the children assist with the class on a regular basis.

Please Youngsters

Among projects that delight the children and push the walls of their ever-broadening lives are field trips. The one photographed here was to a pet shop, where the children had to touch and hold and look with all the might they could muster. During the year other trips have been scheduled to a farm, fire station, greenhouse, radio station and Science Hall and the Conservatory of Music at Lawrence University. Other trips are planned as the opportunity presents itself.

Mrs. Bradner W. Coursen is 1966-67 president, Mrs. Richard Winslow, vice president; Mrs. Harry Kimball, secretary, and Mrs. Gerald Bork, treasurer.

The Magic of 'Through the Looking Glass' is not less when looking through the fish aquarium. Ken Duval is photographed through the tank at the pet store, with fish and large shells demanding attention and study. Below, Paul Haag and Carrie Haza had no fear of the chirping parakeet, and the parakeet was willing to be petted. Holding the bird is Jim Hauert, owner of the shop the class visited.

Double-Faced Fabrics Add Versatility to Sewing

Doubled-faced fabric featuring two right sides has added appeal because of its versatility Faces may be woven or bonded together

These reversible fabrics have separate sides woven back to back with the yarns stitched together at key points in the pattern. For example, in one double-woven fabric, large black patterns of plaid reverse to coordinated solid blocks on the opposite side.

Adhesive Bond

Some reversible fabrics are bonded together with an adhesive This technique provides opportunities for combinations of textures and colors For instance, red velveteen bonded to pink velveteen makes an ideal fabric for dressy occasions

Garments made from woven or bonded double-faced fabric do not require linings or interfacings Finishing techniques such as buttonholes, hems, pockets and collars require different treatment than those used on single faced fabrics.

Seek Simplicity

When selecting a pattern for double-faced fabrics choose a simple design with a minimum of seams Raglan and kimono sleeves are easier to sew than set-in sleeves

The extra weight of reversible fabrics adds more body and a custom tailored look to garments.

'Most Comfortable' of the Year

If College Avenue was quiet from 3 to 6 p.m. Sunday, the same can't be said of residential areas, where cars were parked in groups and their owners gathered with friends for the most comfortable football game of the season.

Many fans who have season tickets to games in Green Bay and Milwaukee were not about to miss the big one, and it's not nearly as much fun to yell at a television set alone as it is with other eager couples. Popcorn, pretzels, potato chips and liquid refreshments made game watching informal. Cold winds, snow—all the inconveniences of enjoying a Packer game, were non-existent, and all the excitement, tension, thrills and cheers were worth double as the team came through.

Television Sets Were the focus of attention throughout the Fox River Valley Sunday afternoon. The Dennis Grundman home was no exception, and couples watched the game in the comfort of the living room. Above are the host and Robert Miers. At left, long distance quarterbacks direct the play. They are William Phillips and Mr. Grundman.

Dozens of Football parties were held in Fox Cities homes Sunday afternoon as the American and National Football Leagues fielded their best. Above, Mrs. Robert Miers and Miss Sue Holthusen, Neenah, applaud an inspired play. At left, caught up in the tension of 'will they or won't they make a first down' is Mrs. Dennis Grundman. The Grundmans were hosts at the party photographed here, repeating what many other couples did Sunday as the final game of the football season was played. At right, no one could say game watching was formal. Marlow Miller reacted to a touchdown in easy style.

'Red Velvet Swing' Still For Mrs. Evelyn Thaw, 82

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the beautiful Broadway showgirl in the sensational 1906 Harry K. Thaw-Stanford White murder case, died Tuesday.

The 82-year-old onetime "Girl on the Red Velvet Swing" succumbed in a convalescent home where she had been a patient, gradually growing weaker, for more than a year.

Mrs. Thaw was the key figure in the trial of her millionaire husband for murder of her former lover, handsome society architect White.

Publicized Case

The case, one of the most famous in the annals of American crime, was followed by millions of newspaper and magazine readers who wanted to know why Thaw shot White.

The slaying occurred June 25, 1906, at the opening performance of a new rooftop night club on the original New York Madison Square Garden, which White designed.

Hundreds of socially elite looked on in horror — including Evelyn — as Thaw shot White.

Quietly Ages

Her later life was an anticlimax of vaudeville and dancing performances. In later years, she lived quietly in Los Angeles, victim of several strokes and the infirmities of old age.

Refusing to talk of the case, she declared:

"I'm sick and tired of it all — of all those rehashings."

Watches Show

White was sitting alone the fatal night, watching a performance of the comedy, "Ma'mzelle Champagne." Thaw and his wife, former Floradora showgirl and artist's model, were sitting with two friends.

Before the performance ended, Thaw and his companions started to leave. Suddenly Thaw stopped at White's table, drew a pistol and fired three shots into his head. White died instantly.

Confusing Account

Thaw gave an incoherent explanation that he killed White because Mrs. Thaw had made a confession of relations with White prior to their marriage.

Thaw said 20 years later: "Under the circumstances, I'd kill him tomorrow."

In two trials that resulted, Thaw invoked the "unwritten law." His wife testified in his behalf.

Money No Help

A defense attorney later remarked: "Without Evelyn Nesbit Thaw as the witness she was, all the millions Thaw's mother had couldn't have saved him from electrocution."

The first trial ended in a hung jury. Thaw was acquitted on grounds of insanity at the second trial in 1908.

A lengthy legal battle followed to keep Thaw from commitment to a mental institution, but it failed. He was comitted to the Matteawan State Hospital for the criminal insane. In 1915, Thaw was declared legally sane, but was recommitted to a private institution for seven years after he was accused of horsewhipping a high school boy.

When she was 70, Mrs. Thaw rode past the old landmarks with a reporter, including the location of White's studio where she sometimes swung on a red velvet swing.

Film Version

In 1955, 20th Century-Fox made a film, "The Girl in the Red Velvet Swing," starring Joan Collins.

Said Mrs. Thaw: "Don't forget I was only 15, and I enjoyed swinging."

She said White was the only man she ever loved — "the most wonderful man I ever knew."

Fortune Spoils

Of Thaw, heir to a $40-million fortune, she said: "He was a mighty peculiar person, and he deteriorated. It would have been better if he had never been born. Too much money spoiled him young."

Thaw divorced his wife in 1916. When he died in 1947 in Miami, Fla., at the age of 76, he bequeathed $10,000 to her.

'Hooked' on Helping the Handicapped

BY SYLVIE REICE

A slave auction was held not long ago in Bridgeport, Conn! Auctioned off were 75 of Horace High School's most prominent students who willingly put themselves at the service of their masters for a full day in return for a donation. Money raised equalled more than $200 and was given to the United Cerebral Palsy Association!

In Norfolk, Va., groups of teens "took over" busy gas stations during the UCP fund-drive For a contribution, teens cleaned ash-trays, swept the interiors of cars and wiped the windows! Queens College (New York City) coeds collected $165 as window wipers, too And 60 Oakland, Calif boys and girls regularly took handicapped children to the zoo and baseball games . .

In Phoenix, Ariz., Cerebral Palsy "Monitors", 100 of them, provide a unique babysitting service. The teens undergo weeks of intensive training by medical and professional staffs so they will be prepared to relieve parents of the constant around-the-clock care of the handicapped child. They learn to cope with braces, speech difficulties and other physical limitations

Something Poignant

There's something particularly poignant about cerebral palsied children, and teens are daily being attracted to working with them, on both a volunteer level, and later, in professional jobs Said Connie Lou White, a 17-year-old from Norfolk, after two years of being a camp counselor to these handicapped children· "Since working with them, I've become more thankful for what I have, but also I'm envious of each child's bravery and cheerful outlook in spite of his or her handicap Often when I'm faced with a difficult task, I think of these cerebral palsied children trying so hard to walk, swim or eat without help, and I try to work a little harder to complete my task I wish every teen ager had had the opportunity I've had. I'm sure each would find it just as rewarding."

In Indianapolis, Ind., some junior and senior high school students have served as volunteer "Teen Tonics" at the cerebral palsy center for as long as six years! Among them is Suzi Wilson, a recent graduate of Tech High School, who holds a special award from UCP for her 500 hours of service!

Appreciate Work

Nikki Gramatikos, 17 is another "special" volunteer who racked up 500 hours of service in Monessen Pa., and got a gold charm from the Women s Committee for her work Nikki did all kinds of jobs — even wielded a scrub brush and paint roller helping to repair the Monessen center for its opening

During the summer, she gave the children four hours a day, five days a week! "Being part of something was what first attracted me to this work," she says. "Besides, these children have a special quality about them They're always so cheerful in spite of their handicaps — it's amazing!" As a therapy aide, she helps the children move through the exercises prescribed for them "And I've got muscles to prove it," she says . . . Nikki also personally conducted a book drive and cleaned and repaired the 300 volumes donated to the library service for cerebral palsy victims who can't leave their homes because of their handicaps

What does all of this add up to for Nikki, for instance? She has enrolled in the University of Pittsburgh with the definite goal of studying physical therapy and plans to work with palsied children 'It's so exciting to see them progress," she says "Sometimes you can see it from week to week They deserve every chance they get" He final word on the subject 'They've got me hooked!"

TEEN-TALIZERS:

Twiggy — England's famous teen-age model made the same New Year's resolution that probably millions of teens did "Not to bite my nails!"

"Come on over to the classics" is Benny Goodman's advice to young instrumentalists who have been limiting their playing to pop music "Modern instruments are being made with such remarkable technical improvements that it makes playing much more easy . . . There is a huge wonderful classical literature for instrumentalists just waiting to be enjoyed" explains the "King of Swing,' who himself swings over to the classics regularly.

'Hello Dolly' Has Birthday; Party Launches Social Season

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carol Channing got a kiss from President Johnson, her show "Hello Dolly" got a birthday cake and the White House social season got off to a rollicking start Tuesday night.

There were cheers and hurrahs from the audience for a 30-minute performance of excerpts from the hit musical which provided Johnson with his 1964 campaign song, "Hello Lyndon"

There were so many raves that Miss Channing told the President "Isn't it lovely You don't have any critics here"

"We don t huh?" the President replied

Cast Performs

"Operation Big Daddy," Miss Channing called it, as she brought a touring troup of 25 to give the President his first chance to see the long-running musical.

The cast played the White House between stops at Greensboro, N C., and Dayton, Ohio, where it is due today.

The show provided the after dinner entertainment at a black tie dinner the Johnsons gave in honor of Vice President Hubert H Humphrey, Chief Justice Earl Warren and House Speaker John W. McCormack.

Warren called the evening "great fun" Humphrey termed it "The best ever."

As the show came to a close, Miss Channing, in her red-sequined and bejeweled satin gown with a huge red feathered hat on her tangerine-colored hair waved and blew kisses to the 190 guests, including New York Gov Nelson A Rockefeller and threatrical personalities Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, Joan Crawford, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., and Marge and Gower Champion.

President Dances

Then the White House staff wheeled up a six-tiered rose decorated cake with four candles to mark the start of the show's fourth year

Miss Channing bubbled "Dear Mr President, we're all so touched — you knew we were coming"

"As I look at all your warm and friendly faces," she added, "I'm grateful to the Great Society — you sure know how to spread it around."

The off-stage show stopper was the President dancing with Miss Channing to the tune of "Helio Dolly." He ducked under the star's huge feathered hat to dance check-to-cheek with her. Their performance — it was the President's one and only dance — swept the others to the sidelines to watch.

Mrs. Johnson had her first dance with Fairbanks. The vice president did a frugging version of "Hello Dolly" with Miss Channing.

St. Therese Tells Plans for Party

A Pre-lenten Fling is planned by the parishioners of St. Therese Catholic Church. The dance will be held at 8:30 p.m. Feb. 3 in the church activity center. A lunch will be served by the Christian Mothers Society.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lessard have charge of the event. Mr. and Mrs. Irving Snow have charge of refreshments; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Van Asten, tickets and publicity; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Huelsbeck, decorations, and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Harris, clean-up.

Tickets may be purchased at Unmuth's Rexall Drug Store, Bestler Bakery, Northern State Bank, from chairmen and at the door.

clearing the queen and jack of spades out of the way, South should play a low heart from each hand. This gives the opponents their food, but South is safe against all possible bites.

If East takes the heart trick and returns a diamond, South steps up with the ace of diamonds and leads a heart to dummy's queen. He discards two diamonds on the high spades and returns to his hand with a club to run the rest of the tricks.

Daily Question

Partner opens with two hearts (forcing to game), and the next player passes. You hold: S 10 8 7 6 5 2 H J 10 9 7 D 7 4 C 6. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two notrump, the negative response. You can raise hearts later, thus showing that your strength is in the form of distribution rather than in high cards.

Select Right Time for Feeding

Biting the hand that feeds you is called vicious — by feeders; but it seems very normal to all biters. If you're going to feed a known biter, don't be foolish enough to put your hand in with the food. And if you're wondering what this has to do with bridge, play today's hand.

South won the first trick with the queen of clubs, cleared the queen and jack of spades out of the way and went to dummy with the queen of hearts. He discarded two diamonds on the ace and king of spades and then went after the hearts.

The plan was very reasonable. South could get four heart tricks if the suit broke either 3-3 or 4-2. The odds were 5 to 1 in his favor — far better than discarding two hearts on the spades and hoping for a successful finesse in diamonds.

Unfortunately, East had a heart stopper and two good spades. If South continued the hearts, East would take three tricks. South had to be content with taking the first eleven tricks, but he was still down one.

The hand is unbeatable if South gives up a heart trick before he has developed the setting trick for East.

Your Problems

Reader Saddened That Epilepsy Hidden Due to Fear, Ignorance

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you tell me to mind my own business I will, but what goes on next door is heartbreaking and I'd give anything if I could help.

I will call the neighbor girl, Betsy. She is almost 16, a sweet, pretty little thing, but her mother (a widow) is wrecking her life. Betsy has epilepsy but she doesn't know it. My brother was an epileptic and I have witnessed hundreds of seizures so I am not guessing. Betsy's mother has told her (and everyone else) that the girl has "fainting spells" which she will outgrow in time.

One afternoon Betsy had a seizure when I was present. I suggested to the mother that she take her daughter to a doctor because she might be an epileptic. The mother became furious. She said I had no right to diagnose illnesses and that epilepsy was out of the question because there had never been any insanity in their family.

I know how well my brother did when he followed the doctor's orders and took his medication. It breaks my heart to see this young girl being kept in the dark because her mother has the ridiculous idea that epilepsy is a disgrace.

Please print my letter and a strong reply to enlighten the reading public. Many thanks. — Silent Neighbor

Dear Silent Neighbor: The ignorance and fear and superstition that once surrounded epilepsy is slowly fading away, but unfortunately too many people still harbor the medieval notion that this illness is something to be ashamed of.

Epilepsy is a fairly common

disease. Approximately one in 100 people in the United States is an epileptic. No one knows the exact cause of epilepsy. It can result from brain damage, pre-natal or birth injuries or an infectious disease.

Authorities agree it has nothing to do with insanity and point to the evidence that the vast majority of epileptics are normal in every other way. This illness is not considered hereditery although a predisposition may be found in certain types of epilepsy.

In recent years drugs have proven extremely effective in controlling (and in some cases eliminating) seizures. Thousands of epileptics who take medication (under doctor's orders, of course) attend school regularly, hold responsible positions, marry and have fine families. Betsy can be among them — if her mother will let her.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I felt sorry for the after-dinner speaker who was furious because a "friend" stole his jokes after having heard him at a previous function. When the poor fellow's time came, he was literally speechless. Maybe this anecdote will help others who might be similarly victimized:

Mark Twain and Chauncey M. DePew were both scheduled to appear on a program. Mr. Twain spoke for 20 minutes and made a big hit. When Mr. DePew was called on to speak he said, "Ladies and Gentlemen: Before this dinner Mark Twain and I agreed to trade speeches. Mr. Twain has just delivered my speech and I am pleased that it was so well received. I regret that I have lost the notes to his speech and I can't remember what he wanted to say."

Mr. DePew then sat down amid much laughter and was as big a hit as Mr. Twain. — D.O.K.

Dear D.: Many thanks for the beautiful story. I might even resort to this life-saver myself one of these days.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

False. Studies show that a person dreams several periods during a night's sleep, whether he remembers it or not. Scientists, conducting research into the nature of sleep, have ways of telling when an individual is dreaming. The sleeper's eyes dart as though he were watching a film, his heart rate becomes irregular, and his respiration rate speeds up. When the sleeper is awakened during this period of sleep, he invariably reports a dream. By morning you may or may not be able to recall what the dream was, but you did nevertheless.

Words have only one meaning.

True— False—

False. If you look up a word in the dctionary, you get what "denotive" meaning. But words also have a second meaning that is to be found mainly in the feelings that they arouse. It is this second "connotive" meaning that is often most important. In order to know what anyone is saying, it is often necessary to "translate" the verbiage and ideas into specific proposals of action. Thus many groups that condemn "communist infiltration" are really saying that they oppose change.

Can moving be an adventure?

Yes— No—

Yes, for the imaginative family, it can be. Reading up ahead of time on where you are going, getting maps for the children to follow, planning cook-outs and picnics en route and near the new locale all help make a move seem like an exciting an dinteresting thing to do. Planning together for the move, and then cooperating to get things packed, moved an in order again in the new place, all help each family member feel that he or she is a part of the adventure of moving.

Is Man Older Than He Thinks?

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Man may be older than he thinks — by some 800,000 years.

Prof. Bryan Patterson, a paoleontologist at Harvard University, announced the discovery recently. Patterson said he came upon a fossilized chunk of a upper arm bone while walking near Lake Rudolph in Kenya.

"I found it about 4 p.m. on a hot afternoon lying on the surface," he said. "I saw this thing and said 'ho-hum, another damn knuckle thing.'"

A few hundred steps later, "a light went on inside my head," Patterson said, "and I thought, 'By God, this must be it.'"

It was. Special measurements showed the bone was about 2½ million years old — give or take 200,000 years.

Old Met Opera House Comes Tumbling Down

NEW YORK (AP) — The old Metropolitan Opera house, which reverberated to the best voices of three generations, now echoes with the sound of its own destruction.

A year-long battle to save the historic 83-year-old structure ended in defeat Tuesday afternoon with the signing of a routine $200 demolition permit.

Soon afterward burly steel-helmeted wreckers stood above the stage that was the scene of numerous international operatic triumphs and pounded sledge-hammers through the roof.

"This is going to give America a black eye for years to come," predicted Huntington Hartford, the millionaire arts patron who helped lead the fight to save the Met.

A real estate concern plans to erect a 40-story office building on the site which it leased after the Met moved to its new quarters in the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts last fall.

Jingo Notes Harlequin Plays at Bay UW Center

Outstanding One-Acts by Ionesco, Fry, Beckett Scheduled for Jan. 27 Weekend

BY JINGO

Jingo

Green Bay Center starting Friday, Jan. 27.

Included in the three-night run, set for 8:15 p.m. in the music-drama room, will be Ionesco's "The Lesson," Fry's "A Phoenix Too Frequent" and Becket's "Acts Without Words — 1," drawn from his mime series.

Jingo has seen "The Lesson" and "A Phoenix Too Frequent" on stage and realizes that both require actors of considerable talent.

In the former, for example, the professor will invariably be portrayed by someone much younger than the actual character. In Donald Shunke, Jingo has the assurances of persons who have seen rehearsals that the role will be capably filled.

Shunke's student will be played by Janice De Noble, a center student. The maid's role went to Betty Van de Ven.

The production will be directed by John Wehrman, one of the founders of the group. Both Wehrman and Shunke are employed by WLUK-TV, Channel 11, Green Bay.

'Phoenix' Cast

In "Phoenix," director Helen Flanigan has cast James Daevie as Pegeus, the male lead. Other roles will be filled by Sharon Scull (as Doto) and Dee Todd (as Dyamene). Director Flanigan also is a veteran of Harlequin.

Becket's one-character play without words was a late addition to the slate. The lone role went to Richard Tobin, history instructor at the Green Bay Center and current president of Harlequin. He most recently played Nick in the Harlequin production of Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" He will be directed by Wil Brazeau, also a Harlequin board member.

This will be the first time the group has done a night of one-acts. Since beginning operations in Green Bay in summer of 1965, credits include Moliere's "The Misanthrope," "Antigone" and "Woolf.' Also listed is the first production staged, a world premiere of Mark Berman's "Pictures at an Inhibition." At the time, Berman was connected with Tyrone Guthrie's Repertory Theater at Minneapolis.

Other Plays Underway

Scheduled for later are Shelaugh Delaney's "A Taste of Honey" (Feb. 24-26) and Friedrich Duerrenmatt's "The Physicists" (April 14-16).

"Honey" has already begun rehearsals. A featured attraction in this production will be the appearance of Green Bay Packer defensive end Lionel Aldridge in a leading role. Big No. 82 on stage should be interesting.

Special Events

Holiday on Ice — (opens Friday) 1967 edition of Holiday on Ice at Milwaukee Arena, 8:15 p.m. Friday night; 2:30 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. Saturday; 2:15 p.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday.

Student Recital — (Friday afternoon) Violinist Suzanne Driscoll, pianist Max Radloff, 2:30 p.m., Harper Hall, Lawrence Music Drama Center.

Nancy Wilson, Center, was recently voted most popular singer at the multi-racial Los Angeles High School. Here she is shown with many of her youthful admirers after a student assembly that combined both music and message. The message? Don't be a school dropout. A graduate of Ohio's Central State College, the singer has made a dozen such appearances in American cities. She uses her musical talents to give her the opportunity to include the message about which she is so serious. (AP Wirephoto)

Holy Laugh A Minute On Batman

6:30-7 (Channels 11-6-9) — Holy Laugh a Minute, but Batman has a funny episode. Catwoman (Julie Newmar), a 12-time loser, is back with her protege Pussycat (singer Lesley Gore), a would-be singer our heroine found in the Milk Shake A Go-Go, and her aides, Marlow, Spade and Templar. She gets Pussycat to scratch Robin with Cataphrenic and the teenager everyone looks to for guidance becomes an unethical, immoral kid. He joins her robberies (targets: Wayne Manor and an eccentric inventor named Pending) and, at the climax, is about to spring a gigantic mousetrap in which Adam West is trapped.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — The British are waiting for Daniel Boone and his helpers as "The Williamsburg Cannon" concludes. But the Indian girl one of the group loves warns them of a trap and Dan'l (Fess Parker) devises a pretty clever ploy to preserve the canon which might cost Mingo (Ed Ames) his life. Meanwhile, Capt. George (Warren Stevens), who has challenged Daniel to a duel, begins to change his opinion of the man.

7-7:30 (Channels 11-6-9) — Phil Harris appears on F Troop as Flaming Arrow, the 147-year-old "noblest Hekawi of them all." It's a funny episode with Flaming Arrow, friend and adviser to George Washington, Ben Franklin and James Madison, deciding now is the time to gain vengeance for Washington's ultimate shabby treatment of him. So he incites an uprising which lets Larry Storch impersonate the good general.

7:30-8 (Chanels 2-7-12) — My Three Sons has fun with something that will be familiar to lots of families: the annual father-eldest son fishing trip on the day the trout season opens.

7:30-8:30 (Channels 4-5) — Star Trek has a visual outing in which William Shatner finds himself alone on a planet being tracked by a "gorn," a monstrous being, with the outcome of their eventual battle being the safety of the Enterprise.

8-8:30 (Channels 11-6-9) — Some fast-paced humor brightens a good Love on a Rooftop which builds to a very funny climax. Seems Dave (Peter Deuel) is moonlighting as a gas station attendant, a cook and a dance instructor while Julie (Judy Carne) is working as a caricaturist in a restaurant. And her snobbish dad comes to town trying to impress a friend with the good marriage his daughter has made only to run into Dave filling up his tank and cooking his hamburger.

8-10 (Channels 2-7-12) — "My Geisha" on The Thursday Night Movies has some beautiful scenery of Japan, where it was filmed, spoiled only by the plot, which keeps getting in the way. Shirley MacLaine, Yves Montand, Bob Cummings, and Edward G. Robinson star in this 1962 release.

8:30-9 (Channels 11-6-9) — Some good humor on That Girl as Marlo Thomas decides her messy friend Ted Bessell needs a maid to straighten out his apartment. So she hires one who turns out to be two things she hadn't counted on: beautiful, and a sleep-in maid. The girl is Japanese (Caroline Kido) who can only stay in this country if she marries an American citizen, which really sends Marlo into action.

8:30-9 (Channels 4-5) — Dragnet 1967 has some fingernail-chewing suspense at the climax, when Jack Webb and Harry Morgan have located the criminal-of-the-week and must try to get him to tell where he has planted a charge of dynamite so sensitive it can even be set off by static or a radio transmission. Don Dubbins plays this villain, a pseudo-Nazi who wants to rid the world of Negroes.

There Are Ways to Tease Your Appetite

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please help me. I have a heart condition and high blood pressure and am on a low-salt and low-fat diet. Now my doctor tells me I am suffering from malnutrition, because I have no appetite.

I got reckless today and cooked a very small minute steak in butter and ate it, as I was so hungry, and so far haven't felt any bad effects from it. I also ate a little plain corn and some beets.

What could I eat and not injure my heart? — M. T.

I'm afraid that something is very much wrong here — that something has been misunderstood.

You say, Mrs. T., that you "have no appetite," but you ate a steak because you were "so hungry."

Limited salt, and limited fat, particularly the former, have important roles to play in your condition, but it is even more important that you have enough nourishment.

Dr. Molner

What you mean — am I right? — is that you have an appetite, but not for the things you think you are allowed to eat.

You need protein, which means meat, fish, eggs, cheese. True, you must avoid adding salt to your food, but at the grocery you can get salt substitutes which are made with potassium and not with sodium. These substitutes add a good deal of flavor.

Lemon juice and vinegar both can add a tartness to certain dishes and compensate for the lack of salt.

You can broil meat instead of

frying it and thus avoid the added fat required for frying.

I concede that eggs without salt aren't as tasty, but the use of salt substitutes and pepper can make up to some degree.

Another possibility is to use one of the liquid diets, which are readily available.

They are mainly used by people because the liquid is high in protein, vitamins and minerals which needed for health, yet the total number of calories is kept within fixed limits. These diets, as I've mentioned before, were not originated as "reducing diets," but intended for people with finicky appetites who needed an easy way to eat some of the things they need.

There are ways to get the food you need without damaging your heart or raising your blood pressure. What I suspect is that you have told your doctor that you "have no appetite," when what you really mean, and should have said, is that you need his help in explaining just what you CAN eat safely. For when you are hungry, you have appetite.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been married five months and have discovered that I am frigid. Because I am ashamed of my problem, I have not seen a doctor or told my husband.

I think it is because of the way I am built. Is this possible, and can anything be done? — S.K.

Having a problem is nothing that should make you ashamed. It is just something to be solved. Physical abnormalities often can be corrected, but by the far the more frequent cause of frigidity is psychological.

You doubtless will need your physician's help, even if only to assure you that you are anatomically normal. For the psychological aspects (as well as others) two excellent books are "Private and Personal" by Grace Naismith, and "Release from Sexual Tensions," by Mary Steichen Calderone, M. D.

Note to Mrs. E. B.: No, I have no booklet on hormones, but there is a chapter, "Hormones, Health and Hokum," in my book, "Stay Well Every Year of Your Life," which can be obtained through book stores. The book also deals in other chapters with various aspects of hormones.

Bed-wetting is a distressing problem. If your child has the habit, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for a copy of his helpful booklet, "Enuresis — Ten Ways To Stop Bed-Wetting." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Arkansas Station Studies Hormones In Insect Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has made a grant of $42.864 to the Arkansas Agricultural Experiment Station to study possible use of plant hormones to control cotton insect pests.

Scientists believe it may be possible to spray cotton crops with plant hormones which would cause the insects to go into diapause and emerge in the winter or early spring, instead of the usual time later in the crop year.

Because of the early emergence, the insects would die from cold weather or from the unavailability of food.

Massachusetts Colonial Village Draws Tourists

STURBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)— More than half a million persons visited Old Sturbridge Village, a recreated 19th-century community, during 1966.

A spokesman said the 548,028 persons who visited the village was 30 per cent more than the previous year.

U.S. Reveals Highest Casualty Total of War

144 Arnericans Killed in Vietnam Fighting in Week; Additional 1,044 Wounded

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headquarters announced today that American forces in Vietnam suffered nearly 1,200 casualties last week, their highest weekly total of the Vietnam war.

The U. S. command said 144 men were killed, 1,044 were wounded and six were missing in the week that ended at midnight Saturday. The previous high was in the week ending last September 24, when 970 Americans were killed, wounded or missing.

Many of last week's casualties were sustained in Operation Cedar Falls in the iron triangle north of Saigon, the biggest ground sweep of the war. While there were no large-scale battles, there were numerous small clashes and the number of men deployed — estimated at more than 30,000 — exceeded any operation of the war.

B52 bombers struck at Communist fortifications and tunnels at noon on the northern edge of the iron triangle 29 miles northnorthwest of Saigon. The raid, the 13th by the B52s in support of the vast sweep operation, destroyed 12 buildings, 325 feet of trenches, 59 bunkers and three tunnels, a U.S. spokesman reported.

Small ground skirmishes also continued in the iron triangle, and U.S. forces reported the toll of enemy dead since the operation started Jan. 8 had risen to 524, with a record 3,170 tons of rice seized and 421 weapons captured.

Over North Vietnam, U.S. pilots hammered at important railroad yards and rail bridges northeast and northwest of Hanoi Wednesday and flew 109 strike missions. It was the largest number of missions since Jan. 4, when U.S. pilots flew 116 against the North.

Antiaircraft Fire

U.S. headquarters did not report any planes lost during the raids Wednesday although pilots

Bobby-Pins for RFK?

WASHINGTON (AP)—A New Yorker — concerned about the image of the Empire State—has sent Sen. Robert F. Kennedy $2 for a haircut.

Emanuel F. Manheimer, 25, Ossining, N.Y., said Kennedy's bushy head had bothered him for some time. But seeing the senator on television last week on the night of President Johnson's State of the Union message really was the last straw, he said.

"It is irrelevant whether I am a registered Democrat or Republican," Manheimer wrote the New York Democrat Wednesday. "The only point is that I am and have been all my life a resident of the state of New York.

"I am enclosing a check in the amount of $2," he said, "to maintain an image that the country might have of the Empire State." He said that when he once worked as a state park employe his boss "wouldn't allow us to report to work like that."

Kennedy apparently was unconcerned.

"I got a haircut Monday. Tell Mr. Manheimer to watch me at my next public appearance," he said through an office spokesman.

The clip was anything but close.

Kennedy's bushy hair also draws some barbs from fellow senators.

When Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen arrived one day with his locks tousled more than usual, a colleague in the Senate chamber said, "You're looking more like Bobby every day!"

Quipped Dirksen: "Well, I thought we might as well have Beatles on each side of the aisle."

Machinists Threatening Railway Strike

Union Demanding Wage Increases Exceeding 5 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Machinists' Union, which staged history's biggest airlines strike last year, now is heading for a showdown with the nation's railroads.

President P.L. (Roy) Siemiller of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists says his union won't settle for the 5 per cent wage hike pattern other unions have accepted from the railroad industry.

"We'll take a strike on it unless they come up with more than 5 per cent," Siemiller told newsmen.

Same Position

He said the 43,000 railroad machinists are in much the same position as the 35,000 airline machinists before last summer's strike in falling behind other industries in wages.

The railroads, Siemiller said, once provided the highest paying jobs, but "the poorest job a machinist can get today is to go to the railroad industry."

A Machinists' spokesman said its members in the railroad industry earned $3.05 per hour, compared with $4 or more in most other industries.

The union's six-week strike against five major airlines last summer boosted top mechanics' pay in that industry from $3.52 to $4.08 per hour by the end of next year, plus cost-of-living wage hikes up to 6 cents an hour.

The airlines contract provided wage and fringe benefit increases variously estimated at 5 to 7 per cent.

Under delaying provisions of the Railway Labor Act, the government probably can stave off any railroad strike threat until next June.

Racial Clash Nearly Erupts At San Quentin

Convicts Herded Back to Cells After Prison Confrontation

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Guards firing rifles, shotguns and tear-gas canisters prevented a racial clash between 2,800 white and Negro convicts in the San Quentin Prison yard Wednesday night as the two groups came to within 50 feet of each other.

Eight convicts suffered gunshot wounds during the tense hours following a glaring facedown of the two groups. Five others suffered head wounds from beatings by other convicts. Two men incurred heart attacks.

The confrontation included one group of more than 1,000 whites and Mexican-Americans and another group of about 1,800 Negroes.

Fatal Beating

Officials said the turmoil grew out of the fatal beating and stabbing of a white prisoner last Monday.

Trouble started after lunch Wednesday, said Associate Warden James W. L. Park, when inmates entered the football field-sized yard. Whites and Mexican-Americans gathered on one side, Negroes on the other. They drew closer, hurling curses across the no-man's-land. Elsewhere on the grounds of the 40-acre prison, another 1,200 inmates tended to their duties.

With the angry convicts separated by only 50 feet, Warden Lawrence E. Wilson mounted the gunwall surrounding the yard and ordered, "Knock it off and go back to your cells."

There was silence, and no one moved.

Armed With Pipes

Park said many of the men had armed themselves with pipes from plumbing ripped from prison facilities, and clubs from benches torn apart in the yard. A temporary classroom building made of wood was set ablaze.

Finally, tear-gas canisters were thrown and the Negroes, prodded by warning shots whin-

Pentagon Plans Yearly Savings Of $37 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon aims to save more than $37 million yearly by merging or phasing out 33 military bases and activities in the United States and six overseas facilities, it was learned today. More than 1,400 civilian jobs would be eliminated.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was to tell a news conference today about the new consolidation move, his sixth since 1961.

Informed sources said the new cutbacks also will involve the transfer of 3,000 other civilian employes and 1,700 military workers. The informants added, however, that all career civilian employes whose jobs will be eliminated by the new actions will be immediately offered different positions by the Defense Department.

The 33 cutbacks in the United States are spread unevenly across the nation, with Alabama, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Texas and Washington each losing three facilities. California, Massachusetts, New York and Ohio each will lose two facilities.

The largest savings — about $20.8 million annually — will be gained by phasing out all of the Navy's antisubmarine P5 seaplanes by 1968 and their support facilities at 12 bases around the world. Informants emphasized that the phaseout of the seaplanes will not shut down overall activities of the air bases.

They added that McNamara's decision to cut out the seaplane operations was based on evidence indicating it is cheaper and easier to support similar antisubmarine operations with land-based planes.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A Circuit Court hearing is scheduled Friday concerning psychiatric examinations given Miachel Lee Herrington, charged in the slayings of two young Milwaukee girls last year.

8 Communication Satellites Aloft

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Eight new communications satellites spun around the globe today, undergoing tests to qualify them as carriers of secret messages between far-flung U.S. military bases.

The eight were launched from Cape Kennedy Wednesday by an Air Force Titan 3 rocket that sprayed them like buckshot into separate orbits 21,000 miles up. They joined seven other identical payloads sent up last June.

The first seven already are speeding messages among eight ground stations. Emphasis is on traffic between Washington and Vietnam.

Top Republicans to Give Rebuttal to LBJ's Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said today "Congress can cut the President's budget sufficiently to avoid a tax increase." But until Congress gets the budget, he added, "it is impossible to be specific about budget cuts."

In reply to questions submitted by The Associated Press, Ford said his opposition to the President's proposal for a 6 per cent surcharge on corporate and most individual income taxes "is based on the economic indicators as they presently exist."

"Balancing the economy is more important than balancing the budget," he said.

GOP Response

Ford's views were given in advance of tonight's Republican response to President Johnson's State of the Union message. The Michigan Republican will outline the GOP domestic program and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen will discuss foreign affairs.

Dirksen told a reporter it was fair to say that he would give Johnson's Vietnam course a general endorsement but reserve the right to criticize particulars. He added he will have a great deal to say about other international actions.

Ford said that if Johnson had "set a ceiling of $130 billion or less on his budget," rather than putting it at $135 billion, "he then might not have been compelled to request a tax increase."

Tragir Mistake

In the Republican Congressional Committee "Newsletter" last week, Ford called the tax proposal a "tragic mistake" and said "the President has yet to present solid evidence that it is necessary."

Johnson said the surtax would bring in $4.5 billion in the fiscal year starting July 1, holding the estimated deficit in that year to $8.1 billion.

But Ford said "it seems clear that the proposed income tax increase is advanced as the vehicle for $4.5 billion in increased domestic spending."

And he said his opposition to what Johnson says is a tax intended to reduce the deficit does not mean he is "advocating a large deficit."

Byrnes Noncommittal

The senior Republican member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee took a more flexible position on the tax proposal.

"I just don't have enough facts to make a judgment," Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin said in an interview.

"It would be hard to tolerate a 12-15-18-20-billion dollar deficit," Byrnes added. "On the other hand, it might be better if the economy is shaky to tolerate a deficit of $6-7 billion than have a tax increase because of the effect it might have on the economy."

Many Republicans — and Democrats too — have issued statements criticizing the President's surtax proposal. Virtually all have contended that domestic spending cuts should come before Congress considers the tax hike. Few have said outright they will vote against the tax increase.

Mother Ruled Insane After 3 Drownings

SKOWHEGAN, Maine (AP) — A verdict of innocent by reason of insanity has acquitted Constance Fisher of murder charges brought for the bathtub drownings of her second three children in a repetition of the way her first three children died 12 years ago.

Mrs. Fisher, 38, was ruled insane after the first three children died, but was discharged from a mental hospital five years later as cured.

The second three children, about the same ages as the first three when they died, were Nathalie, 9 months, Kathleen, 6, and Michael, 4.

Insanity Plea Entered In Arizona Slayings

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Robert Benjamin Smith, 18, of Mesa, charged with the murder of four women and a young girl Nov. 12 in a Mesa beauty college, pleaded innocent Wednesday by reason of insanity.

Searchers Seek Lost Plane Over Caribbean

Heiress, Husband Reported Missing In Small Craft

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Planes are searching between Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands for the only daughter of one of the world's richest women, missing in a small twin-engine plane with her husband and a pilot.

Audrey Bruce Currier, a granddaughter of Andrew W. Mellon, and her husband, Stephen R. Currier, were last heard from Tuesday night 30 minutes after the Piper Apache took off from San Juan for a 70-mile hop to St. Thomas, in the Virgin Islands. The pilot was John D. Watson, 52, of Airplane Charters Inc., the owner of the plane.

More than 20 planes and ships spent all Wednesday fanning over the eastern Caribbean. But they found no trace of the heiress to an estimated $700-million share of the vast Mellon financial empire or her husband, 36, a philanthropist and sponsor of civil rights causes.

Planes kept up the hunt throughout the night and the air-sea search resumed at daylight today.

Mrs. Currier, 33, is the daughter of David K.E. Bruce, U.S. ambassador to Britain, and Ailsa Mellon Bruce, the only daughter of the Pittsburgh tycoon who was U.S. secretary of the treasury from 1921 until 1932.

The Curriers, who maintained homes in New York and The Plains, Va., flew from Miami to San Juan Tuesday to start a 10-day vacation cruise in the West Indies. A 150-foot yacht and a 50-foot sloop chartered by the couple for the cruise are taking part in the search.

The couple left their three children, Andria, 10, Lavinia, 8, and Michael, 6, in New York.

Snow Possible Friday

Valley Expects -2 Tonight

The arctic wave which struck the midwest this week has not left, the weatherman says. He adds, however, that the 20 - below temperatures which the Fox Valley experienced probably have left.

The expected low reading tonight is about 2 degrees below zero and it should reach 15 above Friday, about the same as today. In addition, light snow is in the forecast for Friday. The snow which blanketed the Valley Wednesday night and this morning amounted to one-half an inch.

The Wisconsin Highway Patrol reported that major roads in the state had scattered slippery spots today, except in the southeast. The light snow brought about the conditions and in some areas the spots were numerous.

Light snow was falling at mid-morning today at Eau Claire, Wausau, Green Bay, Stevens Point and Oshkosh.

Fifteen below at Superior also was the state's lowest reading during the night. Green Bay and Wausau had a minimum of 14 below. Eau Claire 8 below, Lone Rock 7 below, Park Falls 5 below, Madison 3 below, Milwaukee zero, La Crosse 2 above and Beloit 5. Appleton had 3 below.

Biting cold which numbed much of the Midwest in winter's iciest weather spread eastward today with the core of the arctic air centered in the Northeast.

The early morning reading at Bemus Point, in western New York near Jamestown, was -25 degrees. Much of western and northern New York shivered under subzero temperatures, as did parts of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and Pennsylvania. Marks of 10 to 20 degrees below zero were prevalent in northern New England with zero to 10 above in southern sections.

Light Winds Will Help Diminish Snap of Cold

Fox Cities — Low tonight, near -2; high Friday near 15. Partly cloudy with little change in temperature tonight. Moderate northwest winds diminishing to light northerly tonight. Chance of precipitation tonight, 10 per cent, and 20 per cent Friday.

Appleton — Observations for the past 24 hours show high, 12; low, -3. Barometer 30.30 and steady. Winds, southwest at 18 miles per hour. Relative humidity, 60. Dew point, 2. Skies partly cloudy

Sun sets at 4:45 p.m., rises Friday at 7:23 a.m. Moon sets tomorrow at 2:01 a.m. Full Moon is January 26.

Valley Cities' Chiefs Meet In Manitowoc

Will Talk Fiscal Troubles to Plan For Oshkosh Confab

Mayors and city managers from the Fox Valley's six most populated communities will meet at Manitowoc Feb. 1 to discuss governmental fiscal problems.

Officials from Appleton, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Sheboygan and Green Bay have been asked by Mayor Robert Rand of Manitowoc to attend.

It will be a prelude to a statewide meeting of mayor and managers from an estimated 20 Wisconsin cities at Oshkosh Feb. 15 and 16, called for the express purpose of preparing proposals to the state legislature.

Claim Unfair Treatment

The cities have been pushing the point that they are not being given fair treatment under existing state tax sharing and distribution formulas.

Better annexation legislation is also being advocated by the heads of Wisconsin cities, both large and small, who intend to carry their campaign directly to the lawmakers at Madison.

Mayor George Buckley of Appleton said today he intends to be at the Manitowoc meeting and will ask Finance Director Henry Schreve to accompany him.

The Valley mayors, according to Rand's suggestion, will review information supplied them at a previous Madison meeting by Mayors Henry W. Maier of Milwaukee and Otto Festge of Madison.

Compile Information

Statistical data on shared taxes and other information is being compiled for the Valley mayors, with projections if certain legislative changes are made to existing state formulas, which the mayors claim are outdated and unfair to the urban areas.

"Unless we can intelligently analyze any plan, it is virtually impossible to suggest to the legislature what our feelings might be," Mayor Rand wrote Buckley.

And he said unless the Valley cities have something to present with regard to their situations, they would be forced to go along with the suggestions of Madison and Milwaukee.

"I feel it is very important that we get together on this matter," Rand said.

After the Madison meeting, mayors indicated they would prepare a list of proposals for consideration at next month's Oshkosh meeting. The Manitowoc meeting is for that purpose, Buckley indicated.

Kaukauna Man Fined For Racing on Street

KAUKAUNA — Gerald L. Bongean, 24, 900½ W. 10th St., Kaukauna, was found guilty of racing on a city street and was fined $20 when arraigned before Clarence O'Connor, municipal justice, Monday.

Bongean was arrested Dec. 2 and pleaded innocent earlier. A charge of driving with illegal plates was dismissed at the recommendation of the city attorney.

Little Chute Plans Street Extension

Village Board to Seek Addition to Fillmore Street

LITTLE CHUTE — Preliminary steps were taken by the village board Tuesday night for the extension of Fillmore Street from E. Main Street north to County Trunk OO.

Village engineers were authorized to prepare plans and specifications for extension of sewer and water along the proposed street, but no further action will be taken until the village secures deeds granting the community property for the street extension. Informal agreement has already been reached with property owners.

Remote Meter Register

Board members approved an ordinance whereby all new water service connections will be required to include a remote meter register, thus making meter reading possible from outside the home.

Edward Spierings, village president, was authorized to sign a resolution whereby Air Wisconsin Inc. would be recommended for approval to serve the area with air mail service.

Members of the water department committee were authorized to prepare specifications for a one-half ton van or panel truck for use by the water department, specifications to be reviewed prior to advertising for bids.

Closer Court Supervision Under Study

Governor Reports Claims of Reduced Traffic Charges

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Closer supervision of local courts and their practices in handling traffic violation cases may be one of the results of the crusade for highway safety being started by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

The governor has been assured, it was learned here today, that the Wisconsin Supreme Court which has supervisory powers over the lesser courts, will cooperate to the extent of its powers if it is shown that local magistrates fail to apply the laws uniformly or fairly.

Knowles has twice told the legislature that he has had numerous complaints — presumably from law enforcement officials among others — about inconsistent practices of different courts in handling violators.

Complain of Reductions

"They have complained of apparently unwarranted reductions in penalties and delay in prosecutions occurring in some courts," the governor said of his anonymous informants.

In a conference of the State Supreme Court arranged by Chief Justice George R. Currie at the request of the governor, the judges asked for documentation of the complaints about unfair decisions of the lower courts. Arvid Sather, Knowles' legal counsel, said it is now being gathered and will be presented to the tribunal within a few months.

There has been study in the executive office also of the problem of contradictory and varying prosecution policies by district attorneys. But, unlike the trial courts, there is no state agency immediately charged with supervising the work of the district attorneys.

Judicial Council

Meanwhile, the state Judicial Council, established for the improvement of judicial administration, has turned in a series of recommendations for the modernization of the traffic laws and a procedure through which they can be more effectively administered.

The supervisory powers of the State Appeals Court, while explicitly provided in the state constitution, are largely untried. The first concerted effort for the supervision of the lower courts came half a dozen years ago with the creation of the office of state court administrator. John E. Martin, former chief justice of the Supreme Court, now holds the office.

Pushing Snow Onto Roads Is Hazardous; Punishable

Outagamie County Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson and Lt. Lowell Veitch of the county police today issued a warning concerning the growing practice of pushing snow from driveways and parking areas onto highways.

They said that anyone observed pushing or depositing snow onto highways will be ordered into court.

The men said the dangerous practice constitutes two extreme hazards. Usually the tractors or other vehicles used to push the snow have no sidelights and therefore approaching motorists cannot see them until they are too close.

Autos hitting snow piled on the roads could go out of control, Brownson and Veitch said, and large quantities of snow dumped directly alongside the highways could drift onto the road.

Brownson and Veitch pointed out that there was an accident recently involving a car and a tractor that was pushing snow across the roadway.

Chilton Native Killed on Job In Florida

Henry P. Doern, New Bridegroom, Headed Construction Crew

CHILTON — George P. Doern, 25, a native of rural Chilton, was killed Tuesday afternoon when he reportedly was run over by a steam roller at a road construction site in Jacksonville, Fla.

Doern, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Doern, route 2, Chilton, and his bride of less than a month, Helen, were residing at route 4, Jacksonville. The Jacksonville couple was married Dec. 23.

Doern was a foreman for Jackson Construction Co., and was directing the operation of the roller at the time of the accident.

Doern graduated from Chilton High School in 1959. He spent two years in military service and was discharged last September.

The young couple was married at the Normandy Baptist Temple in Jacksonville.

Doern's parents are in Florida to attend the young man's funeral this afternoon. After services in Jacksonville, the body will be returned to Chilton, for funeral services next Monday afternoon.

Funeral arrangements will be handled by Pfeffer Funeral Home with services at Ebenezer United Church of Christ. Burial will be at Hillside Cemetery. Final arrangements have not been announced.

Appleton Will Carry Water Project Fight 'All the Way'

Council Aroused by Delay; Will Send Delegation to Investigate

An aroused Appleton Council served notice Wednesday night that it will carry its fight for approval of a $1.5 million water project grant to federal officials in Chicago — and Washington, if need be.

Aldermen reacted swiftly to word from the office of Rep. John Byrnes (R-Green Bay) Tuesday that the city's application was still under review in the regional office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Mayor Buckley informed the council he was told it will be April before any action may be taken on forwarding the city's application to Washington.

Buckley said a spokesman for Byrnes' office told him not to look optimistically at the Appleton request for help on its $4.5 to $5 million water expansion project.

Order Delegation

Ald. Orville Strutz (17th) triggered the discussion which resulted in the council ordering a delegation of Appleton officials, headed by the mayor, to go to Chicago as soon as possible and confer with regional HUD officials.

Rep. Byrnes, along with U. S. Senator Gaylord Nelson and other Wisconsin lawmakers, will be asked to attend the meeting.

In 1-2 punch style, the council also heeded the suggestion of Ald. John Ayers (12th) that a resolution be prepared and adopted, outlining the critical need for approval of Appleton's grant request and citing the city's serious water problem.

At the same time, it will be pointed out other communities in the Fox Valley have received major federal grants for public works problems which are not as urgent as the expansion of the Appleton water works and the laying of a pipeline to Lake Winnebago.

"Dire Need"

"I think the time has come to put our senators and congressman in the open and see what they are doing to help us with this serious water problem," Ayers declared.

"Appleton is in dire need of federal assistance funds for this project," Ayers added.

Earlier, Buckley said he intended to write a letter to federal officials explaining the

Appleton Man Wills $450,000 to St. Norbert

Will of Gordon L. Schiffer Stipulates Money Is for Scholarships at Discretion of College

DE PERE — A $450,000 scholarship bequest to St. Norbert College by an Appleton man was announced by the Very Rev. D. M. Burke, O.P.M., president of the college.

The will of Gordon L. Schiffer, who died last September, stipulates that the money is "to be used for scholarships to be granted in such amounts and under such regulations as the governing body of the college shall deem best."

The principal of Schiffer's gift, according to the terms of the bequest, will be held in trust for a period of 50 years. It will be known as the Gordon L. Schiffer Scholarship Fund. The interest and dividends on this investment will generate approximately $25,000 per year for student assistance.

The will further provides that at the end of 50 years the college "may use all or any of the principal for such other purposes as in its judgment would be for the best interests of the college."

Institutions Benefit

Other provisions of the will leave $175,000 to three religious institutions and to a relative. St. Joseph's Home for Children in Green Bay was granted $50,000; St. Joseph and Sacred Heart parishes, both in Appleton, similar amounts, and a relative $25,000. St. Norbert College was named residuary beneficiary after these payments are made.

The inventory, filed this morning in Outagamie County Probate Court, shows that Schiffer had a gross estate of $663,000. Scheiffer was a retired meat market employe, and his mother reportedly had business interests in a large shoe manufacturing firm.

'New-Lefter's Stand'

Up-Beat Marxist Ribs 'Rural America' in Lawrence Talk

BY DICK LYNEIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"Like, this is Appleton," a crowd of about 250 people at Lawrence University was told Wednesday night, "and it's typical of rural America.

"Like, you have problems of isolation here, just like in Ithaca. And everything is white and Anglo-Saxon and Protestant and nice. This is typical small-town America.

"Like" the founder and president of a school he calls The Free University of New York said, "we must always avoid unpleasantness, at any cost, because we must protect our children. But there are terribly important things going on out there. You must have some idea that metropolitan America is there, whether you want to admit it or not."

Marxist Studies

The speaker's name was Allen Krebs. He calls himself a professor of Marxist studies at his school. Holder of a doctorate from the University of Michigan, he was dismissed from the faculty of Adelphi University two years ago for "teaching deficiencies, heresy, blasphemy and diabolism."

"So, like anyway — you know, I mean — like dirty Milwaukee and dirty Chicago and, God, like that's just America.

"And," he said, "like Africa is there all the time and, like, it isn't there. So the State Department is worrying about that problem and, like, everything is going to be all right."

The title of Krebs' lecture, which was the third in a series on radical political thought entitled "From Separate Corners," was "The Essence of Academic Freedom — a New-Lefter's Stand."

"American society," he stated, "is, like, a pat on the back, so for . . . sake, don't worry . . . everything's okay.

"I mean," Krebs said, "a university is where a person should understand the relationship between personality and the social order.

"You can learn to digest what you have to put up with when you graduate from here, like, nine-to-five, and Readers' Digest, and trees, and snow, and streams to fish in, and Appleton, and rural and corporate America

"When you girls graduate," he stated, "you have to have a high-toned painting, but just one, on the wall, and you must have an awareness of drama and theater so you know what to do when your corporate husband is called from rural America into the big city.

"As a college graduate," Krebs went on, "you are permitted to live on a high-tone, even though it might be a little less than human. You are destined for the corporate rat race. But don't, for God's sake, think these are personal problems; they are collective problems. Don't consider why these things are in us here in white, rural America."

Krebs charged that American colleges are evading "our society's relation to the rest of the world.

White Islands

"Like," he said, "for people living off the white islands of America, western Europe and Australia, the average income of the world is $60 a year, the average life expectancy is 30 years, only 2 per cent of the world's farmers have access of power machinery, and 80 per cent have no access to metal farm implements.

"In America," Krebs went on, "like, the problems are sickness

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller fined Tracey $35 and costs or 15 days in jail. Tracy could not pay the fine.

Wieseler is employed at the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., is married and the father of four children. He has run for the same office without success on two other occasions. Others seeking the office are incumbent Arnold Vander Loop and Robert Vondracek.

Avenue Reconstruction Bids Receive Final Okay

City Council Approves Signing Contract With Construction Firm; Special Assessment Approved

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The $800,000 College Avenue reconstruction project received the final stamp of approval Wednesday night.

By unanimous vote, the Appleton Council gave the go-ahead for signing contracts with Vinton Construction Co. of Manitowoc.

The action came on the heels of a brief public hearing on the special assessments to be levied against College Avenue property owners.

Small Audience

A representative of the Chicago and North Western Railway Co. registered the only official objection to the $104.29 per front foot assessment, claiming the railroad will not benefit from the improvement.

There were about 25 persons in the audience with four speaking on the assessments.

Ironically, one firm objecting was not included in the project area and will have no assessment.

An attorney for one avenue property owner did not oppose the reconstruction project but sought information on whether the city would grant some relief to a corner property that will be involved in the avenue as well as the future Soldiers Square pedestrian area project.

The tone of the feeling of avenue property owners was apparently set a week ago when city officials held an informal meeting at the city hall and explained project details in advance of the public hearing.

Owners Reconciled

While expressing concern over the assessment bills they will receive, property owners appeared reconciled to the fact that the project is a must. It has been in the discussion stage for about a decade.

The project area will extend from Drew to Richmond streets in the heart of the city's business district.

There is the future possibility

Second Ski School Session Ready to Go; Advice: Bundle Up Well

BY JOHN TORINUS JR.
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Yes, you can ski when the temperatures get so low the snow squeaks, and, yes, the second outdoor session of the Post-Crescent Ski School is still on for Saturday.

The first session last Saturday was the best attended in the five-year history of the school, with some 600 ski bunnies crawling all over the hills at Calumet County Park and Mo-Ski-Tow near New London.

The conditions, in contrast to the outlook for this weekend, were near perfect. Two inches of fluff had dropped on top of a good base — perfect snow for beginners, and the sun broke through midway through the morning teaching sessions.

Size of Classes

Enough instructors showed up at both hills to keep class sizes under 20, and the students progressed through the fundamentals well under the lashings of their instructors.

There was a normal number of youngsters whose bindings wouldn't stay on and the traditional damsels in distress who couldn't get up once they fell down. But most stuck it out for the full two hours, and climbed up and down without the benefit of tows.

The kids learned fastest, but many adult beginner and intermediate skiers also picked up more advanced turns and better control.

Basic Snowplow

Not surprisingly, instructors found it necessary to spend quite a bit of time on the basic snowplow, even in the intermediate and advanced classes. Skiers have a way of forgetting the basics from one year to the next, but once they are relearned, the progress accelerates.

So even if the temperatures are forbidding, the show will go on. Schools will open at both hills at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, and students are reminded to be on time and to go to the same classes so their instructors can easily continue where they left off.

Be ready for more choruses from the instructors of:

"Weight on the downhill ski" — "Not like that" — "More in the knees" — "Uncross those skis" — and "Fill up that sitzmark."

Best way to ski in cold weather is to use many more layers of clothing for insulation. Long undies, top and bottom, for a starter, and turtlenecks and more sweaters after that. A windbreaker on top is a must.

Then take along hot chocolate,

Council Seeks Setup Of Street Program

Ask Inclusion of Curb, Gutter In City's 1967 Improvement Plan

Appleton aldermen agreed Wednesday night to push for an expanded street construction and resurfacing program this summer.

The council acted favorably on the rerommendation of its street-sanitation committee to include about a mile of curb and gutter construction in the 1967 program.

Work will be on those streets where there has only been a base course for years, but are now completely built up with residential and commercial developments.

Ald. William Errington (15th) said although two of the scheduled streets were in his ward he favored the program and was "happy the work is finally going to be done."

The streets receiving curb and gutter this year will be up for permanent surfacing in 1968.

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), committee chairman, said streets were selected by the engineering division on the basis of need.

Pointer noted that Alds. John MacDonald (7th) and Paul Klemmer (11th) had advocated last year the establishment of a long-range street resurfacing and construction program based on engineering rather than political appraisals.

In the past, some aldermen were reluctant to schedule streets for resurfacing or other work, fearing the reaction of constituents who are assessed for the work.

Advertisment Approved

The council also directed the city advertise for bids for labor and materials for the 1967 resurfacing program which will include more than 10 miles of municipal streets.

In other action, the council:

—Approved a $5,500 purchase of a piece of equipment for plowing city sidewalks and crosswalks.

—Okayed tests of a train-type transfer system of garbage and rubbish collection this winter and in the spring.

—Received notice that a joint meeting of the parking commission and public safety committee will be at 4:30 p.m., Tuesday, to discuss the type of parking system best suited for the Soldiers Square ramp.

—Ordered installation of street lights on W. Bell Avenue between Summit and Mason streets; W. Hawes Avenue between Summit and Mason; White Oak Drive between Newberry Street and Crestview Drive; and E. Longview Drive between Ullman Street and Fairfield Court.

Graphco, Inc. Ends Operation

Graphco Inc. announced today it will discontinue operation of its plant on U.S. 41 in the Town of Menasha Friday.

Arthur Croxson, president, in making the announcement said the firm which specializes in photographic typesetting and related activities, has made no future plans.

"The nature of the work and the relation of our business to the markets we are trying to serve has put the business at a competitive disadvantage which it has been unable to overcome," Croxson said.

The privately owned company has been in operation since 1957. Officials said no plans have been formulated for disposition of the physical property. The company employs 33 persons.

Other officers are R. W. O'Brien, vice president, and W. P. Schmitzer, treasurer.

Laird Asks Educators to Back Revenue-Sharing

Tells School Board Meeting in Milwaukee The Federal Grant Has Had Day in Court

Representative Melvin R. Laird (R-Wisconsin) this morning appeared before the Wisconsin Association of School Boards (WASB) meeting in Milwaukee to urge support of revenue-sharing as a replacement for categorical grant-in-aid programs of the federal government.

Laird said the categorical, federal grant "has had its day in court. It has been found wanting."

Growing Disillusion

Speaking to the opening general session at the auditorium Laird said the "better way is the tax-sharing way."

"The results of your own regional meetings to assess the impact of federal grant programs on education during 1965 and 1966 speak more eloquently than I can about the growing disillusionment educators all over the country feel toward the categorical grant.

"Implicit, it seems, in the voicing of these complaints was a deep feeling that state and local identification of the top priority problems within our state were not always consistent with the priorities established by federal programs," Laird said.

Laird indicated that the 90th Congress would be given an opportunity on several occasions to replace some categorical programs with the broader and, in his opinion, "more desirable and more promising" bloc grant, in renewal votes.

Laird argued that substituting a bloc grant for Title I of the Groups Differ About Speaker At Lawrence

Student Senate Does Not Want Nazi Head To Keep Engagement

Two groups of Lawrence University students were continuing a controversy today over a Feb. 8 appearance on the campus by George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi Party.

An invitation has been sent to Rockwell by the school's student speakers committee and he has accepted.

Is Autonomous

The controversy has erupted because the student speakers committee is completely autonomous. The university's student senate has voted 21 to 16 against having the Nazi leader appear. Because of its autonomy, the committee need not abide by the senate's vote.

James Streater, chairman of the speakers committee, said unless the university administration prevents the speech, or unless a student referendum opposes Rockwell's appearance, he will be allowed to appear.

Favors Referendum

Streater did say, however, that he favors a referendum. A student poll, taken in the fall, shows that Rockwell was one of the three top choices of possible campus speakers.

Two years ago a similar attempt was made by Lawrence students to have Rockwell give a talk on the campus, but his appearance was blocked by university officials.

Lawrence's president, Dr. Curtis W. Tarr, is out of the city this week and could not be reached for comment.

Former Appleton Employe Dies Of Heart Attack

An 87-year-old Appleton man collapsed and died while talking on the telephone Wednesday with his daughter in Marquette, Mich.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said that Peter Whydotski, 513 E. South River St., died of an acute heart attack. The retired Appleton Water Department employe suffered from a chronic heart condition. Kemps learned.

Whydotski was talking with Mrs. Alex Balwinski when he was stricken. His daughter, sensing her father was ill, asked a telephone operator to contact the Appleton Fire Department rescue squad.

Firemen, who received the call at 2:24 p.m., found Whydotski slumped on the floor near the telephone. The man was given oxygen on the way to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Born in the Town of Harrison Sept. 11, 1882, he had lived in the vicinity all his life and had served on the Mexican border with Company G. He retired from the Appleton Water Department in 1955 after 42 years of service.

The body was released to the Brettschneider-Trettin Funeral Home.

Vocational District Creation Unsettled

State Board Still Must Act on CCHE 4-County Recommendation

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH - MENASHA — Formation of the Area 12 Vocational and Adult Education district (Winnebago, Outagamie, Calumet and Waupaca Counties) apparently is still not completely settled.

Action of the Coordinating Committee on Higher Education (CCHE) in recommending the four-county district on a county line basis must still be further acted upon by the State Board of Vocational and Adult Education on the basis of petitions received for inclusion in such a district. The board meets Feb. 20 in Madison.

Petitions Not In

C. L. Greiber, state director, said they have not received petitions from all four counties asking for the county line district. Petitions have been received from Calumet and Winnebago Counties and also from 25 of the 26 school districts in the four counties.

The ultimate effect would probably still be a four county district but the petitions could determine the method in which the area vocational board is selected.

Method

If the district is formed on the basis of petitions from the school districts, the boards of education from each district would be the governing body for selecting the area vocational board. If county petitions are acted upon, the county board chairmen would have a voice in selecting the vocational board.

A third possibility, Greiber said, is using a combination of governing bodies to select the area board.

Selection of the area vocational board was one of the main points of contention in Winnebago County in the forming of an area vocational district.

Oshkosh area and rural supervisors had insisted upon a vocational district based on county lines so the county board would retain control over vocational board appointments. School district officials sought to have the boards of education retain this control.

It is now possible for District 12 to be put into effect by July 1, 1967 if the state board approves the petitions on Feb. 20. The Omro School district, which has not petitioned, could be left out of the district if the state board acts only on school district petitions.

However, Greiber said, they could later petition to be included or would probably be assigned to the district if they did not petition before the 1970 deadline. If the county petitions are considered, all of the county would then automatically be in the district.

Assemblyman David O. Martin, Neenah, said he hopes the state board acts favorably upon the petitions so the district can go into operation as soon as possible.

After an area vocational board is selected, this board will determine the site for the new area vocational school.

NM Christmas Checks Sent To Indians

NEENAH - MENASHA — A check for $367.20, the results of Yuletide generosity by numerous Twin City residents toward an Indian community in Michigan's Upper Peninsula which lost its Christmas gifts in a pre-Christmas fire, has been forwarded to the Bay Mills Indian Reservation.

However, several toys and articles of clothing are still being stored at the Neenah fire station awaiting word on transportation to the reservation near Sault Ste. Marie.

John Konrad, executive secretary of the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce, sent the contributions received by the First National Bank of Neenah to the head of the chamber at the Soo.

A hall which stored Christmas gifts collected from several cities in the Midwest was destroyed by fire three days before Christmas.

Appeals went out to many parts of the country and Twin City residents were among those who responded to help make the Bay Mills Indians' Christmas a happy one.

2 Fox Cities Men File Bankruptcy Petitions

Appleton and Neenah men this week filed bankruptcy petitions in U.S. District Court.

Robert P. Rohloff, 434 W. North Water St., Neenah, a pressman, listed liabilities of $3,015 and assets of $654, with $535 exempt.

Paul P. Jorgensen, 1315 N. Meade St., a bartender, listed liabilities of $8,327 and assets of $1,212, with $959 exempt.

Air Wisconsin Bid

Council Delays Air Mail Action

NEENAH — Councilmen delayed action on supporting Air Wisconsin's bid for air mail service to Chicago's O'Hare Field Wednesday evening, feeling more information should be presented before the city backed any such resolution.

Menasha's council had taken a similar position on Tuesday on the request from Appleton's Mayor George Buckley.

Air Wisconsin is seeking permission from the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) to become a licensed carrier of air mail.

Improvement?

Ald. Paul Mueller questioned whether air mail service could be improved by switching Twin City mail from North Central Airlines to Air Wisconsin. He said that trains run south more frequently later in the day than they travel north and added that the capacity of North Central "cargo - wise" was much greater than Air Wisconsin.

Ald. Stanley Drews, a mail carrier, felt more information should be received before the council should make a stand. He said the change would make no difference to the post office and it shouldn't be the "council's business."

Drews said the companies with large volumes of mail in Neenah know the mail schedules and any change would be "their business."

The matter was referred to the health and welfare committee for further study.

Appleton Authorities Release Youth to Dodge County Police

Appleton detectives said today that a 19-year-old Mayville youth taken into custody in front of a College Avenue restaurant Tuesday night, will be released today to Dodge County authorities.

Terrance Steger, named in a Dodge County warrant on forgery and worthless check charges, admitted to detertives here that he issued worthless checks in Outagamie, Winnebago and Brown Counties and in the cities of Appleton, Oshkosh, Green Bay, Fond du Lac and Milwaukee.

Police said they will seek charges against Steger on the local offenses. Steger has been held in the city jail since his apprehension.

Amplifier, Resistors Stolen From Lawrence

Appleton police are investigating the theft of a stereophonic amplifier and two heavy duty resistors from the Lawrence University Conservatory of Music.

The theft was reported to police this morning, but reportedly occurred between Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon. Total value of the stolen items is about $65, police were told.

Neenah Pool To be Decided On April Ballot

NEENAH — The proposed swimming pool complex in Washington Park will appear on the general election ballot in April.

The park and recreation commission, along with the health and welfare committee, recommended the matter be put up to the citizens on a referendum.

The price tag for the indoor-outdoor complex is $650,000, down $80,000 from the estimates given earlier. However, the pool setup hasn't been substantially changed.

The park and recreation unit was asked to revise the plans to keep the costs under $500,000. However, a figure of $650,000 will be the cost of the project which will face the voters.

Lawrence Juniors Give Public Recital Friday At Music-Drama Center

Lawrence Conservatory juniors Suzanne Driscoll and Max Radloff will appear in a public recital at 2:30 p.m. Friday, in Harper Hall at the Lawrence Music-Drama Center.

Miss Driscoll, Overland Park, Kans., is a violin student of Kenneth Byler, associate professor of music. Radloff studies piano with Robert Below, assistant professor of music.

The two recitalists will be assisted by harpsichordist John Hall, Eagle River, and pianist Carol Keller, Belvider, Ill.

Lawrence Sets New Dates for Talk, Musical

The public address by Conservative author-scholar Russell Kirk, planned for last Monday, has been reset for 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Union Lounge. Kirk's talk, "The Essence of Academic Freedom — A Conservative's Stand," is one of five in a student-sponsored series on extremism in America. It was postponed because of bad weather.

A second program, the senior recital of organist John Hall, originally planned for next Monday, has been rescheduled for Feb. 19. Hall, Eagle River, is organist of the Presbyterian Church, and a student of LaVahn Maesch, dean of the conservatory of music.

Neenah Set Zoning Hearing

NEENAH — A public hearing date for the proposed rezoning of 16.32-acre strip near the Neenah Foundry from residential to light industrial (I-1) has been set for Feb. 15.

The city purchased the land in the Southview Plat from Broadview Co. for $65,280, or $4,000 per acre, several weeks ago after the residential covenant had been lifted.

The buffer zone project has met with considerable objections from residents in the plat who can be expected to air their opinions at the public hearing.

Realtors Set Joint Parley

Menasha Session Is First in Series for Tri-City Group

The first in a year-long series of joint meetings of the Appleton and Neenah-Menasha Boards of Realtors will open with the Neenah-Menasha group serving as host at the Menasha Elks Club at a 7 p.m. dinner today.

A combined membership of more than 130 central Fox Valley real estate brokers, salesmen and affiliated firms will be represented.

John Vander Zanden of the Elmer Denessen Co., Green Bay, will speak for the first part of the evening's program. He will discuss the Wisconsin Realtors Institute, a new program being inaugurated next month by the Wisconsin Realtors Association. The Institute is designed to extend over a period of three years. It will offer a well-rounded course of study and practical training to increase the professional competence of Realtors and their associates throughout Wisconsin. The first course, from Feb. 19-25, will be open to all state real estate licensees.

The final portion of the program will be the showing of a film made by Sen. Everett Dirksen, Republican of Illinois. The film was initially presented to delegates to the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in Miami Beach last November.

Mayor's Rotary Talk Backfires With Council

Ald. Roy Pointer, Council President, Calls Objections to the Speech 'Constructive'

Mayor George Buckley was criticized Wednesday by Alderman Roy Pointer, council president, for a speech before the Appleton Rotary Club Tuesday noon in which the mayor was critical of some actions of the Appleton Board of Education and of the county.

Pointer said his criticism was meant to be objective and suggested Mayor Buckley in the future use the power of his office for positive, rather than negative, thinking.

In his talk to Rotarians, Buckley took swipes at the board of education, Outagamie County, and individuals connected with them.

Mayor's Reply

In a brief reply at the end of Pointer's remarks, Mayor Buckley said occasionally one could read something into a news story. The mayor said stories could be interpreted in many ways. He told Pointer he had a tape recording of his speech to Rotary and he (Pointer) could hear it if he so desired.

Some aldermen disclosed to newsmen that they received telephone calls from some Rotarians inquiring if the mayor's statements represented the position of the city government. The appraisals of the mayor's remarks reportedly were not complimentary.

Pointer explained that on Nov. 11 the city requested the Outagamie County Board for a 10-year audit of highway project accounts to see how much had been done outside the city. He said the information was sought in hopes of arriving at a more equitable solution to county aid being applied to city projects.

"We met with officials of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, Outagamie County and State Highway Department — on the issues — not personalities," Pointer said.

Pointer 'Disappointed'

Pointer indicated he was disappointed when reading the newspaper account of Buckley's talk, indicating the mayor had leveled his guns on the county board and Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson.

"It is my own personal feeling that I will not be any party to tearing down any personality," Pointer declared. Pointer said he felt the discussion and debate should be confined to the subject matter rather than persons.

Pointer cautioned against approaching problems on a personality basis, adding that it was the mayor who appointed him and others in city government to deal with county officials and others in hopes of resolving problems and differences.

'Our Ambassador'

"I feel with our downtown area we have something to sell, your honor," Pointer told Buckley. "You are our ambassador."

Pointer also said he hoped the mayor would exercise good effort in pushing the water expansion and Lake Winnebago pipeline project which has been approved by the council.

Pointer said he did not question the accuracy of news accounts of previous meetings with county and other officials.

He told the council there were many areas in which the city and county could have mutual cooperation.

Buckley has used a tape recorder frequently in his office as well as at speaking engagements. He recorded parts of last night's council meeting, he said.

Second Bill by New Congressman

Steiger Bill Asks For 'Hoover' Study

WASHINGTON — A commission on reorganization of the executive branch of the federal government is called for in a bill submitted in the House Wednesday by Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh.

The bill would establish a 14-member panel patterned after the Hoover Commissions of 1947 and 1953.

While stating reforms in government organization are necessary to overcome overlapping programs and a "communications gap" between departments, Steiger also linked the proposal to so-called tax sharing proposals favored by a number of Republicans.

Tax Sharing

Steiger said finding the most effective ways of managing government and of financing programs is a dual problem. Tax sharing, with some federal revenues handed directly to state and local governments "without strings," according to the newly elected congressman, "must go hand-in-hand with a federal government run on a business-like basis."

Steiger's action coincides with legislation offered in 1965 by Rep. Charles Mathias, Jr., R-Maryland.

Members

The commission would include two senators, two congressmen, two governors, two executive branch officials and six private citizens.

Steiger gave increasing amounts of paper work and delays by federal officials processing state and local applications for federal assistance as additional reasons for favoring reforms.

"Our federal government must be run economically and imaginatively," said Steiger, adding he believes there is need for changes "which will strengthen the system as well as upgrade it and provide additional economies."

Council Kills Quest for New Service Station

Humble Oil Co. Sought 7th Ward Area for Facility

A rezoning request which would have allowed a new service station in Appleton's 7th Ward was killed by the council Wednesday night.

Its approval had been recommended by the plan commission, but ran into strong objection from Ald. John MacDonald (7th) and residents from his ward.

Humble Oil Co. wanted to build a new station on the southwest corner of Haskell Street and Prospect Avenue, rezoning the property from residential to commercial-light manufacturing.

The public hearing lasted longer than discussion on other matters before the council, including the hearing on College Avenue reconstruction special assessments.

Claims Detrimental

MacDonald charged that a filling station would present a safety hazard, along with being detrimental to his ward, referring to the area as, "The gateway to a fine residential district."

Because there was objection against the rezoning from several property owners, the rezoning required a three-fourth majority vote. The final ballot was 11-9 against rezoning.

Atty. Don Jury, representing the petitioner, said the area was rapidly becoming industrial and commercial in character, and claimed the new building would add to the looks of the neighborhood because it would replace an old structure.

Ald. Orville Strutz (17th), a member of the plan commission, defended that group's recommendation. He noted an industrial plant is expanding in the area and that in the city's long-range plan the property, and others around it, was designated for industrial use.

Keen Competition

The warning that the City of Appleton "had better quit picking on certain firms and industries" was voiced by Ald. John Ayers (12th), who reminded the city was competing with two of the largest towns in the state.

Ayers said apparently Appleton did not have the best climate for business locating here, warning the council may make it a practice to discriminate against various types of businesses.

Ald. Arthur Mueller (19th) said the same firm was putting up a new station at Wisconsin Avenue and Gillett Street, and described it as "an asset on that corner."

To which Ald. Norman Beyer (20th) said he had an "asset" in his ward across the street from his home which was for sale.

importance of the water project to Appleton.

Strutz said he was surprised to hear the city's application was still in Chicago, recalling it was sent there several months ago.

Strutz said the mayor and council should do everything possible to get Appleton's application into Washington for final review by April 1, citing the next review period will not be until late in the summer.

"Let's get some action before April 1 out of Chicago," Strutz asserted. "We have wasted too much time already."

Serious Crisis

Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) reminded that four years ago the Appleton Water Commission warned unless the city derived a new supply, the city would face a serious crisis by 1969.

A few weeks ago Ald. Alvin E. Tews (5th) raised the question as to what the city administration was doing to stay abreast of the Appleton grant request, and possible other federal aid programs under which it might qualify.

Since then Mayor Buckley appointed City Atty. David Geenen and Finance Director Henry Schreve to keep tab on federal grant programs.

"I am most pleased some action has been taken to ride herd on these things, now and in the future," Tews commented last night.

The Appleton group going to Chicago will consist of Mayor Buckley, Works Director Frank Keuler, Water Supt. Dr. William Gallaher, Geenen and Schrieve.

Preparation of the resolution was referred to Buckley, who in turn asked and received permission to have Geenen assist him.

No date was set for the Chicago trip.

Appleton Man Bequeaths Gift To St. Norbert

St. Norbert College," Father Burke commented, "is most significant. It serves one of the greatest needs in higher education today by assisting qualified students in their planning for college. With the costs of higher education increasing each year, this gift takes on added importance. We are grateful to Mr. Schiffer for his foresight and generosity."

Schiffer's gift culminates many years of interest in St. Norbert, which originated in his youth when the first of many relatives enrolled at the college. It was reported, further, that it was Schiffer's desire to concentrate his charitable and educational contributions on nearby institutions. He had no immediate family. His wife preceded him in death by several years.

Makes Goal

John B. Torinus, chairman of the St. Norbert College Development Campaign, stated today that "upon payment of all pledges made in our present fund raising effort, this gift brings the first phase development goal of $3,800,000 to a successful conclusion. It will permit the college to concentrate on the second phase of a long-range facilities and improvement program. This calls for an addition to the Memorial Union, a much-needed field house of physical education and health unit, a library-learning center, and an expansion of classroom and faculty office space."

The campaign just completed, covered a $2,800,000 science building now under construction, a $500,000 student aid fund, and a $500,000 faculty improvement fund. The latter two funds will continue to need enlargement as the college and its enrollments grow.

PSC Okays Hortonville Utility Connection Hike

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Public Service Commission has approved an increase in the charges by the Hortonville Water and Sewer Utility for water and sewer connections. The present rate of $75 was raised to $135 for an initial water lateral and $140 for an initial sewer lateral.

Construction costs have increased, the commission said, and sandy soil conditions in some areas of the village require special trenching work for such installations.

Something New Was Added to Xavier High School after the Christmas holidays—the brothers and sisters who teach in the school showed up with new vestments. Sister M. Edith displays the new streamlined outfit of the Franciscan Sisters of Christian Charity while Brother Thomas sports the black tie and suit and white shirt with which the order is experimenting for the remainder of the year. Talent Show Rescheduled At AHS-W

The Appleton High School West traveling Thespian Troupe Show which was snowed out Jan. 6, has been rescheduled for 8:15 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

According to Lee Schoeni, head of the speech and drama department, the hour long variety show may become an annual AHS-W project if enough community support is received.

The purpose, according to Schoeni, is to give the high school students a chance to show that they are willing to give time, talent and effort for the community.

Although all future performances will be for charity, there will be a charge at the two kick-off performances, to cover expenses.

Avenue Project Gets Go-Ahead At Hearing of the assessment levy being adjusted downward, city officials explained last night.

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), council president and chairman of the street-sanitation committee, said the city was hopeful of receiving $100,000 from Outagamie County and pointed out also that whatever part of the contingency fund that is not used up will be applied to reduce charges.

Subcontract Supervision

Vinton Construction, the low bidder, will take charge of the entire job, including supervising work of the subcontractors.

The council instructed Mayor George Buckley and City Clerk Elden Broehm to enter into contracts with successful low bidders. Arrangements were being made to finalize the paperwork this afternoon.

Approved by the council were the following allocations: Vinton Construction, $409,000 for general paving; Bahr Construction Co., Manitowoc, $292.000 for sewer work; Superior Electric Co., Appleton, $87,500; General Electric Supply Co., Newark, N.J., $15,200 for aluminum street lighting poles, and General Electric Supply Co., Appleton, $2,500 for transformers.

The Vinton firm will be operating under a $1.000 a day bonus-penalty clause, based on a Nov. 1 completion date.

Bonus Penalty Clause

For every day the project is extended past the deadline, it will cost the general contractor a $1,000 penalty. In turn, Vinton will benefit by $1.000 a day for finishing the job in advance.

Public works officials have indicated they have considerable confidence in Vinton and his subcontractors. Unless the weather deals the project a blow this summer, there is optimism College Avenue will be completed between September and November.

The next stage will be the planning of a program of landscaping for the avenue. Aldermen authorized the street-sanitation committee Wednesday night to investigate the possibility of greenry.

Public Works Director Frank Keuler said today work of public utilities, such as the water department, power company and the telephone company will be coordinated with the city's underground work.

The next step will be for Vinton to file an $800.000 performance bond with the city, a procedural matter.

To Set Itinerary

"Within a few days we will hold a conference with the contractor to see where he will start work on the avenue and at what stages," Keuler said.

He said field crews probably would start staking out some of the areas where sewer construction work may begin in early February.

Kueler said the re-laying of sanitary sewer will be the first order of business on the south side of the avenue, work which may require temporary removal of parking from block to block.

"The weather will definitely be a factor," Keuler said, "And if conditions are favorable it is our understanding the sewer contractor will put on four crews to expedite the work."

Tearing up of the avenue — blocking it to vehicular traffic — is expected to take place late in the spring, according to Keuler.

toddy, rums or coffee, whatever your fancy. You'll be taking more stops in the chalet than on a milder day, so bring along adequate libations.

One advantage: The hills won't be crowded. That will make up for the chair lift seats being a little nippy. And, anyway, what else can you do on an arctic weekend?

Skiers can move to the slopes now without motoring as Air Wisconsin has started a fly-in ski trip to Ironwood, Mich. Flights leave at 7 a.m. from Outagamie County Airport and return to Appleton at 7:30 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

The $38 fee covers a round-trip ticket, transportation to Indianhead Mountain and the lift fees. And only a 90-minute trip instead of a five-hour drive.

Publication of Wolf River Plan Is Announced

Area Commission Will Send Copies to County Supervisors

Publication of a comprehensive planning report for the eight-county Wolf River Basin region was announced today. The plan was prepared by the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission with technical assistance from the Wisconsin Department of Resource Development. Financial assistance was provided by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The commission received 1,000 copies of the 150-page soft cover volumes. They will be mailed to county board supervisors in each of the eight member counties as well as other city and county officials.

The Wolf River plan is one of the first attempts in the nation to set comprehensive development policies for a region centered on a large water-resource system. As such, the program will enable many counties and communities in the area to meet their responsibilities for water management under Wisconsin's new Water Resources Act, according to the department.

Large Land Area

The Wolf River Basin region extends from Lake Winnebago to the northern state boundary and contains 11 per cent of the state's land area. Included are Forest, Langlade, Menominee, Shawano, Waupaca, Outagamie, Waushara and Winnebago counties. Regional population now exceeds 330,000. By 1980, the region is expected to have nearly 400,000 residents.

Planning proposals are made for economic growth, resource protection, land and recreation development, public facilities and transportation. Several recommendations — especially those dealing with preservation of "wild river" portions of the Wolf River and with development in Menominee County — already have been accomplished through the coordinated efforts of federal, state and local governments.

Reinvestment Demand Grows

Markets Slightly Higher in Spite Of Profit Taking

NEW YORK (AP)—Reinvestment demand asserted itself in the stock market today despite a spell of profit taking and the market was narrowly higher on balance early this afternoon.

Trading, although heavy, was at the lightest rate of this week, which has not had a session below 10 million shares.

The market seemed lower at the opening but gradually turned mixed, with a few more gainers than losers. The margin of plus signs widened somewhat and the popular averages, after showing initial losses, moved into plus territory.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .62 at 848.11.

The list seemed to be embarked on its 12th clear-cut gain of 1967's 13 sessions.

Averages Higher

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .2 at 313.3 with industrials off .1, rails up .6 and utilities unchanged.

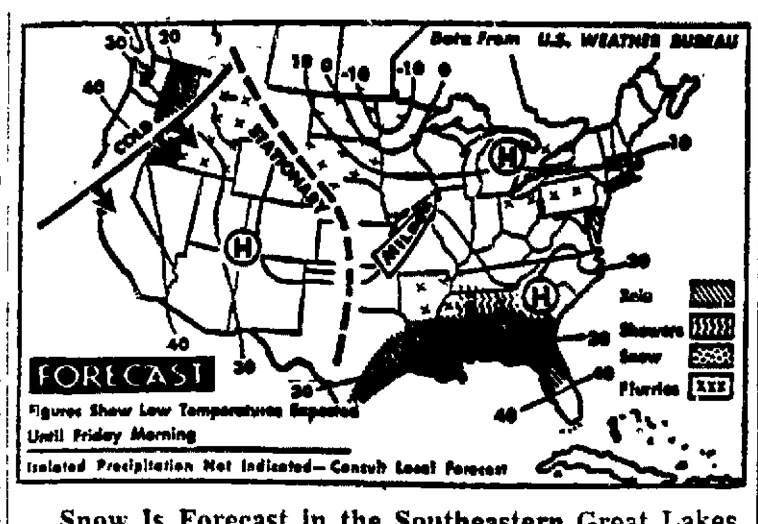
Hilton International jumped 2 points on news it has agreed on a plan of consolidation with TWA. The airline lost a fraction. Other airlines were narrowly mixed.

A rise of about 2 in Du Pont helped shore up the averages.

Accumulation of orders delayed the opening of International Telephone and American Broadcasting.

The slowing of the rise in personal income, a cut in Texas crude oil production quotas, and the drop in the short interest on the New York Stock Exchange were seen as depressing items for stocks.

Prices were a little higher on the American Stock Exchange. Trading was heavy.



Snow Is Forecast in the Southeastern Great Lakes region, the northern Plains, and the northern Rockies tonight. Rain is expected in the Gulf Coast region. A milder trend in temperatures is due in the northeastern section of the country and the southern and central Plains. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Minnesota Boom for Romney Postponed

Young Progressives Received No Approval From Michigan's Governor

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

ST. PAUL, MINNESOTA — What has happened in Minnesota in the 10 weeks since election day gives a fair picture of just how strong — and how shallow — is the national presidential boom for Michigan's Gov. George Romney.

As soon as Romney scored his landslide third term win as governor Nov. 8, the victory-minded young progressives who run the Minnesota Republican Party were itching to move. Viewing Romney as the man to beat President Johnson, they were ready to form Romney-for-President clubs and begin lining up convention delegates.

But from Michigan came no single word of encouragement. Furthermore, Romney and his lieutenants in Lansing have obediently heeded the admonition by Gov. Harold Levander, Minnesota's newly elected Republican governor, for a six-month moratorium here on presidential politics. Thus, there is today no more of a Romney organization in Minnesota than there was on Nov. 8.

This leaves Romney in an ambiguous position in Minnesota. He remains the front-runner here because of his strong showing in the polls. Thus, his Minnesota strength is only poll-deep. In the absence of any Romney organizational work here, it would simply disappear with any drop in the polls.

What is true in Minnesota is also true elsewhere, for Minnesota's high-flying Republicans typify the new Republican spirit around the country in the wake of the 1966 elections.

That spirit here is typified not be Levander, 56, an old law partner of Harold Stassen, but by a remarkable group of progressive party leaders from a younger generation: Attorney General Douglas Heas, 36; Lt. Gov. James Goetz, 30; State Rep. Lyall Schwartzkopf, 35 (who doubles as Minneapolis party chairman); State Rep. William Frenzel, 38.

With 2-to-1 control of the state legislature after their landslide victory over the crumbling (DFL) Party last fall, they scent a similar takeover in Washington. Their affection for Romney stems almost entirely from his showing in the polls — particularly the Minnesota poll, which shows Romney leading President Johnson 55 per cent to 38 per cent (while Richard M. Nixon trails the President, 39 per cent to 54 per cent).

It's A New Breed

But very nearly equal to the intensity of their search for a presidential winner is their devotion to organization. This breed of new guard Republicans is convinced superior precinct organization built up over the past decade in the Twin Cities has been crucially important in defeating the DFL.

Furthermore, they well remember how they were humiliated and out-organized by Goldwater insurgents in 1964 and kept control of the delegation only thrugh the ploy of a favorite son candidacy. Consequently, they are deeply worried that not a single step has been taken to build a Romney organization in Minnesota.

Nor are they impressed by Romney's willingness to bend before the wishes of Gov. Levander. They would prefer a visible exhibition of Romney muscle lining up delegate strength here against the governor's wishes just as Sen. John F. Kennedy often opposed local governors in 1960. In fact, the new guard Republicans regard Levander's proposed moratorium as a political error that could hurt him.

Moreover, these progressive Republicans are perplexed by the failure of Romney to stitch together a professional organization staff immediately following his election. Several volunteered to us the idea that Romney ought to hire F. Clifton White, chief organizer for Barry Goldwater in 1964 who came within a hair of capturing Minnesota from its party leaders.

Want Romney Visit

Holding no grudges against White, they would welcome a Romney operation in Minnesota, run by the capable William McFadzean, White's man in Minnesota and Goldwater's 1964 Minnesota organizer. In contrast, White's Goldwater background is regarded as a distinct liability by several key members of Romney's inner circle.

That is hardly the only difference in opinion between St. Paul and Lansing. While the Romney strategy is to limit his current out-of-state appearances, his would-be supporters want an immediate Romney visit here. Unless he builds personal ties here, his strength will remain subject to whims of the public opinion polls.

Thanks to the absence of organized activity for anybody else and the non-existence of genuine Nixon sentiment, Romney's failure to use the springboard of his sweeping re-election may not be fatal. Yet, his best friends here feel it is imperative Romney start filling in the shallow base of his support in Minnesota and elsewhere in the nation — and start soon.

Speaker Says Liberal Arts Lost in College and old age. Like, the problems of Asia can be avoided by our cosmetic merchants if you put queen bee jelly on your face. Like, we spend $2 billion annually on cosmetics and that is the total annual budget of many African states."

Krebs, who said he took several undergraduate majors so that he could avoid the Korean War draft, said American colleges and universities don't exist to deal with the relationships of western people to a developing world which is in revolution.

Crucial Technology

"Universities in America," he stated, "don't want to consider or concern themselves with these relationships. Instead, like, they deal with the skills needed to become productive members of the America corporate society. You can only put your skills at work making money for corporations.

"Technology is crucial to America," Krebs said, "like, you can't make bad bridges.

"So," he said, "when you hire a teacher; like, you need a man who'll teach kids how to make good germ bombs.

"You're learning an honest dollar's worth of skill," Krebs said, "but the rest of it — the liberal arts — you can't have it."

Research Brothel

Krebs, who said that, before he became a teacher, he earned his living as an "assistant intellectual in a research brothel," urged the Lawrence students to study the "12 to 25 men who run your university. You'll find 12 to 25 men who know nothing about it. Next to each trustee's name, you'll see a long list of corporate holdings. You'll look in vain on the board of trustees for a scholor or for someone who has a right to be there. You'll find just rich industrialists, and no educators.

"So students use LSD," Krebs said. "Like, I don't put this and 'pot' down because these kids on LSD are using research to try to grasp reality. Taking 'pot' enables individuals to climb out of a bind they find themselves in. It's good," he said, "that people search and that they realize they are what they want themselves to be.

"As our century draws to a close," Krebs said, "and there are more and more revolutions, one can only hope that people will oblige the institutions to provide the kind of knowledge which brought this all about.

"Since 1964," he finished, "since Berkeley, like, there has developed more than we have a right to expect."

Economic Status of Lawrence Faculty High Among Colleges

Lawrence University was given several high ratings by the American Association of University Professors in a survey conducted recently on the economic status of the profession.

Lawrence ranked first among the 10 members of the Associated Colleges of the Midwest in the category of full-time faculty compensation per student equivalent, which expresses the student-faculty ratio. Lawrence's figure was $1,146, with its nearest competitor listing $1,072.

Lawrence ranked second in average total compensation for full-time faculty, recording $12,366. This figure includes fringe benefits. Two institutions ranked higher than Lawrence's figure of $10,776 for average salary.

Salaries in the instructor class were given an AA rating, assistant professors were ranked A, assciate professors and full profesor, both B.

Laird Asks Support of Tax-Sharing

Elementary and Secondary Education Act earmarked for educational purposes but in no other way earmarked" would make the program "more effective, more efficient, and more likely to be utilized in ways that will attack top priority education problems within specific states.

Share Revenue

Laird argued that revenue-sharing, at least in part, would return financial resources to the states for use on their most pressing problems, which in Wisconsin may be totally different than the top priority problems in some other state.

At the same time, top talent which may have been attracted to the Federal Office of Education may be drawn back to a State Department of Public Instruction to help in developing that State's overall program in the field of education."

Laird indicated that such a reversal of the present trend of centering all significant problem solving in the federal bureaucracy would lead to a more effective utilization of federal dollars.

He said we must look at our 50 states as "50 civic laboratories. "We know from scientific research that 50 different, separate efforts are better than one. We may not come up with the best solution in all fifty laboratories but we are sure of one thing when we decentralize: we will never come up with a single, worst solution applied to everyone."

Despite Its Headaches Economic Boom May Endure

Slackening Likely in Early '67, Experts Claim, Without Inflation

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's economy, subjected last year to its first big taste of inflation since the current boom began in 1961, moves into the new year still going strong but with some major headaches.

The past year was one of higher prices, higher interest, supermarket boycotts, talk of tax increases, rapidly increasing defense spending brought on by escalation of the Vietnam war and a business investment boom that had more than a few economists jumpy.

Government experts predict a continuation of the boom in 1967 but without the unusual price increases of 1966.

Some foresee a slight slackening in economic activity during the second half of the year. "The entire year should be good but the first half will probably be better than the second," says one economist.

Inflation Erosion

The over-all rise in economic activity, however, could be the second largest in history, second only to 1966 when inflation ate away a good part of the advances.

Government economists have used such terms as healthy, robust, steady and strong to describe the over-all economic growth expected to continue into 1967.

As 1966 moved into December, the biggest uncertainty of the year was still unresolved — whether President Johnson would request a tax increase to help meet the cost of the Vietnam war.

Some private economists who had urged a tax increase early in 1966 as a hedge against inflation said as the year drew to a close that a tax increase during 1967 might lead to recession.

But government economists don't see a recession in the cards.

Building Slowdown

For the housing industry, the slack already is there. But government experts predict an upturn no later than mid-1967. Despite this prediction, however, privately owned housing starts are expected to hit their lowest point in two decades.

Tight money—the scarcity of funds which is accompanied by high interest rates—was blamed for the slump in housing construction which saw new starts drop late in 1966 to their lowest level since the end of World War II.

The President's Council of Economic Advisers said a 4 per cent rate of real economic growth in 1967 would keep the nation within its physical capacity to produce and thus lead to greater price stability.

Here's how Gardner Ackley, the council president, sees the future:

"Barring a sudden end to Vietnam hostilities, and given a reasonable degree of wisdom in the fiscal and monetary policy decisions still to be made, I am confident that the economy in 1967 can continue to provide high and growing production and incomes, steady jobs, and some reduction of existing distortions, both real and financial.

Price Stability

"Given as well a reasonably responsible behavior by labor and management in forthcoming wage and price decisions, we can also begin to move significantly toward the re-establishment of price stability."

Ackley said the cost of living can't be expected to return to the 1.25 per cent rate of annual increase in the 1960-65 period but it shouldn't repeat the 3 5 per cent rise of 1966.

A top private economist agrees that real economic growth this year should approximate 4 per cent but foresees a greater increase in prices during 1967 than last year. This view, said Carl Madden, chief economist for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, is linked to further acceleration of the Vietnam war.

Some government economists, although not challenging the 4 per cent goal in real economic growth, have said a 4 5 per cent rate is needed to prevent a rise in unemployment and to prevent an erosion of job opportunities for Negroes.

An average 5.5 per cent rise in real growth the last 5½ years dropped the unemployment rate to less than 4 per cent of the total labor force during 1966.

Record GNP Rise

Gross National Product—the value of all goods and services produced in the economy—reached $681.2 billion during 1965 and was expected to reach about $740 billion in 1966, a record rise of almost $60 billion.

The 1967 rise is estimated by the council at about $50 billion, the second largest in history, but with a lesser percentage of the advance eaten by inflation. About $30 bilion of this was figured as real growth in output.

This would produce a GNP figure in 1967 of $790 billion, well on its way to the $1 trillion projected for 1970.

A good part of the output will result from government spending but as the year drew to a close it still was uncertain what the income and outgo figures for the current and the next fiscal year would be.

Some predictions of government spending for the fiscal year which ends next June 30 exceeded $125 billion, including $20 billion to fight the Vietnam war. This would be well above the $122 8 billion spending budget sent to Congress for fiscal 1967.

Higher Tax Receipts

But revenues also have been rising faster than expected and even the Treasury Department —usually conservative in its estimates—said tax receipts could reach $118 billion this fiscal year, $7 billion higher than projected.

The figures for the new fiscal year beginning July 1 were anybody's guess. One projection — given Nov. 30 to newsmen covering President Johnson in Texas — went as high as $140 billion or more in spending.

A clearer picture won't emerge until this month when President Johnson presents his budget to Congress for the fiscal year beginning July 1. And even that is subject to change later, depending especially on the course of the Vietnam war.

Officials in the other regulatory field approved the largest corporate merger in history during the year — the joining of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads — but it will a while before any final decision is made.

The Supreme Court is scheduled to review some aspects of the case this month.

Another major merger proposal that would have resulted in the longest rail system was rejected. This would have combined the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy into one huge system linking the Midwest with the Pacific.

Supermarket Gimmicks

The Federal Trade Commission, meanwhile, began an investigation of promotional gimmicks used by supermarkets to attract business.

This was prompted by supermarket boycotts which sprang up throughout the country as the cost of living continued to rise Some of these sales gimmicks were being abandoned as the year came to a close.

In addition to higher consumer prices, 1966 also saw price increases in basic industries which the government called inflationary and wage settlements which shattered the administration's 3 2 per cent wage-price guidelines.

It also saw the administration fail to end the deficit in the nation's balance of payments — the difference between what Americans spend abroad and foreigners spend in this country The imbalance was less than expected considering the impact of the Vietnam war.

The administration was successful last January in rolling back part of a steel price increase, but the story was different in August when the industry presented a united front in raising prices on strip and sheet steel by 2.2 per cent.

This climaxed a poor month on the wage-price field for the administration It also saw airline machinists reject a contract settlement drawn up under White House auspices. The final settlement produced an estimated wage and fringe benefit increase of more than six per cent and included a cost of living escalator which the Council of Economic Advisers has called an engine of inflation.

Tax Increase

The year began with the economy booming and many economists calling for a tax increase to dampen inflation.

The administration sought and got a restoration of excise taxes previously reduced, a new graduated withholding system for personal income taxes and a speedup in corporate tax payments. Social Security taxes also went up last Jan. 1 to help pay for medicare

Armed with this program, administration leaders resisted any further efforts at fiscal restraint, contending it didn't want to hit the brakes too hard and send the economy into recession.

The Federal Reserve Board, meanwhile, tightened credit controls in an effort to dampen inflation and interest rates began their climb to the highest level in 40 years.

Even short-term Treasury bills — which normally command the lowest interest rate of crease of more than 6 per cent per cent mark in September.

As the year ended, interest rates on Treasury bills had declined sharply but were still high on other instruments, especially mortgages.

With the business investment boom still present as fall approached, the President asked Congress to suspend the 7 per cent investment tax credit to cool things off. Congress approved the plan in October.

Another new law provided for ceilings on the amount of interest which could be paid on deposits by banks and savings and loan associations.

By November, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler proclaimed the administration programs a success and said the economy had been cooled without a recessionary dip.

But the big imponderable still was the Vietnam war, and on that rested the economic decisions that will ultimately shape the economy for 1967.

Load Funds to be Asked To Slash Sales Charges

BY SYLVIA PORTER

In its report on mutual funds last month, the Securities & Exchange Commission remarked that the no-load funds' "methods of obtaining business have been considerably less effective than the load funds' far more vigorous, personalized selling drives. Hence the no-load funds have only a small share of total mutual fund assets and shareholder accounts."

Of this there is no doubt. The largest fund which has consistently operated on the no-load principal had only $224 million of assets on June 30, 1966 as against $2.8 billion for the largest load fund. Altogether, the 60 no-load funds registered with the SEC have only a bit more than $2.1 billion of assets against $15.7 billion for just the 10 biggest load funds. Only about 250,000 own no-load fund shares against 3,500,000 who own load shares.

But the approaching Congressional hearings on legislation to be introduced by the SEC to compel the load funds to slash their sales charges (loads) to buyers of their shares will almost surely focus attention on the no-loads, too. Thus, this series of three columns to give you the basic facts on no-loads

Offer Same Services

Q. Do no-loads offer the same services as load funds?

A Generally. You can get systematic purchasing plans, withdrawal plans, insurance plans, etc from no-loads as from load funds. Plans for reinvestment of dividends and distributions are just as simple on no-loads as on loads and there is no sales charge on the dividend reinvestments in no-load shares.

Q. How do I sell no-load shares if there is no salesman to call?

A. Just call the no-load fund's home office and say you want to redeem your shares. Only a few have a redemption charge and in no case is it more than 2 per cent.

Q. Why don't load funds shift to no-load funds?

A. They do. One of the largest of them all began as a load fund, is now a no-load.

Q. With no sales charges coming in, why should no-load fund managers pay as much attention to their funds as load managers?

A. The managers don't get the sales fees; the salesman do. Actually, investment counselors and brokers who manage no-loads are exceedingly jealous of their funds' performances because this is a public testimonial to their excellence or lack of it.

Contractural Plans

Q I'm buying mutual fund shares under a contractual plan because the plan forces me to invest regularly. I wouldn't be saving as much otherwise.

A. The SEC wants to outlaw these plans because the "front-end load" on shares bought under contractual plans can be shockingly costly to the small, unsophisticated investor if he must cash in earlier than the contract period.

Under these plans, 50 per cent of the investor's first 12 monthly payments or their equivalent is usually deducted for sales load! If an investor keeps investing, $50 a month for 10 years in a typical contractual plan, his sales charge over the 10-year period will have averaged around 9 per cent of the money invested. If he has to cash in during the first year, though, his sales charge will be 50 per cent. That's a mighty stiff price to pay for discipline!

As of the end of 1965, there were about 1.3 million contractual accounts, on which about $3 billion had been paid. The SEC's report concludes that investment companies "should no longer be permitted to make these 'front-end load' sales charges."

Q. What is the tax status of no-loads?

A. The same as the tax status of load funds.

Q. Does the SEC regulate no-loads as well as loads?

A Yes The same regulations apply to both.

Q. With a no-load, we won't have the benefit of the mutual fund salesman's advice in handling our financial affairs.

A. Mutual fund salesmen are generaly not qualified as investment advisers. A salesman may sell you shares in a top-notch mutual fund but he is selling you the competence of the fund's managers, not of himself.

U.S. Reveals Highest Casualty Total of War

144 Americans Killed in Vietnam Fighting in Week; Additional 1,044 Wounded

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headquarters announced today that American forces in Vietnam suffered nearly 1,200 casualties last week, their highest weekly total of the Vietnam war.

The U. S. command said 144 men were killed, 1,044 were wounded and six were missing in the week that ended at midnight Saturday. The previous high was in the week ending last September 24, when 970 Americans were killed, wounded or missing.

Many of last week's casualties were sustained in Operation Cedar Falls in the iron triangle north of Saigon, the biggest ground sweep of the war. While there were no large-scale battles, there were numerous small clashes and the number of men deployed — estimated at more than 30,000 — exceeded any operation of the war.

B52 bombers struck at Communist fortifications and tunnels at noon on the northern edge of the iron triangle 29 miles north-northwest of Saigon. The raid, the 13th by the B52s in support of the vast sweep operation, destroyed 12 buildings, 325 feet of trenches, 59 bunkers and three tunnels, a U.S. spokesman reported.

Small ground skirmishes also continued in the iron triangle, and U.S. forces reported the toll of enemy dead since the operation started Jan. 8 had risen to 524, with a record 3,170 tons of rice seized and 421 weapons captured.

Over North Vietnam, U.S. pilots hammered at important railroad yards and rail bridges northeast and northwest of Hanoi Wednesday and flew 109 strike missions. It was the largest number of missions since Jan. 4, when U S. pilots flew 116 against the North.

Antiaircraft Fire

Racial Clash Nearly Erupts At San Quentin

Convicts Herded Back to Cells After Prison Confrontation

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Guards firing rifles, shotguns and tear-gas canisters prevented a racial clash between 2,800 white and Negro convicts in the San Quentin Prison yard Wednesday night as the two groups came to within 50 feet of each other.

Eight convicts suffered gunshot wounds during the tense hours following a glaring face-down of the two groups. Five others suffered head wounds from beatings by other convicts. Two men incurred heart attacks.

The confrontation included one group of more than 1,000 whites and Mexican-Americans and another group of about 1,800 Negroes.

Fatal Beating

Officials said the turmoil grew out of the fatal beating and stabbing of a white prisoner last Monday.

Trouble started after lunch Wednesday, said Associate Warden James W. L. Park, when inmates entered the football field-sized yard. Whites and Mexican-Americans gathered on one side. Negroes on the other. They drew closer, hurling curses across the no-man's-land. Elsewhere on the grounds of the 40-acre prison, another 1,200 inmates tended to their duties.

With the angry convicts separated by only 50 feet, Warden Lawrence E. Wilson mounted the gunwall surrounding the yard and ordered, "Knock it off and go back to your cells."

There was silence, and no one moved.

Armed With Pipes

Park said many of the men had armed themselves with pipes from plumbing ripped from prison facilities, and clubs from benches torn apart in the yard. A temporary classroom building made of wood was set ablaze.

Finally, tear-gas canisters were thrown and the Negroes, prodded by warning shots whin-

Kennedy Defends Haircut

Bobby-Pins for RFK?

WASHINGTON (AP)—A New Yorker — concerned about the image of the Empire State—has sent Sen. Robert F. Kennedy $2 for a haircut.

Emanuel F. Manheimer, 25, Ossining, N.Y., said Kennedy's bushy head had bothered him for some time. But seeing the senator on television last week on the night of President Johnson's State of the Union message really was the last straw, he said.

"It is irrelevant whether I am a registered Democrat or Republican," Manheimer wrote the New York Democrat Wednesday. "The only point is that I am and have been all my life a resident of the state of New York.

"I am enclosing a check in the amount of $2," he said, "to maintain an image that the country might have of the Empire State." He said that when he once worked as a state park employe his boss "wouldn't allow us to report to work like that."

Kennedy apparently was unconcerned.

"I got a haircut Monday. Tell Mr. Manheimer to watch me at my next public appearance," he said through an office spokesman.

The clip was anything but close.

Kennedy's bushy hair also draws some barbs from fellow senators.

When Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen arrived one day with his locks tousled more than usual, a colleague in the Senate chamber said, "You're looking more like Bobby every day!"

Quipped Dirksen: "Well, I thought we might as well have Beatles on each side of the aisle."

Machinists Threatening Railway Strike

Union Demanding Wage Increases Exceeding 5 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Machinists' Union, which staged history's biggest airlines strike last year, now is heading for a showdown with the nation's railroads.

President P.L. (Roy) Siemiller of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists says his union won't settle for the 5 per cent wage hike pattern other unions have accepted from the railroad industry.

"We'll take a strike on it unless they come up with more than 5 per cent," Siemiller told newsmen.

Same Position

He said the 43,000 railroad machinists are in much the same position as the 35,000 airline machinists before last summer's strike in falling behind other industries in wages.

The railroads, Siemiller said, once provided the highest paying jobs, but "the poorest job a machinist can get today is to go to the railroad industry."

A Machinists' spokesman said its members in the railroad industry earned $3.05 per hour, compared with $4 or more in most other industries.

The union's six-week strike against five major airlines last summer boosted top mechanics' pay in that industry from $3.52 to $4.08 per hour by the end of next year, plus cost-of-living wage hikes up to 6 cents an hour.

The airlines contract provided wage and fringe benefit increases variously estimated at 5 to 7 per cent.

Under delaying provisions of the Railway Labor Act, the government probably can stave off any railroad strike threat until next June.

Pentagon Plans Yearly Savings Of $37 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon aims to save more than $37 million yearly by merging or phasing out 33 military bases and activities in the United States and six overseas facilities, it was learned today. More than 1,400 civilian jobs would be eliminated.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was to tell a news conference today about the new consolidation move, his sixth since 1961.

Informed sources said the new cutbacks also will involve the transfer of 3,000 other civilian employes and 1,700 military workers. The informants added, however, that all career civilian employes whose jobs will be eliminated by the new actions will be immediately offered different positions by the Defense Department.

The 33 cutbacks in the United States are spread unevenly across the nation, with Alabama, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Texas and Washington each losing three facilities. California, Massachusetts, New York and Ohio each will lose two facilities.

The largest savings — about $20.8 million annually — will be gained by phasing out all of the Navy's antisubmarine P5 seaplanes by 1968 and their support facilities at 12 bases around the world. Informants emphasized that the phaseout of the seaplanes will not shut down overall activities of the air bases.

They added that McNamara's decision to cut out the seaplane operations was based on evidence indicating it is cheaper and easier to support similar antisubmarine operations with land-based planes.

8 Communication Satellites Aloft

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Eight new communications satellites spun around the globe today, undergoing tests to qualify them as carriers of secret messages between far-flung U.S. military bases.

The eight were launched from Cape Kennedy Wednesday by an Air Force Titan 3 rocket that sprayed them like buckshot into separate orbits 21,000 miles up. They joined seven other identical payloads sent up last June.

The first seven already are speeding messages among eight ground stations. Emphasis is on traffic between Washington and Vietnam.

Top Republicans to Give Rebuttal to LBJ's Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said today "Congress can cut the President's budget sufficiently to avoid a tax increase." But until Congress gets the budget, he added, "it is impossible to be specific about budget cuts."

In reply to questions submitted by The Associated Press, Ford said his opposition to the President's proposal for a 6 per cent surcharge on corporate and most individual income taxes "is based on the economic indicators as they presently exist."

"Balancing the economy is more important than balancing the budget," he said.

GOP Response

Ford's views were given in advance of tonight's Republican response to President Johnson's State of the Union message. The Michigan Republican will outline the GOP domestic program and Senate Republican Leader Everett M Dirksen will discuss foreign affairs.

Dirksen told a reporter it was fair to say that he would give Johnson's Vietnam course a general endorsement but reserve the right to criticize particulars. He added he will have a great deal to say about other international actions.

Ford said that if Johnson had "set a ceiling of $130 billion or less on his budget," rather than putting it at $135 billion, "he then might not have been compelled to request a tax increase."

Tragir Mistake

In the Republican Congressional Committee "Newsletter" last week, Ford called the tax proposal a "tragic mistake" and said "the President has yet to present solid evidence that it is necessary."

Johnson said the surtax would bring in $4.5 billion in the fiscal year starting July 1, holding the estimated deficit in that year to $8.1 billion.

But Ford said "it seems clear that the proposed income tax increase is advanced as the vehicle for $4.5 billion in increased domestic spending."

And he said his opposition to what Johnson says is a tax intended to reduce the deficit does not mean he is "advocating a large deficit."

Byrnes Noncommittal

The senior Republican member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee took a more flexible position on the tax proposal.

"I just don't have enough facts to make a judgment," Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin said in an interview.

"It would be hard to tolerate a 12-15-18-20-billion dollar deficit," Byrnes added. "On the other hand, it might be better if the economy is shaky to tolerate a deficit of $6-7 billion than have a tax increase because of the effect it might have on the economy."

Many Republicans — and Democrats too — have issued statements criticizing the President's surtax proposal. Virtually all have contended that domestic spending cuts should come before Congress considers the tax hike. Few have said outright they will vote against the tax increase.

Mother Ruled Insane After 3 Drownings

SKOWHEGAN, Maine (AP) — A verdict of innocent by reason of insanity has acquitted Constance Fisher of murder charges brought for the bathtub drownings of her second three children in a repetition of the way her first three children died 12 years ago.

Mrs. Fisher, 38, was ruled insane after the first three children died, but was discharged from a mental hospital five years later as cured.

The second three children, about the same ages as the first three when they died, were Nathalie, 9 months, Kathleen, 6, and Michael, 4.

The final witness, Dr. Walter Rohm, a psychiatrist at Augusta State Hospital, testified that Mrs. Fisher suffered from a mental disease characterized by "desperate gloom" and thus had a "basic feeling of hopelessness, despair and pessimism."

Insanity Plea Entered In Arizona Slayings

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Robert Benjamin Smith, 18, of Mesa, charged with the murder of four women and a young girl Nov. 12 in a Mesa beauty college, pleaded innocent Wednesday by reason of insanity.

Maricopa County Superior Court Judge Jack D. Hays set trial for April 10.

A 29-Year-Old French freelance journalist, Michele Ray, is being sought today along the central South Vietnamese coast after being reported missing on an auto trip alone from the southern tip of South Vietnam to the demilitarized zone. Here she is in the village of Ben Cui II north of Saigon two months ago. It was feared she had fallen into the hands of the Viet Cong. Her parents in Nice, France, intimated that she might have planned to be kidnaped in order to get stories and pictures of the guerrilla side of the war. (AP Wirephoto)

Searchers Seek Lost Plane Over Caribbean

Heiress, Husband Reported Missing In Small Craft

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Planes are searching between Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands for the only daughter of one of the world's richest women, missing in a small twin-engine plane with her husband and a pilot.

Audrey Bruce Currier, a granddaughter of Andrew W. Mellon, and her husband, Stephen R. Currier, were last heard from Tuesday night 30 minutes after the Piper Apache took off from San Juan for a 70-mile hop to St. Thomas, in the Virgin Islands. The pilot was John D. Watson, 52, of Airplane Charters Inc., the owner of the plane.

More than 20 planes and ships spent all Wednesday fanning over the eastern Caribbean. But they found no trace of the heiress to an estimated $700-million share of the vast Mellon financial empire or her husband, 36, a philanthropist and sponsor of civil rights causes.

Planes kept up the hunt throughout the night and the air-sea search resumed at daylight today.

Mrs. Currier, 33, is the daughter of David K.E. Bruce, U.S. ambassador to Britain, and Ailsa Mellon Bruce, the only daughter of the Pittsburgh tycoon who was U.S. secretary of the treasury from 1921 until 1932.

The Curriers, who maintained homes in New York and The Plains, Va., flew from Miami to San Juan Tuesday to start a 10-day vacation cruise in the West Indies. A 150-foot yacht and a 50-foot sloop chartered by the couple for the cruise are taking part in the search.

The couple left their three children, Andria, 10, Lavinia, 9, and Michael, 6, in New York.

Valley Expects -2 Tonight

Light Winds Will Help Diminish Snap of Cold

Fox Cities — Low tonight, near -2; high Friday near 15. Partly cloudy with little change in temperature tonight. Moderate northwest winds diminishing to light northerly tonight. Chance of precipitation tonight, 10 per cent, and 20 per cent Friday.

Appleton — Observations for the past 24 hours show high, 12; low, -3. Barometer 30.30 and steady. Winds, southwest at 18 miles per hour. Relative humidity, 60. Dew point, 2. Skies partly cloudy

Sun sets at 4:45 p.m., rises Friday at 7:23 a.m. Moon sets tomorrow at 2:01 a.m. Full Moon is January 26.

The arctic wave which struck the midwest this week has not left, the weatherman says. He adds, however, that the 20 - below temperatures which the Fox Valley experienced probably have left.

The expected low reading tonight is about 2 degrees below zero and it should reach 15 above Friday, about the same as today. In addition, light snow is in the forecast for Friday. The snow which blanketed the Valley Wednesday night and this morning amounted to one-half an inch.

The Wisconsin Highway Patrol reported that major roads in the state had scattered slippery spots today, except in the southeast. The light snow brought about the conditions and in some areas the spots were numerous.

Light snow was falling at mid-morning today at Eau Claire, Wausau, Green Bay, Stevens Point and Oshkosh.

Temperatures, which 24 hours earlier were all below zero, ranged from 12 above at La Crosse to 15 below at Superior at 8 a.m.

Fifteen below at Superior also was the state's lowest reading during the night. Green Bay and Wausau had a minimum of 14 below, Eau Claire 8 below, Lone Rock 7 below, Park Falls 5 below, Madison 3 below, Milwaukee zero, La Crosse 2 above and Beloit 5, Appleton had 3 below.

Biting cold which numbed much of the Midwest in winter's iciest weather spread eastward today with the core of the arctic air centered in the Northeast.

The early morning reading at Bemus Point, in western New York near Jamestown, was -25 degrees. Much of western and northern New York shivered under subzero temperatures, as did parts of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and Pennsylvania. Marks of 10 to 20 degrees below zero were prevalent in northern New England with zero to 10 above in southern sections.

Safety Advisers Support Knowles' Highway Program

Tougher Intoxicant Standard Suggested, Likely to be Fought

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Safety advisers and district attorneys expressed support Wednesday for Gov. Warren P. Knowles' proposed traffic safety legislation, but said tougher laws involving drunken motorists may run into public opposition.

"It is very likely that this program could reduce accidents in the state by one-third," Phillip LaValle, director of the Racine Safety Council, said.

LaValle was attending the Wisconsin Midwinter Safety Conference. District attorneys gathering for a convention said their work load could increase under a proposal to lower the legal standard for determining the intoxicating amount of alcohol in a motorist's blood system.

The Burnett County district attorney, Daniel Byrnes, said prosecutors could wind up "in a lot more trials."

Manpower Insufficient

Byrnes said his office represents a part-time job, and that there already is insufficient manpower to arrest and prosecute drunken drivers.

Knowles has recommended that the standard for determining intoxication be .10 per cent of blood content instead of the current .15 per cent.

William Redmond, former president of the Wisconsin Council of Safety and currently a safety director for Employers Insurance of Wausau, said legislation involving drinking and driving always runs into opposition.

"The public doesn't understand what 'implied consent' is," Redmond said. The public believes "a policeman can stop just anybody and make him take a sobriety test."

He suggested the public be made to understand that only those motorists driving erratically or suspiciously would be asked to take the test.

Uniform Beer Age

Redmond said he favors a uniform drinking age in the interests of driving safety. Dist Atty. Walter Swietlik of Ozaukee County said a uniform beer drinking age is imperative. An age limit applying to all counties, he said, would deprive under-age drinkers from getting beer in counties where the age limit is more relaxed.

A uniform age limit, said Dist. Atty. Robert Ledin of Bayfield County, "is something we've needed for a long time, and I hope the governor will be able to stand up under the pressure he's going to get."

Ledin said he also favors an improvement in drunken-driving laws.

"We're having difficulty with the present limits," Ledin said. "Jurors don't like to convict on drunken driving charges."

Sobriety Test

Knowles' proposals recommend an implied consent law under which a motorist suspected of drinking would have to take a sobriety test. The period of license suspension for the first conviction on drunken driving would be reduced to three months from one year.

"I think the test for drunkenness is stringent enough," said Dist. Atty. Jerome C. Pankratz of Door County. "We'd be prosecuting for drunken driving all the time" under the Knowles proposal.

Pankratz said he favors a uniform drinking age that would plug enforcement loopholes.

Many delegates to the safety conference recommended mandatory driver training for persons less than 18 years old, highway improvements and stiff annual vehicle inspections.

Welfare Workers In New York Accept Proposal

NEW YORK (AP) — Striking Welfare Department employes return to work today after voting to accept a mediator's proposal for fact-finding on the critical issue of wages.

End of the three-day work stoppage was signaled Wednesday night at a noisy meeting of the Social Service Employes Union where leaders urged acceptance of mediator Benjamin Wolf's proposal.

Herbert L. Haber, city labor relations director, had earlier agreed to fact-finding but on the condition that the strikers return to their jobs.

Judith Mage, president of the 7,500-member independent union, said after the meeting that the vote was about 2½-to-1 in favor of fact-finding and a return to work.

Bipartisan Matter

Drive for Strong Antifilibuster Rule In Senate Stopped by 61-37 Vote

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 61-37 vote has halted a bipartisan drive for a stronger Senate antifilibuster rule.

After Wednesday's setback, the only hope left for those who want to make it easier to halt filibusters is to muster a two-thirds majority to bring the debate on rules to a close.

A chance to do this will be offered under a cloture petition to be filed by leaders of both parties and other senators.

However, Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen told reporters that although he will sign the debate—closing petition, he will vote against it and expects it to pass.

It then automatically will come to a vote next Tuesday under a rule requiring a two-thirds majority of senators voting to end debate.

Possible Success

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield wouldn't forecast the outcome of Tuesday's vote. But he said if it were close and it appeared a second cloture petition would have any possibility of success, he would make another try before turning to other matters.

An attempt to bypass the two-thirds rule was the key to the strategy of those who favor making it possible to choke off a filibuster either by a three-fifths majority of senators voting or by a majority of the Senate membership.

They contended that at the start of a new Congress a majority of the Senate has a constitutional right to adopt rules unfettered by any rules previously adopted.

Acting on behalf of the bipartisan group, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., moved to shut off debate by majority vote on taking up the proposed three-fifths rule. Dirksen raised a point of order against the motion.

'Burned Another Witch'

DeSalvo's Attorney To Appeal Conviction

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Attorney F. Lee Bailey, charging that "Massachusetts just burned another witch," says he'll challenge the state's criminal insanity law in appealing the assault conviction of Albert DeSalvo, the man who claims to be the Boston strangler.

DeSalvo, 35, was sentenced Wednesday night to 10-years-plus-life after an all-male jury convicted the mental patient on charges of robbery and attacking four women in their suburban Boston homes in 1964.

None of the charges was connected with the series of killings attributed to the strangler.

Fault of Law

"It is the fault of no one but the law," Bailey told newsmen as he left Middlesex County Superior Court.

The attorney, who successfully defended Dr. Samuel Sheppard of Cleveland, Ohio, in his second murder trial, and Dr. Carl Coppolino in his New Jersey murder trial, said he did not regard the verdict in the DeSalvo case as a defeat.

"I haven't lost it yet," he said, citing his plans for an appeal to the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

Bailey had asked for verdicts of not guilty by reason of insanity and had not contested the charges against DeSalvo.

Bailey challenged the definition of insanity in the Massachusetts penal code several times during the seven-day trial.

He had questioned psychiatric witnesses repeatedly on the subject, including their views on the language of a proposed model definition of criminal insanity as proposed by the American Law Institute.

In his final argument to the jury, Bailey referred to the witch trials which took place in Massachusetts in the 17th century, comparing a guilty verdict against DeSalvo with the ignorance of mental illiess which he said was shown in the witchcraft era.

The jury deliberated three hours and 45 minutes before returning its verdicts on the 10 indictments, which included armed robbery, assault and battery, breaking and entering and sex offenses.

DeSalvo was sentenced to life imprisonment for armed robbery, with the sentence to begin after a 10-year sentence and other shorter concurrent terms for the other offenses.

Judge Cornelius J. Moynihan stayed the sentences pending the appeal and ordered DeSalvo returned to the Massachusetts State Hospital at Bridgewater, where he has been confined for most of the past 26 months.

Testimony was given during the trial that DeSalvo had insisted to psychiatrists he killed 13 women in eastern Massachusetts, 11 of them by strangling, between June 1962 and January 1964.

Mao Opponents Make Bid For Support From Peasants

Appeal to 500 Million Workers Direct Challenge to Leadership

TOKYO (AP) — Followers of Mao Tse-tung disclosed today that his opponents have extended their "counteroffensive" from the cities to the countryside in a bid to win over Red China's 500-million peasants.

It was a direct challenge to Mao, who in the past has managed to hold the support of the peasants who make up two thirds of the mainland population.

Supporters of Mao's chief foe, President Liu Shao-chi, were reported trying to influence the peasants the same way they did workers in the industrial centers — through economic benefits.

Former Red Guard

A Japanese correspondent in Peking reported bloody clashes took place between followers of Mao and Liu in Shenyang, Harlbin and Dairen in Manchuria and Chengchow in central China. He said wall posters reported 58 persons were injured Dec. 21 when about 3,000 Red Guards who had swung over to Liu's side clashed with 600 Maoists in Dairen, major port and gateway to Manchuria.

The correspondent said anti-Mao textile workers and their supporters clashed with pro-Mao Red Guards on Jan. 7-8 in Chengchow. One person was reported killed and 23 seriously injured, he said.

Six persons were reported seriously injured and scores slightly hurt Jan. 6 in similar clashes in Shenyang, the report added.

Mao Effigy

A Chinese woman arriving in Hong Kong from Canton said about 100 Chinese burned Mao in effigy in that southern city Wednesday. Hundreds of bystanders cheered and applauded, the woman said.

The New China News Agency, in Chinese-language reports broadcast by Peking Radio, indicated that Mao's opponents were trying to win over the peasants by giving them bigger individual shares of the traditional year-end distribution of produce.

This produce is usually apportioned to the state, the commune, and individual members of the commune.

During the turmoil since New Year's Day, Communist China's official news outlets have repeatedly accused Mao's opponents of trying to win workers with "economism" — promises of higher wages and other economic benefits.

Chrysler Recalls '67 Models

Owners Warned of Possible Brake, Wiper Malfunctions

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. recalled 18,124 of its 1967 model cars Wednesday in a search for possible brake and electrical malfunctions.

And the firm sent 120,215 other new-car owners letters saying some windshield-wiper motors might freeze up during cold weather.

In all, more than 138,000 autos are involved in the warnings.

The firm said only 4,720 of the 18,124 cars may have brake or electrical system defects but "we are recalling all of them because we are not sure which cars may be involved."

The nation's third largest auto maker advised owners of Plymouth Fury and Dodge Polara and Monaco models to test their windshield wipers in cold weather. If the wiper motors fail to work, a spokesman said, the firm is urging the car owners to bring vehicles into dealers for replacement.

The possible brake and electrical system defects were discovered during quality-control engineering tests and there were no known reports of malfunctions from customers, Chrysler said.

First Shutout in NHL History

Canadiens Blank Stale All-Star Squad, 3-0

BY HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — Toe Blake, whose Montreal Canadiens turned in the first shutout in the 20-year history of the National Hockey League's All-Star game with a 3-0 victory Wednesday night, sounded like the coach of any fourth-place team after the game

"Tell them I'll take the two points," he said, motioning toward the other side of the ice where the All-Stars were dressing

He referred to the two points a team picks up for a regular season victory.

Blake's defending Stanley Cup champions can use every point they can get these days and the coach felt this victory over the game's top names might help his club get started. Plagued by injuries, last season's regular season titleholders hold down the No. 4 position in the six-team circuit

"This is a good team," Blake said. "They played tonight the way they did last spring when they won the Stanley Cup A victory like this can't help but boost their confidence."

Ferguson Scores Twice

It should do wonders for the confidence of left-winger John Ferguson, who scored two of the three Montreal goals Ferguson had managed only five all season

Henri Richard scored the other goal while Charlie Hodge who worked two periods, and Gary Bauman, who played the middle 20 minutes, turned away 35 shots by the poorly coordinated All-Stars.

"All through that second period," said Bauman, who has played only one regular season game, "I was waiting for Bobby Hull to wind up and let a real hard shot go. But he didn't, thank goodness."

Hull was just as disappointed at not firing that famous high, hard one as Bauman was thankful for not seeing it.

"Most of the boys haven't played since last Sunday," Hull said. "And we didn't practice. Maybe we were a bit stale. You can't stay off the ice three days and then be sharp."

Gordie Howe, Detroit's great right wing, who started on a line with Chicago's Stan Mikita and Hull, agreed

Canadian Grid Star to Try Out In AFL or NFL

OTTAWA (AP) — Fullback Jim Dillard of the Ottawa Rough Riders insisted Wednesday he is a free agent, and he expects to try for a berth in the National or American League Dillard rejected an Ottawa offer to pay him the $2,600 that was deducted from his salary during the 1966 season.

The offer also guaranteed there would be no further deductions in 1967 as the club was prepared to write off the $5,000 advance made by Oakland Raiders of the American League to Dillard two years ago.

Oakland gave the money to Dillard to play out his option year with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Conference and join the Raiders. But Calgary later sent Dillard to Ottawa in a player deal.

The fullback said the club breached the contract by not paying him in full by the end of the last playoff game. "While I want to stay here, I feel the club is not counting on me in the plans for next season," he said.

Pat Fitzgerald, of Xavier, ranks second with a 19 1 average, helped considerably by the 74 points he has scored in the last three tilts.

Chilton Native Killed on Job In Florida

Henry P. Doern, New Bridegroom, Headed Construction Crew

CHILTON — George P. Doern, 25, a native of rural Chilton, was killed Tuesday afternoon when he reportedly was run over by a steam roller at a road construction site in Jacksonville, Fla.

Doern, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Doern, route 2, Chilton, and his bride of less than a month, Helen, were residing at route 4, Jacksonville. The Jacksonville couple was married Dec. 23.

Was Foreman

Doern was a foreman for Jackson Construction Co., and was directing the operation of the roller at the time of the accident.

Doern graduated from Chilton High School in 1959. He spent two years in military service and was discharged last September.

The young couple was married at the Normandy Baptist Temple in Jacksonville.

Parents in Florida

Doern's parents are in Florida to attend the young man's funeral this afternoon. After services in Jacksonville, the body will be returned to Chilton, for funeral services next Monday afternoon.

Funeral arrangements will be handled by Pfeffer Funeral Home with services at Ebenezer United Church of Christ. Burial will be at Hillside Cemetery. Final arrangements have not been announced.

Communicate, Interpret, Waupaca Businessmen Told

State C of C Official Speaks At Program

WAPACA — "The ability to communicate with people through either the spoken or written word and to listen, are two of the important basics necessary in the business and industrial world today," Kenneth W. Haagensen, executive vice president of the State Chamber of Commerce told those attending the annual banquet meeting of the Waupaca Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

Misunderstandings are costly when persons fail to communicate properly and it can be equally costly for those who fail to listen to what they are told, Haagensen said.

Great Misunderstanding

Citing an example, he said one great misunderstanding is the statement that agriculture is declining. This is misleading because the number of persons involved in agriculture may be declining but production is increasing. "Agriculture is now using brain power instead of horse power," he said.

Listening is equally important, Haagensen pointed out. "Millions of dollars are lost annually by industry because someone didn't listen," he said.

If Waupaca communicates properly with persons outside the city, it need not worry about attracting people to the community, Haagensen said.

Honored Guest

Frank O. Stratton, 88, was the honored guest at the banquet. He was presented with two certificates. One by Bentley Courtney, director of the State Selective Service system, in recognition of 24 years service on the county selective service board, from which he recently retired. During this time Stratton served 12 years as chairman.

Waupaca Finds Water But Quality Is Doubtful

Drillers Test Four Spots in Recent Weeks; Are Now Optimistic About West Side Well

WAUPACA — Waupaca continues to be plagued with problems in its search for a fourth city well that will produce quality in an adequate quantity.

In recent weeks four test wells have been drilled, with varying results. At only one of the locations was there no water.

This week, drillers have been working at a promising site east of Western Avenue on the west side of the city. A good supply of water, struck only a few feet below the surface, continued down through water-bearing gravel for 57 feet. However, at the 57-foot level hardpan was hit, and after drilling through the seven-foot-thick hardpan, water of very poor quality started flowing from an artesian well. In addition to being cloudy, the water contained a fine sand and had a high iron content.

Iver Oerter, city engineer, said an attempt now will be made to pull up and plug the hole through the hardpan with concrete. By doing this, the water in the gravel above the hardpan probably can be used. Tests are now being made on the upper level of water at a new site.

Legislators to Hear Detailed Memo on UW-GB Site Switch

Appeal for Larson Farm Site Is Coupled With Special Fiscal Pitch

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A strong appeal to all legislators — coupled with a special fiscal pitch to conservatives — has been made in a detailed memo prepared by backers of the proposed bill to change the site of The University of Wisconsin-Green Bay (UW-GB.

The six-page, single-spaced paper, demonstrates the care which has been taken by leaders of the fight to win approval of the Larson farm site in arming for the battle expected to start this week with the introduction of the bill prepared by Assemblyman William Rogers (D-Kaukauna).

The paper has been readied for distribution to all members of the Legislature when the site fight begins. The memorandum is signed by A. W. Ponath, as corporation counsel for Outagamie County and by "Students First, A Citizen's Committee," and carefully lists monetary appeals and the testimony of Brown County leaders in an attempt to win approval for a site change.

Need Highways

The fiscal appeal is coupled to a claim that retaining the Shorewood site as the campus of the UW-GB would cost the state "millions of dollars of expenditures to build new highways and bridges." It is also coupled to two citations from the presentations of the Northeastern Wisconsin Education Committee and Brown County, a year and a half ago, relating to the then current characteristics of the Larson farm site.

The Brown County testimony came during the site selection process carried out in the fall and winter of 1965 and includes quotations made in listing the Larson farm location among several other county sites.

"The Larson farm site is close to four-lane U.S. Highway 41 and closest to the center of student population. It is near the Green Bay football stadium and the Green Bay airport. It requires no expensive bridges to make it accessible," the paper recounts in suggesting transportation difficulties in keeping the Shorewood site.

Cites Cost

Quotations from G. H. Bakke, chairman of the State Highway Commission, and V. L. Fiedler, its secretary, are then cited as evidence that statewide popular demands far outstrip state financial capabilities. Fiedler is further quoted as saying that if all such demands are to be met throughout the state, the cost would be over $500 million during a 10-year period.

Heavy bridge traffic congestion is suggested by citing highway commission traffic totals for bridges in Green Bay

Study Union With Hilbert, Stockbridge

BRILLION — Merger of the Stockbridge, Hilbert and Brillion school districts and construction of a centrally located high school costing between $1.75 and $2 million would provide a more comprehensive educational program at a cost justifiable to local taxpayers and would be in line with modern educational trends, Clarence R. Wentland, state supervisor of school reorganization with the State Department of Public Instruction, said here Tuesday.

Some 200 Brillion district residents braved sub-zero temperatures to hear Wentland and Norman Larson, consultant with the field service division of the department, give results of a state department survey requested by Cooperative Education Service Agency (CESA) 10 and representatives of the three districts.

Wentland emphasized that a three-district senior high school would provide a facility which would surpass that being provided now by the individual schools.

Borrowing Power

The total equalized valuation of the three districts—$55,271,500 — would allow for a borrowing power of $5.5 million, Wentland said.

Cost of a consolidated school plant, as opposed to individual expansion would result in an overall tax saving of 1.6 per cent for Brillion; a 2.6 per cent increase for Hilbert and 13.1 per cent reduction for Stockbridge.

A consolidated high school would necessitate an additional tax levy of $3.15 per $1,000 of assessed valuation over a 20-year period, Wentland said, but this would still be less than individual expansion at the forementioned taxes.

An enrollment of about 698 could be expected in a new three-year high school, Wentland said. Approximately 85 courses would be offered compared to 56 now being offered here. The state average is 57.2.

Proposed Staff

The new school would have about 62 teachers, Wentland said of the state study. Brillion presently has 24 teachers for

Increase in Fire Calls Recorded At New London

1966 Report Shows 104 Runs, Decrease Of $22,000 in Losses

NEW LONDON — Fire Chief Al H. Schafer's annual report showed a record number of calls, two deaths due to fires or fire calls and a $22,000 decrease in fire losses for 1966.

Schafer's report was made Monday to the Police and Fire Commission. The deaths were those of an elderly Northport man, Edwin Beyers, and a fireman, Glen Thorpe. Thorpe was killed in an accident en route to a fire last summer.

Total loss in accountable fires in 1966 was $3,889 compared with $25,819 in 1965. Loss of buildings was set at $2,594 and loss of contents at $1,295.

The 104 fire calls were 1 more than in 1965. Fire runs were classified as 21 residential calls; no mercantile fires; 15 runs to manufacturing plants; one miscellaneous run; 13 grass and brush fires; 14 other fires, mostly automobiles; two false alarm calls; three first aid and emergency runs, and 35 runs outside the city.

Twelve runs were made in April and July and 11 during March, May, June and October. Three calls in August were the fewest for any month.

Assembly Speaker 'Speechless'

Froehlich Given Surprise Tribute By GOP of Outagamie County

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — In a surprise tribute Tuesday, Assembly Speaker Harold V. Froehlich, R-Appleton, was hailed by his party's two highest elective office holders and the leadership of the Outagamie County Republican Party.

Sworn In

Gathered in Froehlich's office off the state Assembly chamber, Gov. Warren P. Knowles and Lt. Gov. Jack Olson led a ceremony in which the Outagamie County GOP presented Froehlich with a special plaque, saluting him on his rapid rise in state politics and his recent elevation to the Speaker's chair, most powerful post in the lower house of the Legislature.

Froehlich was unofficially elected to head the Assembly Republicans last fall, and was sworn into the speakership last week by state Supreme Court Chief Justice George Currie as part of the cermonies marking the start of the 1967 session of the Legislature.

The plaque was presented in the surprise ceremony to Froehlich by Knowles, who read the engraved tribute and added his congratulations and best wishes to the newly-elected Speaker.

Outagamie County GOP chairman Murel Edinger, Appleton, opened the ceremony by explaining to Froehlich that the event was planned to cite him for his recent election and to express the county chapter's appreciation for his long-time work for the party in Outagamie County.

Froehlich replied that he was speechless at receiving the tribute, but added his thanks to the local party members and to Knowles and Olson for the tribute.

His election, he pointed out, is beneficial for local Republicans as it marks the first occasion that a Fox Valley legislator has held the Speaker's chair since the 1955 session, when Mark Catlin, then a Republican Assemblyman from Appleton, held the post.

The walnut plaque bears a testimonial citation, a mounted presiding officer's gavel, and a bronze wreath containing the figure of a speaker behind a lectern.

The testimonial reads, "Assemblyman Harold V. Froehlich —For your significant political achievements and your dedicated leadership as recognized in your election as Speaker of the Wisconsin state Assembly this plaque is presented on behalf of the Republican Party of Outagamie County — Jan. 17, 1967."

Annual Police Report

Arrests Up in New London

NEW LONDON — Police Chief Jack Algiers' annual report shows New London shows an increase in accidents and arrests compared with 1965 while the number of criminal complaints declined.

The department investigated 40 criminal complaints last year compared with 60 in 1965. Complaints were burglary, three and none cleared; larceny over $50, seven and six cleared; sex offenses, all three cleared; vandalism, 14 and six cleared; bad checks, eight and six cleared; forgery, both cleared, and theft by fraud, all three cleared.

Arrests increased from 362 in 1965 to 433 last year.

Traffic violations, including 213 for speeding, accounted for 352 arrests.

Other Arrests

Other arrests were disorderly conduct, 11; dunkenness, eight; theft, 23; allowing a minor to loiter in a tavern, loitering in a tavern, entering a tavern while posted, furnishing beer to a minor, misrepresentation to procure liquor, failure to stop for an emergency vehicle, indecent conduct, battery, parental violation of curfew, fraud, reckless use of weapon, aggravated battery, forgery, destruction of property, and shooting within the city.

Accidents increased by 21 to 235 in 1966. One death resulted during 1966 ending a two-year fatality free period in the city.

A breakdown shows 89 accidents involved damage of more than $100; 119 under $100 damage; 24 with personal injuries, and two involving pedestrians.

Curfew Violations

The department received 1,068 complaints and performed 2,034 miscellaneous services.

Algiers report shows 27 curfew violations occurred in 1966 and two adults were prosecuted for repeat violations by their children.

Police attributed the decrease in criminal complaints and vandalism in the city to the curfew for youngsters under 18.

Rink a Problem

Top Skaters Expected At Waupaca Classic

WAUPACA — A large field of skaters is expected for the annual Waupaca Speed Skating Classic scheduled Sunday at Shadow Lake if a rink can be prepared in time for the event.

According to Waupaca Skating Club officials, the Madison Speed Skating Club has sent a list of 48 entries, headed by Howie Gutsesell, who won the senior men's crown at the Waupaca Classic last year. Their outstanding young skater, Peter Mueller, who won every title in his juvenile boys division in the state this year and the National Indoor Championship at St. Louis last year, also will compete.

The Eau Claire Speed Skating Club plans to send 25 skaters headed by Marie Guast, who won the midget girl's title last year. She also won the Silver Skates crown at West Allis this year. Thirty-three skaters will represent Waupaca this year.

Rink a Problem

Other clubs planning to compete are West Allis, Oconomowoc, Waukesha, Whitefish Bay and Fond du Lac, but their entry lists are not complete at this time.

Developing a rink at Shadow Lake has become a problem this year. Fire Chief Bob Hansen and his men have cleared an area farther out on the lake and plan to flood it to eliminate the snow ice at the top but their efforts have been hampered by the repeated snowfalls.

Waupaca skaters scored 16 points in the Wisconsin Open Skating Championships Sunday at Eau Claire, to place sixth in team standings.

High scorer for the Waupaca team was Arlys Jenkins who won medals in all three of her races and scored seven points. Karen Jenkins and Tim Leopold each garnered four points and Jacci Romeis, scored one point. Ronnie Pitt and David Jorgensen placed in the heat of one race but failed to score in the finals.

Floyd Jenkins, Waupaca, served as chief judge of the event and Gale Harrington and David Morey also served as judges. Mrs. Floyd Jenkins was in charge of registrations and was official scorer for the meet.

Laird Asks Educators to Back Revenue-Sharing

Tells School Board Meeting in Milwaukee The Federal Grant Has Had Day in Court

Representative Melvin R. Laird (R-Wisconsin) this morning appeared before the Wisconsin Association of School Boards (WASB) meeting in Milwaukee to urge support of revenue-sharing as a replacement for categorical grant-in-aid programs of the federal government.

Laird said the categorical, federal grant "has had its day in court. It has been found wanting."

Growing Disillusion

Speaking to the opening general session at the auditorium Laird said the "better way is the tax-sharing way."

"The results of your own regional meetings to assess the impact of federal grant programs on education during 1965 and 1966 speak more eloquently than I can about the growing disillusionment educators all over the country feel toward the categorical grant.

"Implicit, it seems, in the voicing of these complaints was a deep feeling that state and local identification of the top priority problems within our state were not always consistent with the priorities established by federal programs," Laird said.

Laird indicated that the 90th Congress would be given an opportunity on several occasions to replace some categorical programs with the broader and, in his opinion, "more desirable and more promising" bloc grant, in renewal votes.

Laird argued that substituting a bloc grant for Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act earmarked for educational purposes but in no other way earmarked" would make the program "more effective, more efficient, and more likely to be utilized in ways that will attack top priority education problems within specific states.

Share Revenue

Laird argued that revenue-sharing, at least in part, would return financial resources to the states for use on their most pressing problems, which in Wisconsin may be totally different than the top priority problems in some other state.

At the same time, top talent which may have been attracted to the Federal Office of Education may be drawn back to a State Department of Public Instruction to help in developing that State's overall program in the field of education."

Laird indicated that such a reversal of the present trend of centering all significant problem solving in the federal bureaucracy would lead to a more effective utilization of federal dollars.

He said we must look at our 50 states as "50 civic laboratories. "We know from scientific research that 50 different, separate efforts are better than one. We may not come up with the best solution in all fifty laboratories but we are sure of one thing when we decentralize: we will never come up with a single, worst solution applied to everyone."

and De Pere in August and September 1966.

"We leave it to your good judgment, if this is congestion."

"What happens to the students' educational needs from the primary service area — 'Outagamie County' — if the institution is constructed on the Shorewood site — in an inaccessible location?"

"Select the Larson site — it best serves the interests of our state."

In all planning papers for the development of the new northeastern Wisconsin UW campus, the primary service area of the school has been continually cited by state officials as including both Brown and Outagamie counties.

The paper also cites facts from the presentation of Brown County which have been changed due to developments in the past 18 months.

It does not mention, for example, that all of the Larson farm site may no longer be available due to a recent release of land for industrial development purposes, but instead quotes the more than year old document stating that the site is completely free of permanent easements, incumbrances and reserved rights.

Scouts will be judged on fire building, cooking, knowledge of winter camping procedure, use of saws for both fuel and shelter and other skills.

Snow Plows in Three Waupaca Traffic Mishaps

Slippery Streets A Factor; Only One Person Hurt

WAUPACA—Snow plows were involved in three accidents on icy city streets.

The only injury was to a rural Colby man who complained of a sore neck after his vehicle was struck from behind at the intersection of Royalton and Churchill Streets at 10:54 a.m. Monday. James R. Oehmichen, 40, route 2, Colby was traveling west on Royalton Street and had stopped for a stop sign when the truck was struck by a Waupaca County Highway Department truck driven by Joseph F. Stange, 55, route 3, Waupaca. Minor damage resulted.

At 12:42 a.m. Monday a car driven by LaVern L. Hanke, 33, 1206 Royalton St., was struck from behind at the same intersection by a car driven by Richard A. Glawe, 23, Green Bay. Damage to the Hanke car was estimated at more than $100.

Plow Hits Truck

In a third crash, this one at 1:50 p.m., Monday at the intersection of Badger and Main Streets, a Waupaca County snow plow backed into a pickup truck being driven by Jamees Sprangers, 22, route 2, Waupaca. Both trucks had been headed west on Badger Street. The County truck was driven by Eugene K. Engelbretsen, 25, route 4, Waupaca. Only minor damage resulted.

Damages of more than $100 resulted from a two-car mishap in the 300 block of S. Main Street at 8:34 a.m. Monday. A car driven by Roman M. Jungers was traveling south when it collided with a car driven by Lyle J. Campbell, 46, 802 Park Ave., who was backing out of a parking stall.

At 8:45 a.m., Tuesday a car driven by Arthur Christensen, 43, Amherst, was damaged when it was struck from behind by a city street department truck driven by John W. Beiver, 22, 410 N. Franklin St., Waupaca.

Summons Issued

Both vehicles were traveling east on W. Fulton Street at the time of the crash. Beiver told police he was blinded by the sun and did not see the Christensen car which had slowed. Damages to the Christensen car were estimated at over $100.

An estimated $400 damage was caused at 2 p.m., Tuesday when cars driven by Ervin Hint, 61, route 3, Waupaca, and Edmund W. Koch, 1029 Evans St., Waupaca, collided at the intersection of W. Fulton and Washington streets. According to police, Hintz was traveling on Washington and the Koch car was traveling west on Fulton. Hintz was issued a summons for failure to yield the right of way from a stop sign.

Brillion Presented Benefits Of Proposed School Merger

grades seven through 12. Seven of these 24 teachers teach only in the high school.

A consolidated high school would enable instructors to teach in their major field and not be forced to teach a variety of subjects as now sometimes occurs.

A merger would necessitate a revamping of the elementary and junior high school systems.

Larson, who is ex-coordinator of CESA 10 and now with the department of public instruction, told the group that public education in Wisconsin is a shared responsibility of local districts and the state. He also cited the 12 basic subject fields that should be offered to high school students.

When questioned by several audience members on the "economy of a merger" Larson said "a merger would be an improvement over what you now have. If you're willing to provide quality on your own, you must be willing to pay for it."

Peoples Decision

Wentland and Larson both emphasized that the State Department of Public Instruction is in a position to "make suggestions, but we do not tell you what you have to do. These decisions are up to you people."

Survey results indicate a merger is "worthy of serious consideration", Wentland said.

The Brillion Board of Education decided after Tuesday night's meeting to conduct a district meeting Thursday, Feb. 2. Facts of the state's survey report will be discussed. It is hoped that the school board can get some "direction" from residents pertaining to the "next step to be taken."

School merger talk began here in September just after some Stockbridge residents sought detachment from there and attachment to the Chilton district and just after a $1.35 million school bond referendum vote was defeated 770-340 at Brillion.

Included on the agenda at the Feb. 2 meeting will be a discussion on the feasibility of school district purchase of the Charles Goldschmidt property adjacent to the present school site. The land and house are being offered to the school for $10,000. Purchase of land can be authorized only by the annual meeting or at a special district meeting called for that purpose.

which he has held for several years.

In addition to the name change the group decided that if a director missed three consecutive board meetings, he would be dropped from the board and replaced by a new director to be named by the board.

Instead of having officers and committee chairmen present verbal reports, printed report booklets were distributed.

Highlighting the group's activities during the past year was the Oct. 12 ribbon-cutting ceremony which officially opened the new U.S. 10 bypass. The section of highway which carries the bulk of U.S. 10 traffic around the city was officially opened by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

Vacation Information

Stordock pointed out that the inquiries received from persons wanting to vacation or visit the Waupaca and Chain O'Lakes area continues to increase each year. One of the services offered by the chamber is a listing of cottages available on the Chain O'Lakes, in conjunction with the operation of an information booth on the courthouse square during the summer months.

The booklet contained reports from several other committee chairmen including Robert Niemuth of the membership committee who reported that during the year 37 new members were added and there were only two failed to renew their memberships. Total 1966 membership was 241, including cottage owners who listed their cottages for rent.

'New-Lefter's Stand'

Up-Beat Marxist Ribs 'Rural America' in Lawrence Talk

BY DICK LYNEIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"Like, this is Appleton," a crowd of about 250 people at Lawrence University was told Wednesday night, "and it's typical of rural America.

"Like, you have problems of isolation here, just like in Ithaca. And everything is white and Anglo-Saxon and Protestant and nice. This is typical small-town America.

"Like" the founder and president of a school he calls The Free University of New York said, "we must always avoid unpleasantness, at any cost, because we must protect our children. But there are terribly important things going on out there. You must have some idea that metropolitan America is there, whether you want to admit it or not."

Marxist Studies

The speaker's name was Allen Krebs. He calls himself a professor of Marxist studies at his school. Holder of a doctorate from the University of Michigan, he was dismissed from the faculty of Adelphi University two years ago for "teaching deficiencies, heresy, blasphemy and diabolism."

"So, like anyway — you know, I mean — like dirty Milwaukee and dirty Chicago and, God, like that's just America.

"And," he said, "like Africa is there all the time and, like, it isn't there. So the State Department is worrying about that problem and, like, everything is going to be all right."

Third in Series

The title of Krebs' lecture, which was the third in a series on radical political thought entitled "From Separate Corners," was "The Essence of Academic Freedom — a New-Lefter's Stand."

"American society," he stated, "is, like, a pat on the back, so for ... sake, don't worry ... everything's okay.

"I mean," Krebs said, "a university is where a person should understand the relationship between personality and the social order.

"You can learn to digest what you have to put up with when you graduate from here, like, nine-to-five, and Readers' Digest, and trees, and snow, and streams to fish in, and Appleton, and rural and corporate America

Corporate Husbands

"When you girls graduate," he stated, "you have to have a high-toned painting, but just one, on the wall, and you must have an awareness of drama and theater so you know what to do when your corporate husband is called from rural America into the big city.

"As a college graduate," Krebs went on, "you are permitted to live on a high-tone, even though it might be a little less than human. You are destined for the corporate rat race. But don't, for God's sake, think these are personal problems; they are collective problems. Don't consider why these things are in us here in white, rural America."

Krebs charged that American colleges are evading "our society's relation to the rest of the world.

White Islands

"Like," he said, "for people living off the white islands of America, western Europe and Australia, the average income of the world is $60 a year, the average life expectancy is 30 years, only 2 per cent of the world's farmers have access of power machinery, and 80 per cent have no access to metal farm implements.

"In America," Krebs went on, "like, the problems are sickness and old age. Like, the problems of Asia can be avoided by our cosmetic merchants if you put queen bee jelly on your face. Like, we spend $2 billion annually on cosmetics and that is the total annual budget of many African states."

Krebs, who said he took several undergraduate majors so that he could avoid the Korean War draft, said American colleges and universities don't exist to deal with the relationships of western people to a developing world which is in revolution.

Crucial Technology

"Universities in America," he stated, "don't want to consider or concern themselves with these relationships. Instead, like, they deal with the skills needed to become productive members of the America corporate society. You can only put your skills at work making money for corporations.

"Technology is crucial to America," Krebs said, "like, you can't make bad bridges.

"So," he said, "when you hire a teacher; like, you need a man who'll teach kids how to make good germ bombs.

"You're learning an honest dollar's worth of skill," Krebs said, "but the rest of it — the liberal arts — you can't have it."

Research Brothel

Krebs, who said that, before he became a teacher, he earned his living as an "assistant intellectual in a research brothel," urged the Lawrence students to study the "12 to 25 men who run your university. You'll find 12 to 25 men who know nothing about it. Next to each trustee's name, you'll see a long list of corporate holdings. You'll look in vain on the board of trustees for a scholor or for someone who has a right to be there. You'll find just rich industrialists, and no educators.

"So students use LSD," Krebs said. "Like, I don't put this and 'pot' down because these kids on LSD are using research to try to grasp reality. Taking 'pot' enables individuals to climb out of a bind they find themselves in. It's good," he said, "that people search and that they realize they are what they want themselves to be.

"As our century draws to a close," Krebs said, "and there are more and more revolutions, one can only hope that people will oblige the institutions to provide the kind of knowledge which brought this all about.

"Since 1964," he finished, "since Berkeley, like, there has developed more than we have a right to expect."

Krebs was applauded warmly by the crowd when he finished his 70-minute "lecture."

Chilton Adopts Water, Sewer Code Revision

Aldermen Order Formation of Grievance Board

CHILTON — The city council adopted a revision of the municipal water and sewer code Tuesday and ordered the formation of a board of grievances to hear complaints concerning rental charges.

The grievance committee will consist of the director of public works, Walter Muehl, and two aldermen to be appointed by the mayor.

One change in the code is that each connecting lateral must be at least six feet below the established street grade.

Changes Made

Any consumer wishing an outside meter shall notify the director of public works, and it shall be furnished and installed at the expense of the consumer.

If a consumer requests a meter test, in addition to the periodic checks, he shall witness the test. Meters shall be repaired and maintained at the expense of the city.

Each property owner shall maintain the service line from the right of way to the point of use. If a consumer fails to repair a leaking pipe within 48 hours after being notified of the leak, water shall be turned off, and not turned on until the repairs have been completed.

Frozen equipment will be thawed at the expense of the city unless freezing was caused by the neglect of the consumer.

If the city has reasonable evidence that a consumer is obtaining water by using a device to interfere with proper metering, the city may estimate the amount and bill the consumer for the service.

It was decided that a flat sewerage charge of $44 per quarter will be charged to the Chilton Creamery. This is a decrease in rate because the creamery has discontinued its manufacture of ice cream.

Minnesota Boom for Romney Postponed

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

ST. PAUL, MINNESOTA — What has happened in Minnesota in the 10 weeks since election day gives a fair picture of just how strong — and how shallow — is the national presidential boom for Michigan's Gov. George Romney.

As soon as Romney scored his landslide third term win as governor Nov. 8, the victory-minded young progressives who run the Minnesota Republican Party were itching to move. Viewing Romney as the man to beat President Johnson, they were ready to form Romney-for-President clubs and begin lining up convention delegates.

Novak

But from Michigan came no single word of encouragement. Furthermore, Romney and his lieutenants in Lansing have obediently heeded the admonition by Gov. Harold Levander, Minnesota's newly elected Republican governor, for a six-month moratorium here on presidential politics. Thus, there is today no more of a Romney organization in Minnesota than there was on Nov. 8.

This leaves Romney in an ambiguous position in Minnesota. He remains the front-runner here because of his strong showing in the polls. Thus, his Minnesota strength is only poll-deep. In the absence of any Romney organizational work here, it would simply disappear with any drop in the polls.

What is true in Minnesota is also true elsewhere, for Minnesota's high-flying Republicans typify the new Republican spirit around the country in the wake of the 1966 elections.

That spirit here is typified not be Levander, 56, an old law partner of Harold Stassen, but by a remarkable group of progressive party leaders from a younger generation: Attorney General Douglas Heas, 36; Lt. Gov. James Goetz, 30; State Rep. Lyall Schwartzkopf, 35 (who doubles as Minneapolis party chairman); State Rep. William Frenzel, 36.

With 2-to-1 control of the state legislature after their landslide victory over the crumbling (DFL) Party last fall, they scent a similar takeover in Washington. Their affection for Romney stems almost entirely from his showing in the polls — particularly the Minnesota poll, which shows Romney leading President Johnson 55 per cent to 38 per cent (while Richard M. Nixon trails the President, 39 per cent to 54 per cent).

It's A New Breed

But very nearly equal to the intensity of their search for a presidential winner is their devotion to organization. This breed of new guard Republicans is convinced superior precinct organization built up over the past decade in the Twin Cities has been crucially important in defeating the DFL.

Furthermore, they well remember how they were humiliated and out-organized by Goldwater insurgents in 1964 and kept control of the delegation only thrugh the ploy of a favorite son candidacy. Consequently, they are deeply worried that not a single step has been taken to build a Romney organization in Minnesota.

Nor are they impressed by Romney's willingness to bend before the wishes of Gov. Levander. They would prefer a visible exhibition of Romney muscle lining up delegate strength here against the governor's wishes just as Sen. John F. Kennedy often opposed local governors in 1960. In fact, the new guard Republicans regard Levander's proposed moratorium as a political error that could hurt him.

Moreover, these progressive Republicans are perplexed by the failure of Romney to stitch together a professional organization staff immediately following his election. Several volunteered to us the idea that Romney ought to hire F. Clifton White, chief organizer for Barry Goldwater in 1964 who came within a hair of capturing Minnesota from its party leaders.

Want Romney Visit

Holding no grudges against White, they would welcome a Romney operation in Minnesota run by the capable William McFadzean, White's man in Minnesota and Goldwater's 1964 Minnesota organizer. In contrast, White's Goldwater background is regarded as a distinct liability by several key members of Romney's inner circle.

That is hardly the only difference in opinion between St. Paul and Lansing. While the Romney strategy is to limit his current out-of-state appearances, his would-be supporters want an immediate Romney visit here. Unless he builds personal ties here, his strength will remain subject to whims of the public opinion polls.

Thanks to the absence of organized activity for anybody else and the non-existence of genuine Nixon sentiment, Romney's failure to use the springboard of his sweeping re-election may not be fatal. Yet, his best friends here feel it is imperative Romney start filling in the shallow base of his support in Minnesota and elsewhere in the nation — and start soon.

PSC Okays Hortonville Utility Connection Hike

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Public Service Commission has approved an increase in the charges by the Hortonville Water and Sewer Utility for water and sewer connections. The present rate of $75 was raised to $135 for an initial water lateral and $140 for an initial sewer lateral.

Construction costs have increased, the commission said, and sandy soil conditions in some areas of the village require special trenching work for such installations.

Coalition Growing

Strength of Liberalism Waning in Congress

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The liberal impulse in this new 90th Congress already looks puffed-out. Not that it won't keep trying to prevail. But the odds are against it.

The mood of liberalism had its most shining hour, perhaps for years to come, in the 89th Congress. There the Democrats completely dominated, thanks to the 1964 elections which swept in a wave of liberals.

But in this 90th Congress, this time thanks to the 1966 elections, the mood and the people are more conservative

Three recent events show it.

The vote to keep the playboy-preacher-politician Democrat from Harlem, Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, from taking his House seat until he can be investigated; the vote making it tougher to get action from the House Rules Committee; and the obvious defeat of an attempt to make it easier to kill a Senate filibuster.

Coalition Revival

Emerging now is a revived coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats who had been the tycoons of Congress for generations until the 89th moved in.

That Congress, extending over 1965 and 1966, gave President Johnson a honeymoon, the kind he may never see again even if he serves two terms. It set a record for passing major legislation.

In the 1966 elections the Republicans gained 47 House seats and three in the Senate where Democrats outnumber them 64 to 36.

Although they still look vastly outnumbered there, the Republicans' leader there, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, is a powerful voice and influence, both of them highly conservative.

Wednesday Dirksen was in the forefront — although in this case Mansfield was by his side — in all but polishing off a liberal attempt to make it simpler to throttle a filibuster.

As the year goes on Dirksen will be the dominant conservative force in the Senate where a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats could stymie a lot of Johnson programs.

But in the House that coalition has already been in operation. After viewing what the House did on its opening day, Jan. 10, a New York liberal Democrat, Rep. Emanuel Celler, said "what happened today is a forerunner of what you can expect in this Congress. The Republicans and Dixiecrats are going to kill all liberal legislation. They will be entirely reactionary."

Action delayed

On that opening day the coalition deprived Powell of his seat, which he had held 22 years, until a special committee investigates his qualifications. This action did not specifically spell out the complaint against him.

But the argument related to two main questions: The findings of a House committee that he had many personal trips at taxpayers' expense; and a criminal contempt of court charge against him in New York after a verdict against him for defamation of character

On the key vote 126 Democrats, almost all outside the South, and no Republicans were on his side. Against him were 119 Democrats, mostly from the South, and 186 Republicans, for a total of 305.

Then the coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats teamed up to abolish a rule requiring the House Rules Committee, often a bottleneck for liberal legislation, to report out a bill within a reasonable time.

More Indians Being Elected to Public Office, Udall Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increasing number of American Indians are being elected to public office, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall reported Wednesday.

"This signals more Indian participation in the major currents of national life," Udall said.

"Fifteen Indians are now being seated in six Western state legislatures as they convene for their sessions this year, and other Indians are taking office as judges, county officials, and others of public trust.

"...It is quite clear that the 1966 elections marked a greater acceptance by Indian people of their roles as fully participating citizens, and a wider recognition by their fellow Americans of the contributions Indians can make to public life."

Campus Site Battle Takes New Course

Both Sides Claim Victory on Building Commission Fight

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The battle over the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay spilled over into the seating of the state Building Commission Wednesday and was resolved in a compromise move that left both campus backers and opponents claiming victory.

The fight saw state Sen. Reuben LaFave, R-Oconto, step down from a nomination to the Building Commission after being selected by the powerful Republican Senate Committee on Committees, and ask that Sen. Chester Dempsey, R-Hartland, be renamed to the body.

LaFave, an ardent supporter of increased funds for the Green Bay campus and its preservation at the Shorewood site on the city's northeast side, had attempted to depose Dempsey, who voted against the selection of the location a year ago.

Lorge Opposes Site

LaFave's move was backed by Green Bay Republican Sen. Robert Warren, and Dempsey was backed by Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, who is a leader in the forces opposing development of the new campus at the selected location.

The opponents are expected to introduce a bill in the state Assembly Friday which would void the Shorewood site selection and require that the campus be built at the Larson Farm location on the city's west side.

The Building Commission seats, available because the commission must legally be reconstituted in legislative members with the start of each biennial Legislature, also caused conflict on the Democratic side of the aisle in the state's upper house.

The Committee on Committees nominated Sen. Taylor Benson, D-Franksville, for the single Senate Democratic seat on the commission, but his party caucus requested instead that Sen. William C. Hansen of Stevens Point be given the seat.

Desired Place

Benson, who has desired a place on the commission for a year since it became apparent that the minority party's seat would be vacant after the 1966 elections, had contacted the committee and asked for the nomination.

Sen. Raymond Bice, R-La Crosse, of the Committee on Committees said that the Democrats told him only shortly before the nominations were made that they preferred that Hansen win the seat.

The caucus battle was evidently the result of the desires of many of the Democratic senators to win the seat, and resulting displeasure over Benson's attempt to gain it without caucus backing.

Benson withdrew before a vote was taken, and asked that Hansen be elected.

Changed Views

Hansen reportedly once opposed the establishment of new UW campuses in northeastern and southeastern Wisconsin, but has since changed his views. His thoughts on the actual site fight question of the Green Bay campus are neutral, according to at least one Democratic source.

Both Warren and Lorge termed Hansen's election as beneficial to their respective causes.

The compromise was resolved through the introduction of a bill to enlarge the commission legislative membership. Presently the eight man body is headed by the governor and has one citizen member appointed by the governor, and three members from each house, one from each house being a member of the minority party.

Increase Membership

The new bill would increase the legislative membership by one member from each house, both being representatives of the majority party.

It is expected that the bill will be given speedy passage for it has been agreed upon by the Republican leadership of both houses. The Senate seat has been promised to LaFave, but this will not be opposed by the Green Bay campus opponents, for it will also allow Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, to make an appointment from the lower house as well.

Assembly Democrats may fight the measure, however, because some of that party's leaders feel that too much power will be given to the Republican party of the Legislature in the measure.

Present commission members support the measure because they feel that broader membership on the body will lessen legislative complaints that too many major decisions are being made by the commission, and not by the legislature.

The compromise bill was authored by Republican Sens. Warren, Walter Hollander, Rosendale, Lorge, Holger, Rasmusen, Spooner, Alex Meunier, Sturgeon Bay, Walter J. Chilsen, Wausau, Gordon Roseleip, Darlington, Robert Knowles, New Richmond, Frank Panzer, Brownsville, Walter Terry, Baraboo, Bice, Ernest Keppler, Sheboygan, and George Borg, Delavan.

UW-Green Bay

State Committee Enters Campus Selection Fight

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Despite pledges that the future of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay will be determined on the floor of the state Legislature, a pitched battle may be fought by the state Building Commission as well.

The fight could result from attempts by both proponents and opponents of the Green Bay campus site on the city's northeast side to establish a commission — charged with the responsibility of developing, approving and overseeing all state building projects — with membership basically friendly to their respective viewpoints.

The battle almost started on the floor of the Senate Wednesday, but was averted when Sen. Reuben LaFave backed down from his attempt to wrest a seat on the commission from Sen. Chester Dempsey, R-Hartland, who in the past has opposed the Shorewood site.

Promised Seat

LaFave won in return a promise of a seat on the commission which will be created through a bill introduced in the Senate Wednesday to enlarge the commission by two members, one from each house of the Legislature.

That bill — approved by the Republican leadership of both houses — will also allow Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, a Shorewood foe, an additional appointment to the body.

But Froehlich also has three other appointments which he still has to make to the Commission.

Those appointments, which may be made Thursday, have raised fears among Green Bay area legislators that Froehlich might attempt to "stack" the Commission.

Froehlich Refused

Froehlich resolutely refused to name his three Assembly appointees to the body while the fight of LaFave, backed by Green Bay Sen. Robert Warren, a fellow Republican, was being waged for the seat of Dempsey, holder of considerable seniority.

He said only that his appointments would come after those of the Senate, when the nature of the fight being waged by the Green Bay campus backers becomes clear.

That move leaves him with the power now to name three friendly votes to the commission — which, coupled with that of Dempsey, would equal exactly half the voting strength of the commission.

The move to add another member, if the new bill is passed, would again leave the campus foes with exactly half of the votes on the commission.

Already Named

Other members already named to the commission include Sen. Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, who has led the fight to reduce the size of the new campus building budget to less than half that requested by state educational agencies. But Leonard is committed to the development of the UW-Green Bay, has vowed to fight a site change and is expected to try to block moves which will delay the opening of the new campus.

He also has stated that he will back increased appropriations for the new school if he can be convinced of their necessity.

Another vote is that of Sen. William Hansen, D-Stevens Point, president emeritus of the state university there, and once a non-believer in the need to create the new campuses who since has reportedly become convinced of that necessity. But he is also reportedly a complete neutral in the site fight question.

The third and fourth votes now belong to Gov. Warren P. Knowles and his citizen appointee and commission secretary, Gerald Emmer. Emmer is expected to vote as the governor does, and Leonard has said that he believes that the governor will vote the way he will in supporting the continuation of planning — and establishing the budget level — for the new campuses.

Delicate Position

Knowles is caught in a delicate position in the battle. When asked last week he termed the fight essentially a legislative one, but then added acknowledgment that it will also be fought out by the building commission. But he gave no indication as to his feelings.

He is well aware that his last vote on the issue — to confirm the selection of the controversial Shorewood site — was the primary cause of large vote drops in traditionally-Republican areas of Outagamie County in last fall's general elections.

The tenor of Froehlich's approach to naming members to the body may be tipped off in his selection of the one minority Democrat allowed from the lower house on the agency.

Four Democrats have been suggested to Froehlich, two with high rank, experience and seniority. A third is young, a relative newcomer, but experienced in such financial and state planning affairs.

The fourth is Assemblyman William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, who has drafted the bill to move the site of the school to the Larsen Farm on Green Bay's west side.

Rogers is young, and has no legislative experience in such state matters. If he is selected, it is expected to rankle the feelings of many older Democrats who will view the selection as a blatant attempt to dominate commission views through appointment.

Other legislators who could be selected, if such a course is taken, are the co-authors with Rogers of the site change bill, which is to be introduced Friday.

To date these include Rogers, Ervin W. Conradt, R-Shiocton, Bernard M. Lewison, R-Viroqua, Frederick C. Schroeder, R-West Bend, Gregor J. Bock, R-Highland, Ronald G. Parys, D-Milwaukee, Bruce Peloquin, D-Chippewa Falls, Hebert Grover, D-Shawano, Sam Orlich, D-Milwaukee, and Leslie Stevenson, D-Marinette.

After an attempt to gain a seat for sentiments favorable to the UW-Green Bay on the Building Commission failed and resulted only in a compromise that produced a draw, Warren said, "I hope we can look forward to a building commission that at least is not stacked against us . . . That's all we ask."

No Injuries In School Bus, Auto Crash

NEW LONDON — No injuries resulted when a New London district school bus and a car collided about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday on Island Road about 6 miles north of here.

Police said the bus, driven by Norman C. Oxholm, 58, 420 Evergreen St., New London, was headed west and the car driven by William W. Kalbus, 24, route 1, Manawa, was emerging from a driveway, when the mishap occurred. About 20 students were aboard the bus at the time.

Damage to the right front of the bus was estimated at $400 and the 1954 model car was listed as demolished, police said.

Another bus was sent to the scene to take the students to their homes.

NEW LONDON — Melvin E. Kretschmer, 52, 720 W. Franklin St., Appleton, was fined $50 in Municipal Justice Court Monday when he pleaded guilty to a Waupaca County Police charge of failing to have his automobile under control.

Kretschmer was arrested at 3:30 a.m. Monday following an accident in the Village of Fremont on U.S. 10. County police said Kretschmer was driving east on U.S. 10, ran off the road and struck a sign. Damage was estimated at less than $100.

Governor Will Meet With UW Campus Chancellors

Concerned Legislators Arrange Conference Before Budget Vote

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A special meeting with Gov. Warren P. Knowles by the chancellors of new University of Wisconsin (UW) campuses in Brown and Kenosha Counties has been arranged by legislators from northeastern and southeastern Wisconsin.

The meeting, scheduled for Monday morning, will be held just three and one half hours before a vote on a proposed building budget slash of almost $15 million in the UW and Coordinating Committee for Higher Education (CCHE) requests for the development of the two new campuses in the next two years.

Chancellors Edward W. Weidner of the US-Green Bay, and Irvin G. Wyllie of the Parkside campus, and UW vice president Charles Engman will be asked to present to Knowles "facts and figures that we are sure the governor hasn't had a chance to see," as Sen. Robert Warren, (R-Green Bay) told Knowles' executive secretary, Paul Hassett, Wednesday.

The meeting is an outgrowth of a session of 22 concerned legislators.

Calle Session

That session was called by Assemblyman Cletus Vanderperren (D-Green Bay) after similar meetings were held for legislators for each of the two areas last week, at which they heard presentations from their respective chancellors.

A permanent group of area legislators aim to fight for increased appropriations for the two new schools, although at least one legislator sounded ominous warnings that such a fight may be opposed by some lawmakers unless the site of the UW-GB is moved to a west side location.

Assemblyman William Rogers, (D-Kaukauna), co-author of a bill which would require such a change, said some southern Fox River Valley legislators would oppose increased allocations for the UW-GB unless his bill passes.

The meeting grew out of proposed cuts in the building budgets of the two new campuses made by the State Building Commission University Affairs Subcommittee, headed by Sen. Jerris Leonard (R-Bayside). The UW and CCHE had requested a two-year budget for the two campuses of about $28.5 million, and Leonard's subcommittee recommended about $13.8 million for the first biennium.

Make Decision

The final decision is expected to be made at the Jan. 23 session of the commission, of which Knowles is chairman.

Knowles has never publicly committed himself on funding for the new campuses, and when asked recently, said that such decisions must be fought out in the commission and on the floor of the legislature. The decision is not his, he said.

Of the 17 legislators present at the recent session only three expressed doubts about the site selected for the UW-GB a year ago. They were Rogers, Herbert Grover, (D-Shawano), and Leslie Stevenson, (D-Marinette).

The other legislators felt the questions of building funds and site must be separated, or the entire campus concept will falter.

Get Support

They were supported by Assemblyman George Molinaro, (D-Kenosha) who said that no matter what site is selected, funds must be made available for the development of the campus in this budgetary period. Actual building funds will not be spent before the site question is settled, he said.

The lawmakers established an executive committee which pushed for the meeting with Knowles, and will call future meetings as needed during the budget fight. Leading the group will be Warren, and Assemblymen Russell Olson (R-Kenosha) and Manny Brown (D-Racine).

Sen. Reuben LaFave (R-Oconto) attacked Leonard's basis for making the budget cut recommendations, and said planning developments of UW officials were far more valid than those of the state senator.

"I don't think Sen. Leonard would hire himself if he had to face this issue, to be very frank about it," LaFave said.

Ask Governor

Speaking of the governor, LaFave went on, "Let him tell us point blank his feelings — himself."

He was joined by Brown, who said, "I want to know the governor's position on this right now. If he is going to support higher education in this state he can't do it on the basis of these recommendations."

He objected to recent press reports relating that Leonard "assumed" that Knowles would support his position on the commission.

Grover added, "I think we ought to call Sen. Leonard's bluff. I think we ought to call a meeting with the governor and call him on the carpet."

Assemblyman Jerome Quinn (R-Green Bay) and Sen. Henry Dorman, (D-Racine) joined in terming the actual funding question "secondary" to the primary problem of determining what type of higher education is to be established at the schools. Unless quality campuses are built — to the full extent of the funding — fund questions are unimportant, they suggested.

Rudy Small, Green Bay civic leader in the campus quest, told the legislators that the city has been leading the fight for a campus for three years. The battle now must be fought by the lawmakers, he said.

He pointed out that recent problems in campus development have caused Weidner to lose at least one top selection for his faculty, and that it will be difficult to name a high level teaching staff if doubt exists over the future of the school.

LaFave termed the pending introduction of a site change bill "a dark cloud hanging over us."

"The bill will never pass the legislature," he predicted.
